HOT LEGAL TILT ON CAMPBELL'S REMOVAL SEEN

Hearing on Warrant to Be Held in Alexandria Tomorrow.

SUSPECT'S LAWYER RAISES VENUE ISSUE

Lieut. Kelly Expected To Be Sole Witness for Government.

ACCUSED MAN CALM AFTER CHANGING JAIL

Gloth and Smith Clash on Text of Release Order; Barrere Is Freed.

Herbert M. Campbell will be taken from the Alexandria Jail tomorrow for a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Barton Phillips on a removal warrant designed to bring him to the District for trial on a charge of murdering Mary E. Baker on April 11.

The Arlington County realty dealer was placed in the Alexandria Jail yesterday by Deputy U. S. Marshal William Schoeni, who arrested him after Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth had nolle prossed a murder warrant in Arlington County Courthouse.

After Campbell had been taken in custody by the Federal authorities Lieut. Edward J. Kelly and Assistant U. S. Attorney William H. Collins laid plans for the hearing tomorrow afternoon. It is likely that Lieut. Kelly will be the only witness called by the Government.

Jones to Represent Government.

Assistant United States Attorney Alban Jones, of Richmond, Va., will represent the Government before Commissioner Phillips. Mr. Collins has sent instructions to Mr. Keay informing him of the case and giving him the evidence which the Government holds against the suspect.

Charles H. Smith, attorney for Campbell, indicates that he will fight stubbornly issuance of the removal warrant. Mr. Collins says that the only points to be proved before the removal warrant is signed are that Campbell is the man named in the warrant, that he was in Washington on the day of the murder, and that he is a fugitive from this jurisdiction. Mr. Smith contends that venue of the murder must be established.

Should Commissioner Phillips rule favorably upon the Government application for removal, it is likely that the court fight will be shifted to Norfolk, Va., where Mr. Smith will oppose signing of the warrant by Federal Judge D. Lawrence Groner. The suspect will probably appear before the justice.

Probable Argument Wednesday.

Mr. Smith has not decided when he will bring his arguments to Judge Groner, but intimated that it will be directly after Wednesday's hearing should Commissioner Phillips rule against him.

Col. Calvin H. Goddard's report of his examination of Campbell's revolver, which he judged as the murder gun, was yesterday transmitted to Mr. Collins and Lieut. Kelly by the Department of Justice. The text of the report which is on two closely typed sheets of paper, will not be made public, according to Mr. Collins.

Col. Goddard's report was positive in identification of the pistol as the murder gun, said Mr. Collins.

Campbell Brought to Court.

Campbell was brought into Arlington County Police Court early yesterday, where Mr. Gloth dropped the State warrant issued against the prisoner. He was then brought before Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the circuit court, where a stormy scene occurred between opposing lawyers over an order drafted by Campbell's counsel for his client's release.

Gloth objected to the phraseology

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The appropriation of public money always is perfectly lovely until some one is asked to pay the bill. If we are to have a billion dollars of navy; half a billion of farm relief, four hundred million of river and harbor improvements, two or three hundred millions of public buildings, hundreds of millions of good roads and other hundreds of millions of pensions, the people will have to furnish more revenue by paying more taxes. It is for them, through their Congress, to decide how far they wish to go.

Already Postmaster General Brown has announced that he will recommend two and one-half-cent letter postage. That may be a logical proposal for, if two-cent postage was reasonable in 1900, by all the standards of costs a half cent more is reasonable now. The old motives for transporting communications at a loss have mostly disappeared. The postoffice ought to be self-supporting. At present business men are deluged with useless mail. For those who can not finance five cents worth of stamps, a two and one-half cent piece can be coined. The alternative is governmental economy. The action of the Congress will be interesting.

LUCAS WILL LEAVE REVENUE POSITION

Commissioner Plans to Give Full Time to G. O. P. Executive Group.

FALL CAMPAIGNS CHIEF

(Associated Press.)

Robert H. Lucas plans to resign his post as Commissioner of Internal Revenue to devote his time wholly to the duties of chairman of the executive committee of the Republican national committee.

His resignation will be submitted shortly after the executive committee meets on Thursday and chooses him as its head. The action of the committee in his case will be final, the group having complete authority to select its own officers.

As head of the executive committee, Mr. Lucas will have active charge of the forthcoming Republican campaigns, in so far as the national committee enters into them. His offices will be located in the national committee headquarters.

Whatever action the executive committee may take regarding the resignation of Claudius H. Huston as chairman of the national committee and the selection of Senator Fess, of Ohio,

Head of Women's Division of National Committee Sets Date.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Louise M. Dodson, director of the women's division of the Republican national committee, announced yesterday that she had tendered her resignation to Chairman Huston and would retire when her successor had been chosen, or by September 1.

Mrs. Dodson was a leader in the woman suffrage movement and was active in Iowa political affairs for a number of years. After the 1920 campaign she became an associate member of the Republican national committee and later a committeewoman for Iowa.

She had charge of women's organization in the preconvention campaign of President Hoover and later took over that phase of the campaign in the Western headquarters, in Chicago. Later she became assistant to Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the national committee, and then succeeded Mrs. Hert in her present post. Mrs. Dodson's present home is at Shickshinny, Pa.

DISTRICT TO SEEK NEW INSURANCE LAW

Dr. Reichelderfer Laying Plans for Revision of Code in Capital.

COSTS HELD EXCESSIVE

A new insurance code for the District will be urged on Congress when it convenes in its next session, Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of District Commissioners, said yesterday.

"There is little doubt that the present insurance law in the District is not as good as it should be and that we should have a new law giving greater protection and safeguards to persons who take out insurance in the District," Commissioner Reichelderfer said.

"Information I have received is that Representative Gibson, of Vermont, intends to bring up the question again at the next session of Congress. Hearings probably will be held, and the new law may be enacted."

Failure of the legislation because of the shortness of the coming session will not mean that the District Commissioners will drop the subject, Dr. Reichelderfer said.

Point was given to Dr. Reichelderfer's announcement by publication of the annual report of Thomas M. Baldwin, jr., superintendent of insurance of the District.

Mr. Baldwin has sought enactment of a new insurance code for the District since he was named head of the Insurance Department, but each time opposition of insurance companies to provisions urged as necessary by officials and members of Congress has resulted in defeat of the effort.

The District "yields handsome returns" to fire insurance companies, Mr. Baldwin declared in his report to the Commissioners yesterday.

The insurance superintendent cited figures in his report which showed that in the 29 years from January 1, 1900, fire insurance companies throughout the country collected $11,250,000,000 in premiums and paid out only $5,839,000,000 in losses. District insurance business, however, showed a much larger difference between the amounts paid the insurance companies for protection and the amount paid to insured persons by the companies. Premiums collected amounted to $34,424,929 while losses were only $21,205,416.

"From the above," Mr. Baldwin said, "one can see that the District yields a handsome return to the fire insurance companies on premiums collected here."

Stock and mutual life insurance companies in the District last year collected more than four times in

BROWN CERTAIN TO PRESS FIGHT AGAINST MANN

Postmaster General in Role of Hoover's Trustee for Delegates of South.

CONTEST TO BE AIRED IN EXECUTIVE PARLEY

Persistence of Would-Be Patronage Machine Is Cause of Worry.

FRIENDS OF COLONEL PLAN TO MEET AGAIN

Increase of Representation at G. O. P. Convention Important Factor.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The organized attack of Southern Hoovercrats, under Col. Horace Mann, against the administration of Southern political affairs by Postmaster General Brown is not likely to cause any change in the latter's policy.

Indications were yesterday that, regardless of what form and proportions the Mann fight takes, the administration here is determined to hold on to the Southern delegates and not let them fall into the hands of an outsider.

Carried to its ultimate conclusion, it would mean that the Republican convention in 1932 would recognize only the administration delegates regardless of how regularly constituted may be the Mann followers, just as was done in the Taft convention of 1912.

Show Unusual Tenacity.

It does not seem plausible that the Mann followers could carry on this for long, with no patronage to sustain them, but the fact that they are still up and kicking after being ousted reveals a determination not heretofore associated with Southern Republicans.

The whole Southern question will undoubtedly come in for discussion, informally at least, at the meeting Thursday of the executive committee, called to accept Claudius Huston's resignation as chairman and to appoint Senator Fess as his successor and Robert H. Lucas, internal revenue commissioner, as chairman of the executive committee.

In many Republican quarters there is a growing belief that something must be done about the Southern situation.

Will Hold Another Meeting.

The Mann followers who gathered near Savannah, Ga., Saturday from ten Southern States, resolved feelingly against Mr. Brown and took steps to incorporate as a permanent organization, are to meet again in Atlanta on August 15.

They will have no voice in Thursday's meeting here of the executive committee because none of their

INTENSE HEAT AND DROUGHT PERIL NATION

Drinking Water on Sale in West Virginia; Emporia Broils at 114.

As local temperatures rose to the 100th mark yesterday for the eighth time this summer, President Hoover was advised that drought throughout the country will assume the proportions of a national catastrophe unless considerable rain falls within the next 30 days.

From all sections Associated Press dispatches brought tales of parched pastures, ruined crops, loss of live stock and fish, and scores of prostrations. The official high reading at the local Weather Bureau yesterday was 101.8, while the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk registered 104. Comparatively low humidity tempered the sun's merciless rays and but two prostrations were reported here.

Mrs. Bertha Brown, 38, a laundress employed at the Pioneer Laundry on Rhode Island avenue, was overcome at her work, and late last night had not recovered consciousness at Casualty Hospital, where her condition was said to be serious. She lives at 660 Wharton place northeast.

No Relief Today.

James P. Jenkins, colored truck driver living at 1704 Vermont avenue northwest, was overcome while driving his vehicle, which struck another machine and turned over. Jenkins was treated at Freedmen's Hospital for minor hurts.

Today is expected to be another scorcher, with no rain in sight. A new official record for continued torrid weather was established here yesterday, when the mercury zoomed to 100 for the eighth time this year.

Speaking over station WLS in Chicago yesterday, Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, urged bankers and business men in agricultural communities to extend special help to farmers needing cattle feed. The drought has ruined thousands upon thousands of acres of pasture, he said, and cattlemen are faced with ruin. "When herds are depleted by such conditions as are now threatening," he said, "it takes years to work back to a normal condition."

PRIMARY BAN PLACED AGAINST SUPPORTERS OF BROWN IN VIRGINIA

BALLOT FOR POLLARD CALLED INSUFFICIENT

Vote for Entire Ticket in 1929 Sole Test of Qualification.

DISTRICTS THAT AIDED HOOVER FEEL RULING

Radio Talks by Candidates End Campaign; Woman in Race for Seat.

Only dyed-in-the-wool Democrats, specifically and exclusively those voters who did not cast their ballots for William Moseley Brown in the gubernatorial election last November, will be eligible to participate in the Democratic primary today in Virginia.

This ultimatum by Attorney General John R. Saunders, published in scattered points in Virginia during the last few days, came to general attention yesterday in a nearby Virginia weekly on the eve of a congressional race looming as the most hotly contested in the Eighth District in many years to name a nominee for the seat in Congress held by Representative R. Walton Moore, retiring.

"Not only must any one desiring to participate in the approaching primary have voted for Pollard in the election in question, but she or he must have voted for all the other Democratic nominees in the election," the attorney general declared in his ruling. He reiterated also a ruling of a year ago which stated that "those who voted for Herbert Hoover as against Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 presidential election were eligible to participate in the 1929 August primary."

Voters Puzzled at Edict.

Voters were at a loss to know why the 1929 edict apparently was ruled out, inasmuch as the general assumption had been that those who voted for Brown, the Independent Democrat candidate, who ran on an anti-Smith platform and with the backing of the Republican organization, were privileged to vote as they chose in the primary today.

Political observers in the Eighth District recalled that Brown had been given a majority in Arlington and Fairfax Counties, and in Alexandria, the three largest political divisions in the district in the gubernatorial election.

That the announcement of the ruling has not been given circulation of any consequence was attested by the statement of L. A. Popkins, secretary of the electoral board of Fairfax County, that he had not been notified officially of the action.

Candidates End Campaign.

Meanwhile the five candidates brought their campaigns to a close, three of them making brief radio talks last night. They included Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax County, State's rights candidate; Frank Ball, of Clarendon, a dry, and Crandall Mackey, of Rosslyn, advocate of prohibition repeal. Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, is neutral on the prohibition question, and E. J. DeJarnette, of Orange, advocates issuance of a quart of liquor a week.

Entry of the first woman candidate in a national race in the State, an out-and-out prohibition fight, and the forecast defeat of an incumbent stirred interest of voters in the Second, Fifth and Eighth Virginia Districts last night.

The woman is Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, of Norfolk, who is seeking the nomination in the Second District. The wet-dry battle is slated in the Eighth District, while in the Fifth District voters were confronted with the scheduled spectacle of the defeat of Representative Joseph Whitehead. A

SHOT TO SAVE LIFE, SAYS JAKE CUBBAGE

Hill Billy Patriarch Tells Jurors at Luray Why He Killed Grandson, 19.

40 WITNESSES HEARD

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Aug. 4.—A frail, wizened hill billy patriarch, the "peacemaker of Cubbage Hollow," told a jury in the opening of his trial for murder in Paige County Court late today that he shot and killed his grandson when "he kept comin' after me, and I had to save myself; I didn't aim to kill him."

The elderly man is "Uncle" Jake Cubbage, whose trial for the slaying of 19-year-old Fred Cubbage in Cubbage Hollow near here on June 8, moved swiftly with the selection of a jury, the frank simple two-hour testimony of the 79-year-old defendant, and the teestimony of 40 witnesses, whose declarations scored heavily in the self-defense plea.

self-defense plea.

"On the afternoon of June 8 I went to the roadside to stop a quarrel between Fred and my son, Melvin," declared "Uncle" Jake. "Fred was a-wavin' his arms around and said that if I would step up the road he would give me what I needed. He wanted to whip me. I shamed him, and told him I was too old to fight, and to keep off my land if he couldn't behave himself.

"A little later I heard Fred and Leonard Lucas a-comin' up the path through my rye patch. I warned Fred to get out. He came too close and made a move. Then I took out my shotgun. He kept a-comin' after me and I had to save myself."

FORMER KENTUCKY GOVERNOR DEFEATED

Fields Beaten for Seat in Congress by Vinson, Erstwhile Ally.

MRS. LANGLEY WINNING

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Overwhelming defeat of former Gov. William J. Fields in the Ninth District by Fred M. Vinson, his former political ally, was apparent tonight on the face of incomplete unofficial returns from Saturday's congressional primary.

Mr. Vinson, who succeeded Mr. Fields in Congress when the latter resigned to become governor in 1923, was leading in the Democratic primary, 14,227 votes to 5,177, on returns from 376 of the district's 465 precincts. W. C. Hamilton had 3,368 votes. E. R. Kendall, Republican incumbent, had no opposition in the primary.

In another race that aroused Statewide interest, Charles Finley, Republican incumbent, was leading Circuit Judge William Lewis in the iron-clad Republican district, 12,893 to 10,479, on reports from 266 of the 540 precincts. The other two Republican candidates had negligible votes. The Democratic race was a seesaw, with 237 precincts showing W. W. Duffield leading four others by a good margin.

Mrs. Katherine Langley apparently had the Republican nomination as usual in the Tenth. In reports from 21 of the 322 precincts she had 4,991 votes to less than 700 each for her opponents. In this mountain stronghold of Republicanism A. J. May had a 6-to-1 lead over his opponents for the Democratic nomination, with 3,531 votes.

Edison Firmly Snubs 156-Year-Old Turk

Places Four Guards to Prevent Visit From Would-Be Guest.

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Thomas A. Edison, who somehow breaks into the newspapers now and then himself, took offense today at a press agent's exploit, and with the utmost emphasis snubbed Zaro Agha, the elderly Turk, who boasts of being 156 years old and eleven times a widower.

Mr. Edison went so far as to have a special guard of four policemen in addition to the regular guard, placed around his home at Llewellyn Park, to keep the aged Zaro from calling on him; and Barney Heston, acting chief of police, went so far as to say that if the Turk tried to crash the gate and see Mr. Edison he would be "run out of town."

All this developed after it had somehow got into some of the newspapers that Mr. and Mrs. Edison were going to entertain Zaro Agha at a lawn party at their home today, and that Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone might be present. Mrs. Edison was indignant; she had no intention whatever of entertaining a Turk, who had been widely publicized as kissing chorus girls. Mr. Edison was indignant that any one should exploit the personalities of Mr. Ford and Mr. Firestone.

The police arrangements were made after Calvin Harris, the Turk's manager and press agent, was said to have spoken sharp words to Col. Frank R. Schell, Mr. Edison's assistant, about Zaro's coming anyway. Mr. Harris maintained he had made his calling arrangements directly with the Edisons, and that no intermediary had anything to do with it.

While the Turk exercised his new set of teeth at a luncheon which the Jersey City Chamber of Commerce gave at the Elks Club, Mr. Harris anxiously waited for word as to whether, at least, a call at Mr. Edison's laboratory would be permitted. He later heard not. He maintained that he had received a telegram, in response to one offering to call, saying: "Mr. and Mrs. Edison will be pleased to receive Zaro Agha on Monday afternoon." It was said to have been signed merely "Secretary."

The Edison version was that permission had been given for the Turk to go through the laboratory, with the possibility that Mr. Edison might see him if he felt well enough.

Mrs. Hoover to Christen Ship With Water Today

President's Wife Will Leave Capital This Morning for Camden to Be Sponsor at Launching of Merchant Marine Liner Excalibur.

(Associated Press.)

A cooling splash from the hand of Mrs. Herbert Hoover will christen in chilly spring water the merchant marine ship Excalibur today at Camden.

At exactly the turn of the tide, which chances to be at 11 a. m., Mrs. Hoover will break the bottle which will send the Excalibur into the sea. She will leave Washington by train at 7 a. m.

The Excalibur is a passenger-cargo vessel of 8,000 gross tons and will ply between New York City and Alexandria Egypt. Its length is 450 feet, its width 61 feet 6 inches. It has a sea speed of 14 knots, enabling it to make the voyage to Egypt in twelve to fourteen days. Its maximum passenger capacity is 150 persons.

So far as officials of the American Export Line, owner of the Excalibur, have been able to ascertain, it is the first peace-time merchant ship ever to have a President's wife as its sponsor. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, however, was said to have christened two merchant vessels used as transports for troops.

Mrs. Hoover's acceptance of the invitation to christen the Excalibur, namesake of King Arthur's mighty sword of jeweled hilt, which rose from the sea, was regarded as a gesture symbolizing the awakened national interest in American-flag shipping.

At Camden, Mrs. Hoover will employ the modern, or pendulum, method of bottle bursting instead of the ancient break-neck style.

When the American merchant marine was in its hey-dey, before the Civil War, the sponsor at a launching grasped the champagne bottle firmly about the neck, lifted it high, and brought it down sharply on the prow —and flax mingled with ocean spray.

Mrs. Hoover, however, will merely

45 New Probation Officers Will Ease Court Congestion

Department of Justice Expects Appointments Will Also Prove Economy Measure; Names of Those Slated for Posts Not Revealed.

(Associated Press.)

An extension of the Federal probation system by appointment of 45 probation officers in addition to the 9 now serving was announced yesterday by the Department of Justice.

Appropriations for this purpose were approved at the last session of Congress, and the department has now decided where the men will be stationed. No mention of who the appointees may be was made.

Two probation officers will be assigned to each of the following districts: Massachusetts, southern New York, eastern Pennsylvania, western Pennsylvania, southern West Virginia, Minnesota, eastern Kentucky, northern Illinois.

The following districts will have one probation officer each: Southern Alabama, Arizona, eastern Arkansas, northern California, southern Florida, northern and southern Georgia, southern Illinois, northern Indiana, southern Iowa, western Kentucky, eastern Louisiana, Maryland, eastern and western Michigan, eastern and western Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, eastern, northern and western New York, eastern North Carolina, northern Ohio, northern Oklahoma, western South Carolina, South Dakota, western Tennessee, eastern, southern and northern Texas, western Washington.

No appointments can be made in other districts, the department said, until Congress makes further appropriations.

The program is intended to reduce congestion in Federal prisons and the department expects it also to prove a measure of economy. It said that a single probation officer at $4,000 a year can supervise 100 probationed prisoners, who would require an outlay of $25,000 a year if kept in prison.

member of the House from Virginia has not been defeated for renomination in years.

Other District Nominees.

In the other seven districts in Virginia no primaries will be held Tuesday because nominees have either been chosen in convention or by delegated party committees, the latter being true where there was no opposition for the post.

Democratic nominees in the other districts are:

First—S. Otis Bland, incumbent; third, A. J. Montague, incumbent; Fourth, P. H. Drewry, incumbent; Sixth, C. A. Woodrum, incumbent; Seventh, Judge John W. Fishburne, of Charlottesville, making his first race, being unopposed; Ninth, John W. Flannagan, making his first race as a convention choice; and Tenth, Harry St. George Tucker, incumbent.

The Eighth District fight is an unusual one for Virginia since enactment of the eighteenth amendment. It is the first time that three candidates seeking the nomination in a rural district (with the exception of Alexandria) have had the courage to come out boldly and favor modification or repeal of the dry act.

West Virginia Man Commits Suicide

Body Is Found in Hotel at Cumberland After Shot Is Heard.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 4.—A man who registered at the Brunswick Hotel as Charles Howard Morgan, Belingh, W. Va., committed suicide in his room tonight by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. A report was heard and when officers forced their way into his room he was found dead on the bed with a pistol clutched in his right hand.

Papers and cards found on Morgan indicated he was a resident of Clarksburg, W. Va., and was an express agent. A number of protested checks were found on him and correspondence between Morgan and a brother, an insurance agent in New York State, would indicate that they had been "kiting" checks.

A letter addressed to Mrs. Morgan, at Clarksburg, which started off, "Dear Pet," had not been mailed. A card among his papers showed Morgan as a member of Ali Ghan Temple, Mystic Shrine, this city. Morgan had been drinking. Only 75 cents was found on him.

Traffic Relations With States Aim

Commissioners Name Men to Confer With Maryland and Virginia.

Development of closer relations between District and Maryland and Virginia authorities in the regulation of traffic is aimed at by the District Commissioners who have named a special committee of District officials to act as a board to confer with authorities of Maryland and Virginia on traffic matters.

Capt. Herbert C. Whitehurst, chairman of the special traffic committee appointed recently by the Commissioners to revise District regulations, was named chairman of the group to confer with Maryland and Virginia authorities. Inspector E. W. Brown, assistant superintendent of police in charge of the Traffic Bureau, and William H. Harland, director of traffic, were named as the other two members.

Capt. Whitehurst indicated that he will await completion of the District traffic committee's work on District regulations before taking up matters at length with the Maryland and Virginia authorities but that matters demanding immediate attention will be dealt wih as they arise.

Firefighters Gain In Northern Idaho

Eastern Washington Regions Also Report Blazes Are Under Control.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Forest fire fighters on a half dozen fronts in eastern Washington and northern Idaho were encouraged today by dying blazes and promises of rain. In some sections, however, violent electrical storms accompanied by brief downpours were seen as menace rather than an aid.

The supervisor of the Pend Oreille forest in northeastern Washington reported three fires there under control. Similar conditions were reported in the Cour d'Alene forest of north Idaho and fightres in the St. Maries' forest of north Idaho said they expected to control a small fire there.

Another fire in the Crescent Lake district in Canada, believed to be of incendiary origin, was reported to be spreading southward in heavy flash timber. No reports were received from the Cold Water front in the Selway forest of central daho where a 2,000-acre fire was burning.

Bayreuth Mourns Siegfried Wagner

City Draped in Black, but Annual Music Festival Will Gon On.

Bayreuth, Germany, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Sigfried Wagner, son of the famous composer, Richard Wagner, died here today from a heart attack at the age of 61.

His death deeply shocked the large international audiences attending the annual festival of Wagner music and plunged the city into mourning. At his deathbed were only his wife and a physician.

Within a few hours after the news became known most of the buildings in the city were draped with black, in mourning for the last male descendant of the illustrious family. In the Wagnerian tradition, the body will be buried in the Bayreauth cemetery after a public funeral by the municipality. The festival performances will continue as scheduled, despite the death of the man to whose enterprise they are chiefly due.

Siegfried Wagner collapsed three weeks ago under the strain of rehearsals for this year's festival.

William Piper, 36, Dies In Cumberland of Burns

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 4.—William Piper, 36, of Old Town, died today at Memorial Hospital from burns about the head and body received Sunday when a stove exploded in a camp at Town Creek, where Mr. Piper was with a party of friends.

Mr. Piper is survived by his father, William Piper, and one sister, Mrs D. H. Harmon, Old Town, and a half brother, George Benson, Warren, Ohio. Burial will be at Flintstone Wednesday morning.

SMITH FORECASTS VICTORY AT POLLS

State Senator Ball in Last Minute Talk Opposes Challenges.

RECORD CLEAR, HE SAYS

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 809. Clarendon, Va.

Returning from a tour of the Eighth Congressional District, Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, formerly judge of the Sixteenth Judical Circuit, at his home last night in Alexandria declared he was confident of the support of the voters at the polls today and that when the votes are counted tonight he would be found the winner of the Democratic nomination for Congress from the the Eighth Congressional District.

Born in Fauquier County, at Broad Run, Smith came to the City of Alexandria in 1904, where he started his practice of law. He soon became a member of the city council and later was elected as president of that body. In 1918 he was appointed commonwealth's attorney and the following year elected to that office. In 1922 he was appointed judge of the Corporation Court of the City of Alexandria, and in 1928 he was appointed by former Gov. Harry F. Byrd as judge of the Sixteenth Judical Circuit, succeeding the late Samuel G. Brent.

While Judge Smith has not gone over the district speaking from the public platform, his supporters announce that through the quiet work which has been going on and which continued until a late hour last night in every section they are certain of majority support at the polls today.

With the polls opening at 5:11 a. m. and closing at 7:16 p. m. no stone will be left unturned to get out a heavy vote in the county. Leaders last night predicted that the vote will reach between 3,500 and 4,000.

While many predictions have been made, Senator Ball's supporters are claiming a vote of at least 2,500, while Smith's supporters claim he will come out of Arlington County with between 800 and 1,000 votes, with Capt. Mackey third with between 500 and 800, Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax, who has made a light campaign in the county, is given 250 votes, and DeJarnette the small number of 25, in their preprimary forecasts.

State Senator Frank L. Ball, Arlington County's native son, in an eleventh-hour appeal to the voters of the Eighth Congressional District, speaking over the air last night from Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va., said:

"I am glad that I can say that throughout the campaign I have done nothing and said no word to arouse spite and ill will among my fellow men. Nor have I appealed to either prejudice or passion to gain a vote.

"Whatever the result, my record is clear of any misrepresentation or straddling and no man can justly charge me with either political malice or political cowardice.

"I appeal to all my followers to act cleanly in all matters arising at the polls; to keep their heads regardless of the tactics that may be employed by any one else, and to see that the last vote that is friendly to me is gotten into the ballot box and then whatever the result we will have no regrets.

"My own conviction is that attempts to challenge votes at the polls on the grounds of the vote during the last two yaers will result in resort to the courts and a complete upset of our primary law."

In conclusion Senator Ball said: "I am strongly in favor of prohibition and anything that will help to strengthen it.

"I am in favor of clamping down the lid on immigration and cleaning out those undesirable aliens who have gotten into our country and are breeding Bolshevism and disobedience and disrespect for our laws.

"I favor a large increase in Federal appropriations for roads so that State road funds can be released for farm-to-market roads.

"I also favor the cutting of the red tape in the Veterans' Bureau and granting proper relief to needy veterans without resorting to political pull.

"I favor a square deal to labor at all times."

The State Commission on Workmen Compensation Insurance, composed of members from the General Assembly, together with two members appointed from the outside by Gov. John Garland Pollard, will meet at Norfolk Saturday, August 9, according to an announcement made last night by Hugh Reid, member of the commissino from the House of Delegates.

Those comprising the commission are F. B. Greear, from Wise County, and Hugh Reid, from Arlington County, from the House of Delegtaes; Senator Waller Holliday, from Richmond, and Senator John A. Lesner, from Norfolk, from the Senate, and Dr. Robert Tucker, from Washington and Lee University, and Dr. J. A. Chandler, president of William and Mary College, appointed by the governor.

Meeting in the office of Emery N. Hosmer, opposite the county courthouse, yesterday, the newly appointed Arlington County Board of Tax Equalization perfected its organization with the election of Emery N. Hosmer, chairman, and A. F. Thelander, secretary.

Chairman Hosmer gave out the following statement at the conclusion of the meeting:

"The purpose and policy of the Board of Equalization will be to distribute the burden of real estate taxes upon a just and equitable basis. It is elemental that all should share equally the benefits made possible at the expense of the public purse, and by the same token should bear equally the burden imposed by the tax laws provided for that purpose.

"In the final analysis the burden of all is usually effected by unequalities in the assessment of taxes. The underassessed becomes a burden upon his fellow citizen and the overassessed person has a millstone around his neck.

"To the end that the burden of taxation may rest equally upon all of the citizens of Arlington County, the board now enters upon the duties imposed upon it by law.

"The board will sit at and for such time or times as may be necessary to discharge the duties imposed upon it for the relief of the taxpayers of the county. Public notice will be given of each meeting at least ten days beforehand by publication in one of the county papers and by posting notices at the courthouse and at each voting precinct, informing the public that the board will sit."

The board will meet Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 1 o'clock until further notice.

The case of H. B. Simpson and Raymond Henderson, who are charged with illegal possession, was continued until Monday, August 11, by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday. Both are out on $1,500 bond.

Bag Stolen From Tourist's Car.

A visitor to Washington, Fred S. Young, of Chicago, Ill., was robbed of an overnight bag containing things valued at $75, he told police yesterday. The bag was taken from his auto while he was sightseeing.

GERMAN AIRMEN ABANDON FLIGHT TO AMERICA

Wolfram Hirth (right) and Oscar Weller, German aviators, having been advised by the Governor of Greenland of the lack of suitable landing facilities there, have abandoned their flight to America from Berlin. They already had reached Reyjavik, Iceland, whence Hirth sailed with his plane aboard S. S. Minnedosa for Montreal. He intends to fly from that city to New York. Weller is returning to Germany, which they left on July 24.

MAN SOUGHT HERE AS SON'S ABDUCTOR

State Department Officials to Be Asked If He Has Obtained Passport.

COURT ORDER VIOLATED

Department of State officials today will be asked to determine whether passports have been issued to Arthur D. Rees, a public lecturer, of Brooklyn, who is being widely sought for the reported abduction of his 10-year-old son, Pembroke Rees, from the boy's home in Chapel Hill, N. C., in violation of a court order after separatoin of Rees from Mrs. Mary Graves Rees.

Mrs. Rees and her brother, Louis Graves, editor of the Chapel Hill Weekly, yesterday requested The Post to obtain the passport information in the belief that the father may have sought to take the child out of the country.

Police throughout this section have been asked to arrest Rees, who was last seen in Chapel Hill at 10 o'clock last Wednesday morning when he called at the home of his estranged wife and took the youth away in an automobile on the pretext that tthey would go swimming.

A wire was received by Mrs. Rees last Thursday from Philadelphia, signed "Pem," saying he was there.

Mr. and Mrs. Rees separated about seven years ago. Rees several times since has brought proceedings to obtain custody of the child, but each time the court has awarded his custody to his mother. The latest order specified that Rees may visit the boy during certain hours of the day and that he may take him for walks or drives, but only in the Counties of Orange and Durham, N. C. He was put under $2,000 bond to comply with these conditions.

Two Men Face Charge Of Stealing Fixtures

Described by Sixth Precinct police as having attempted to load their truck with dismantled electrical fixtures while posing as members of a wrecking crew at work in tearing down a Government hotel at First and D streets northwest, two men were arrested yesterday afternoon and booked on charges of grand larceny.

The men, both released on $1,000 bond each, were Milton Wolf, 39 years old, of Fourteenth street near Webster street northwest, and Sidney Wolf, 37 years old, of Sixth street near F street northwest. William L. Pike, superintending the wrecking operations, told police he observed the pair brazenly loading the truck. Policeman W. F. Burke, investigated and made the arrests.

68,510 District Persons Work for Government

Approximately 68,510 persons in the District of Columbia work for the Government, according to a report made yesterday by the Civil Service Commission. Of this number, 13,436 work in the Treasury Department.

The next largest department is the Department of Commerce, where there are 9,418 employes. The Veterans' Bureau is in third place, with 4,755, and the Government Printing Office fourth, with 4,419. The Commission of Fine Arts, with 2 employes, is the smallest unit in the Government. The Department of Commerce had a gain of 1,474 workers in June, due to the taking on of added employment to care for the tabulation of the 1930 census.

Mexican Actress Gored in Bull Ring

Had Volunteered to Fight Animal to Please Spectators.

Monterey, Mexico, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Celia Montalvan, a pretty Mexican actress, was gored by a bull in the local ring today and was painfully, although not seriously, injured.

Senorita Montalvan had volunteered to fight the animal to please the thousands who thronged the ring. When she went in the arena the enraged bull hurled her 9 feet against the fence, but she arose gamely, despite her injuries and eyes filled with sand, and dashed at the beast in an attempt to kill it.

The bull was getting the better of the one-sided struggle when several of the actress' friends jumped into the ring and forcibly carried her to safety.

Egg Laying Tests Affected by Heat

Hens' Production Falls Off at College Park, Md., Tournament.

Special to The Washington Post.

College Park, Md., Aug. 4.—Weather conditions during the thirty-ninth week of the fifth annual egg-laying contest conducted by the University of Maryland Experiment Station were far from favorable for egg production, the thermometer mounting to 100 degrees and above on several occasions, with the result that production continued to slump. The best the competing birds could do was a total of 2,925 eggs for the week, which when figured on a percentage basis is 41.76 per cent of a perfect score. This is exactly 8 points down from the production of the previous week and 15 below the mark in the corresponding week of the previous contest.

No changes occurred in the line-up of the leading pens for total production to date. The entry of Mount Hope Farm, Williamstown, Mass., leads with a total of 2,083 eggs. The pen of L. R. Douglas, Kinsale, Va., is close behind, in second place, with a score of 2,053 eggs. There is a tie for third place between the respective entries of Confidence Farms, Anacostia, D. C., and Jack Lynch, Mansfield Depot, Conn., each pen having a total of 2,014 eggs. All of the four leading pens are White Leghorns.

High hen, No. 1, in the pen of Ehmann Poultry Farm, Allison Park, Pa., produced a 5 for the week to run her total score to 246 eggs. Average individual production is 163.4 eggs, the thousand birds having a grand total of 163,427 eggs produced during the 39 weeks that the contest has run.

German Embassy Secretary Robbed

Diplomats Clothing Taken in $1,600 Apartment Theft, Regained.

Clothing valued at more than $1,600 was stolen from an apartment house on Nineteenth street near M street northwest, according to a report made to police yesterday. Part of the loot was taken from Baron Wolfgang Gans Edler Zu Putlitz, secretary of the German Embassy.

Police reported that all the clothing belonging to the diplomat had been recovered and that one colored woman had been arrested in connection with the case. The woman is Lillian Warner, colored, 30 years old, of N street near Sixth street northwest. She is being held at the Woman's Bureau for investigation.

Mrs. Aline Muller, of the same address, was robbed of clothing valued at $1,125 at the same time. The stolen goods included evening frocks, coats, dresses and evening wraps.

$500 Bond Is Forfeited By Man Late in Court

John M. Tavenner, of Florida avenue northwest near Seventh street, was late for court yesterday morning when his name was called to answer a charge of driving while drunk.

Later the man appeared before the court and offered the excuse that he was ill, but Judge McMahon ordered his original $500 bond forfeited and in addition substituted a new bond of $750. Tavener was represented by Attorney John P. Mullen.

One Man Is Arrested, Beer Seized by Raider

One man was arrestd and 10 gallons of beer were seized yesterday when First Precinct police raided an alleged saloon on New York avenue northwest near Thirteenth street.

Detective H. G. Wannamaker led the raiders, who arrested George A. Clarke, 30 years old, of Twenty-second street near M street northwest. Clarke was charged with possession and maintaining a nuisance.

GOTWALS SEEKING REMOVAL OF DUMP

Arlington County Asked to Stop Buruing Trash at Highway Bridge.

PLACE HELD EYESORE

Elimination of the dump adjacent to the flying fields at the south end of the Highway Bridge is being sought by Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner of the District.

Maj. Gotwals has written to officials of Arlington County, Va., asking them to cooperate in a plan to end the practice of burning trash on the dump. If the Arlington County officials agree, Ma. Gotwals said, the District government will bend every effort to find a new place to dump its trash pending completion of the new high-pressure incinerators.

Cause of Complaints.

Maj. Gotwals declare dthat the dump in Arlington County is an "eyesore" and its use should not be continued. It is alongside the main approach to the National Capital from the South and is an offense from an estretic as well as other viewpoints. The ill-smelling smoke from slow-burning refues, he said, has caused many complaints to be lodge with the District government.

Where to find another dump which will not result in a rebellion of residents of the section of the city selected is a problem which has not been solved. It has been suggested that a better place might be found beyond Anacostia and the Army and Navy air station.

Another proposal under study by Maj. Gotwals is to dispose of the trash in some shallow and useless small bay somewhere along the main river.

To follow this plan, however, it will be necessary to get a suitable scow and arrange for it to be towed daily to and from the point where the refusé is to be dumped. Dumping of the trash into the river will not fill the river with debris, Maj. Gotwals said, explaining that most of the trash would remain where it was dumped in a shallow bay where there was no current. It may be that the Army or the Navy will be asked to supply the boats necessary.

Col. Lucien W. Powell Ill at Summer Home

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Aug. 4.—Col. Lucian W. Powell, of Washington, and Fairmont, Loudoun County, Va., internationally known artist, is seriously ill at his country home, Powellton, near here.

Col. Powell, who will be 84 years of age December 13, 1930, was born near Middleburg, Va. During the Civil War he joined the Confederate army and soon rose to the rank of staff colonel. Later he became a pupil of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, in Philadelphia, and afterward studied abroad, in London, Venice and Paris. Several of Mr. Powell's pictures are on permanent display in the National Capital. Col. Powell's home is in Washington, but he spends his summer at his country estate near here.

Col. Powell lives in Washington at 1923 G street northwest.

Maryland Prisoner Wounded by Warden

Arthur Godbold, 28, colored, was shot in the back of the neck yesterday by Horace Taylor, warden of the Upper Marlboro Jail, when he attempted to escape from the jail.

He was brought by County Policeman Frank P. Prince to Casualty Hospital in Washington, where his condition was reported as serious.

Man Whose Car Amazed Rockville in 1903 Is Dead

James Francis Kelchner, who made the first automobile that was ever seen in Rockville, Md., and who operated the first garage in that place, died yesterday at the age of 55, after a brief illness.

When automobiles were first invented, Mr. Kelchner interested himself in the "horseless carriage" and amazed the Maryland countryside of 1903 by driving one of his own manufacture. When the automobile business eventually began to prosper, Mr. Kelchner established a garage which he operated up to the time of his retirement five years ago. Prior to entering the automobile business, he operated a hotel in Rockville, which he inherited from his father.

Mr. Kelchner's wife, Mrs. Minnie Kelchner, died a year ago. He is survived by two children, Paul B. Kelchner, of Rockville, and Miss Ruth Elizabeth Kelchner, of Gaithersburg, Md. The son, inheriting the mechanically inclined mind of his father, is an enthusiastic aviator and owns his own plane.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, from the residence in Rockville. Burial will be in Forest Oak Cemetery at Gaithersburg.

TWIN MURDER SEEN IN FINDING OF BONES

Remains Found in Ruins of Burned Home Held Those of Maryland Couple.

NEAR WEST VIRGINIA LINE

Special to The Washington Post.

Paw Paw, W. Va., Aug. 4.—Maryland authorities were working on an assumption that a double murder had been committed, followed by burning of the victims, as a result of the finding this morning of the home of Joseph Davis burned to the ground at the Kifer, Md., C. & O. Canal lock 8 miles east of here on the Maryland side of the Potomac.

Bones and skulls found in the home indicated two bodies had been there. They are believed to be the remains of Mr. and Mrs. Davis, aged about 65 and 62, respectively, who occupied the house alone. Mr. Davis was lockkeeper at Kifer. The canal has not been in use recently. They were not observed about the house all day Sunday, but a light was noted by a neighbor in the house early Sunday night. The ruins of the cottage, a small affair, were found this morning by a neighbor, Joseph Sherwood, and reported to the authorities here and the Maryland officials.

The house was destroyed. The bones were found under a bed spring in the house.

Authorities say there were no clues as to what started the fire or who did it. The motive for the suspected murder has not been indicated.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 4.—The charred bodies taken from the home of Joseph Davis, which was destroyed by fire early today, and supposed to have been the remains of Davis and his wife were brought to Paw Paw, W. Va., tonight. Kifer is opposite Paw Paw, being connected by the interstate bridge over the Potomac. Neither Davis nor his wife have been accounted for since the fire. The skulls crumbled when touched. The house was a two-story frame. Davis, who was past middle age, worked a small truck garden.

The reported finding of three shells that would fit a .22 caliber revolver, caused a theory of foul play to be held by some. State's Attorney William A. Huster and Sheriff William R. Harvey had not returned from the scene of the fire tonight. Kifer is about 30 miles from Cumberland.

Attic Lover Trial Of Woman Begins

Mrs. Oesterreich Is Facing Murder Charge in 1922 Killing of Husband.

Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich went to trial today on a murder charge growing out of the killing in 1922 of her husband, Fred Oesterreich, wealthy retired Milwaukee manufacturer.

Otto Sandhurber, Mrs. Oesterreich's confessed lover, who had lived for years in attics of Oesterreich's, recently was tried for murder in the same case. He was convicted of manslaughter and because this crime is outlawed in California if no charge is brought for three years, he was freed.

This twist of the law figured in selection of a jury to try the widow. Over prosecution objection, her attorneys asked jurors if they would incline to return a murder verdict knowing manslaughter is outlawed in three years. Jurors accepted by the defense said that would make no difference.

Doctor to Appear Today At Inquest for Woman

An inquest will be held at the Morgue this morning into the death of Mrs. Evelyn Tabler, 20 years old, of 3314 Brown street northwest, who died at Homeopathic Hospital Sunday of peritonitis. Doctors who treated the woman and her husband, Marshall Tabler, have been summoned to appear.

Dr. James William Hart, of F street near Twenty-first street northwest, was arrested by Lieut. Edward J. Kelly and ordered held for the coroner's jury in connection with the case. Dr. Hart was later released in custody of his attorney, James P. Wilks, of 1010 Vermont avenue. He will appear at the inquest this morning.

Alleged Cafe "Bandit" Plain Drunk, Say Police

What Albert Gongee, manager of a restaurant at 1810 Fourteenth street northwest, termed as an attempted holdup, police of the Eighth Precinct early yesterday morning classed as "just another drunk."

Entering the establishment about 4 a. m., Theadore Harris, colored, of Thirteenth street near R street northwest, ordered Gongee not to move if he "valued his life," and told a waitress to "clear out." Seeing that Harris had his hand thrust deep in his coat pocket, Gongee became alarmed and leaped at the Negro, holding him on the floor until police arrived. Harris was charged at the Eighth Precinct station with being drunk.

John J. Sirica Appointed Assistant U. S. Attorney

John J. Sirica yesterday was named to succeed Hobart Newman as assistant United States attorney, according to announcement from the office of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover. Mr. Newman resigned recently to accept a post with another Federal agency.

At the same time it was announced that Milford F. Schwartz, private secretary to Mr. Rover, had been promoted to chief clerk of the office and that John C. Conliff had been named to succeed him. Mr. Schwartz succeeds Philip F. Biggins, who resigned.

Nine Prisoners Escape Arizona Penitentiary

Florence, Ariz., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Nine prisoners escaped from the Arizona State Prison today. They sawed bars in their cellhouse and crawled through a tunnel to the administration building, from where they walked to freedom.

One of the convicts, Jack Hunter, was serving 15 to 30 years for assault with intent to murder. Four others were serving long terms for robbery, and the remainder short terms for burglary.

Justice Cox on Bench.

Justice Joseph W. Cox, who was sworn in Friday, yesterday mounted the bench of the District Supreme Court, hearing motions. He substituted for Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, who occupied his time with condemnation proceedings. Today the chief justice will be in naturalization court.

GUARDSMEN CARRY OWN WATER SUPPLY

District Engineer Regiment Provide Against Drought at Fort Humphreys.

QUANTICO FEELS SHORTA

Carrying their water supply with them, 469 officers and men of the 121st Regiment of Engineers, District National Guard, arrived at Fort Humphreys, Va., yesterday for a two weeks' encampment.

Threatened shortage of water at the fort led Col. John L. Oehmann, commanding the regiment, to borrow 1,500 gallons from the District. The water was transported in a District tank truck. Col. Oehmann believes that the 1,500 gallons will be sufficient, but if the supply runs out the tank will be refilled from District mains.

Members of the regiment had cleared company streets through dense underbrush near the entrance to the reservation yesterday, and today tactical problems will be taken up in earnest. Road construction, pontoon work, fortification problems and similar tasks will occupy the regiment until August 17.

Water shortage at the Marine barracks in Quantico, Va., was still making itself felt yesterday, although the officers of the day said that the situation was not serious. Numerous Marines who were furloughed last week because of the low water supply will return to their quarters today. Their leaves of absence will not be renewed, it was stated.

District's Naval Reserves Rated

Unit Here, One of 140, Is Listed as 43d in Year's Report Submitted.

Out of the 140 Naval Reserve units throughout the country, the District of Columbia unit is given a rating of forty-third in the annual report of Capt. C. A. Blakely, president of the Naval Reserve Inspection Board. The report covers the fiscal year of 1929 to 1930.

The Washington unit, which is in the third division, is given a percentage rating of 79.4. In his report, Capt. Blakely noted that substantial progress is being made by the Naval Reserve in aviation, and stated that this work would continue during the coming year on a more elaborate scale. New aircraft of the service type is to be used, and a system of consolidated drills is to be adopted.

Capt. Blakely recommended that unit commanders train and drill their organizations as practical units, placing emphasis on squadron organization in order that their commanders may be called to active duty in a national emergency with the least amount of refreshed training.

Men Saved After Night On Net Poles, at Sea

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—J. W. Gray, city superintendent of a telegraph company, and W. G. Brinson, sales manager for a local fuel concern, were rescued today after they had passed the night in the water clinging to fish net poles two miles off Ocean Park, near here. Neither was an expert swimmer, and they decided to wait for help after their motorboat sank yesterday afternoon.

Both men were near exhaustion when brought ashore. Gray was suffering from crab bites and from lacerations caused by barnacles on the pole to which he lashed himself with his belt. They said searching parties with lights were sighted several times last night, but did not get near enough to hear their calls.

Capital Boy Reported To Have Typhus Fever

Another case of typhus fever in the District was reported to the District health department Sunday it was announced yesterday by Dr. E. J. Schwartz, acting health officer. William Gaines, 14 years old, whose home is on E street, near Twelfth street northeast, was reported suffering from typhus. He has been ill for two weeks and is convalescing. Delay in reporting the case to the health department was attributed to difficulty in definitely determining the disease to be typhus.

There have been four cases of typhus reported to the department since January 1, including the Gaines case. The Gaines residence has been placed under quarantine rule. There has been one death attributed to typhus this year.

JAKE CUBBAGE TRIAL FOR SHOOTING OPENS

bage, related to both principals, proved of material aid to the defense when he testified that several attempts had been made by Fred to attack his grandfather before the shooting. The witness also said Fred apparently had been drinking on the afternoon of the slaying.

Argument will begin at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

WALL STREET 'WOLF' SOUGHT IN NEW YORK

Lamar Wanted on Charge He Kept $10,000 Stocks of Customer.

IGNORED COURT SUBPENA

New York, Aug. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—David H. Lamar, better known as the "wolf of Wall street," an appellation that has stuck to him for 30 years or more, is being sought by sheriffs and State troopers attached to the attorney general's Bureau of Securities, it was announced today.

The most colorful figure in Wall street's unlisted directory of "bad traders" was being sought on the technical excuse of having disregarded a subpena calling for his appearance before the attorney general last March 26.

He is really wanted, however, to answer to a complaint that he purchased some $10,000 worth of stocks for a customer, but did not turn the shares over to the buyer. Assistant Attorney General Simonson revealed that Lamar would be turned over to District Attorney Crain, if arrested, in order that he may be indicted on a charge of grand larceny.

Supreme Court Justice Humphrey in Brooklyn, today started the manhunt when he issued an order for Lamar's arrest.

The latest escapade of the "wolf" revealed that he was conducting a brokerage business under the name of "Murdock & Co.," with legitimate enough appearing offices at No. 30 Broad street. Assistant Attorney General Wohl, who also conducted the inquiry since last winter, when a new complaint arrived, said the place was nothing more than a bucket shop.

Miss Madeleine Gordon, a stenographer at the "Murdock & Co." office, told investigators that "William Murdock," or a man who calls himself by that name, had not been in the office for three months or more.

Lamar, in 1927, was permanently restrained by Supreme Court Justice Callaghan from further stock sales and Assistant Attorney General Simonson revealed that Lamar will probably be charged with grand larceny, contempt of court and violating a subpena.

The subpena in question was served on Lamar in March at the Park Central Hotel, where a State trooper found him in the swimming pool and served it to him while he was still clad in a bathing suit. Lamar answered the summons, went to the Bureau of Securities Office, but managed to get two postponements of his case. He failed to show up the third time.

Although bureau officials did not make public the name of the latest complainant against Lamar, it was learned that Lamar had sold a call on 2,500 shares of Fox Film Corporation A stock at $21.50 a share. He did not deliver the shares to his customer.

The larceny investigation resulted in a transaction of $10,000 worth of Grigsby, Grunow stocks, which Lamar was given to sell in order that a Radio Corporation of America stock order might be filled with the proceeds. This Lamar failed to do, the attorney general's office contends.

Zion Baptist Picnic Marred by Drowning

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 4.—The picnic outing of the Zion Baptist Church (colored) of Deanwood, District of Columbia, at Turner's Shore, near Bayridge, ended disastrously today when Tommy Shears, 24, Negro of 4407 Sheriff road, Washington, disappeared as he was swimming along the shore.

Three companions, Gib King, Joe Lewis and Martel Cabinus, Washington Negroes, all searched for the body, but it had not been recovered when night set in. The accident occurred shortly after 5 o'clock.

TWO STATES ADDED TO CAMPAIGN QUIZ

Nye Investigators Will Go to Massachusetts and Colorado.

DETAILS ARE NOT GIVEN

(Associated Press.)

Two new States were added yesterday to the list of those whose campaign expeditures are to be scanned by the Senate campaign funds committee.

On the eve of resumption of hearings on the Pennsylvania primary, Chairman Nye decided to send investigators to Colorado and Massachusetts. No details were made public regarding the complaints from Colorado other than that they involved charges of excessive expediture in behalf of delegates to the Republican State convention.

In Massachusetts the Liberal Civic League charged that more than half a million dollars had been spent to further the campaign of William M. Butler for the Republican senatorial nomination.

After a conference with Conrad W. Crooker, general counsel of the league, Chairman Nye said the charges involved an alleged violation of State laws, upon which the committee could do no more than make a report to the Senate.

"It would be a mistake for the committee to hold public hearings in Massachusetts prior to the primary election," he said, adding, however, that a special investigator would make a study; the data would be used by the committee later if formal hearings were found necessary.

After his meeting with Mr. Nye, however, Mr. Crooker said his organization wanted the proposed investigation to cover the whole situation in Massachusetts, and not directed toward any one candidate.

The committee will resume hearings on the Pennsylvania Republican primary today with the idea of concluding the preelection phase of the public sessions tomorrow. Approximately 28 witnesses have been requested to appear, but Mr. Nye said yesterday several of these had asked to be excused.

New Shocks Terrorize Towns in Quake Zone

Potenza, Italy, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The Giornale D'Italia correspondent telegraphs that a new earthquake shock was felt at Melfi and Rio Nero at 12:10 p. m. today, causing a great panic in the city. The city hall at Rio Nero sufferd damage, but none was caused at Melfi, the report said.

Melfi and Rio Nero were in the heart of the earthquake of two weeks ago which destroyed a wide sction of southern Italy. Both cities suffered heavy tolls. Almost complete destruction was caused at Melfi, which is on the rim of an extinct volcano crater, high up in the Apennine hills.

Appendicitis Operation On Kingsford-Smith

Middelburg, Holland, Aug. 4 (A.P.). Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, famous Australian airman, was operated on at 9:15 p. m. today at the Middelburg Hospital for acute appendicitis. Dr. Charles Koch, a Dutch surgeon, performed the operation.

The famous aviator, who had been resting at the home of Hendrik Willem van Loon, the Dutch-American author and journalist, was taken to Middelburg this afternoon for observation. The symptoms became serious and an operation was decided upon.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IT must by now be clearly apparent to the thinkers that the Republicans have embarked upon a program designed to give them a mortal lock on the country for the rest of time.

It involves, in the first place, a recognition that all phases of our modern life are interdependent; that happiness comes only when all of the delicate mechanisms are perfectly attuned. Let one little tense thread of our national life break, and the whole machinery begins to wobble.

So it is that no one department here in Washington has the working out of the pending program. Two departments are engaged, or, rather, one is engaged and another is to begin functioning soon, and the success of the program depends upon a smooth coordination of the two; one department placing a slab here and the other placing one on top of it, a mutuality of purpose and effort, so to speak.

• • • •

THE very simplicity of the program is enough to dishearten the Democrats, to cause them to give up any hope of ever getting in. It is so simple that it can be grasped by the average mind. No profundity of thought is required.

First, the new prohibition regime has made it clear that the country is to be made safe for the home brewers. That, of course, is not happiness in itself. It is but a degree, or in the pending program a component half.

Now with this free reign for the home brewers there needs must be homes in which the brew may be brewed.

HERE is where the new Commission on Home Building and Home Ownership will come in. Here is where it will place its slab in this gigantic Republican architecture, something that will outlive the race to be dug up by archeologists in future years as mute testimony of what kind of a race it was.

It is not sought to give the impression that this commission is to build the homes or to lift the mortgages on those homes already built. Nothing like this is contemplated at all.

But it will seek to make owning of a home easier in order that the cliff dwellers may find it possible to make home brew, too.

• • • •

ONE may not readily think it, but the Democrats can not hope to undo a happiness built upon such foundations as this.

There is the ultimate in contentment for the man sitting in a plush chair in his own home quaffing of home brew and with a pipe and a book. The world might go to the dogs all around him outside without disturbing him in the least in such a happiness citadel.

Why, the Democrats may come abarking to the window and pointing their shaggy heads frantically to things that are going wrong, but the home-owning home brewer will only look at them as if they are crazy, bite a hunk out of a roast pork, quaff again of the beer and grunt.

Twenty thousand years ago Aesop said: "Stuffed stomachs think they are happy whether they are or not."

FARMERS BEG WORK; FAMILIES NEED FOOD

Clinton County, in Ohio, Orders 200 Given Jobs on Highways.

CROPS DECLARED LOSS

Wilmington, Ohio, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Driven to desperation by failure of their crops because of the drought, more than 200 Clinton County farmers appealed to the county commissioners for work today to enable them to buy food for their families.

After listening to their pleas, the commissioners ordered that $100,000 worth of roadwork contemplated for later in the season be started immediately and the men put to work.

Appeal for Ten Days.

For ten days the farmers had been appealing to the commissioners individually for work, and received promise of work when road improvements were started later. Today they came en masse in rattle-trap automobiles and on foot. They chose Erakin R. Hayes, secretary of the Wilmington Automobile Club, as their spokesman. He led them to the courthouse.

Most of the delegation were tenant farmers and farm laborers, and, under the most favorable conditions, crops in that section are barely sufficient to maintain the families. They depend to a great extent upon truck gardens, which have been completely burned up by the drought.

In most instances there are large families of children who were said to have been existing for weeks on the most meager food. Milch cows, lacking pasturage, had ceased to furnish milk for the families.

Corn Crop Failure.

There has been only a scant rainfall in that section since early spring and conditions there are said to be the worst in the State. The entire county also has suffered greatly.

A survey conducted by telephone today by the Wilmington News-Journal indicated that the corn crop would be almost a total failure throughout the county. Only two farmers reported expectations of even a part crop. They listed their prospects at 30 per cent.

Man Hangs Self; Wife Ill Following Beating

Hurffville, N. J., Aug. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—When State troopers went to his farm early this afternoon to question him regarding the alleged beating of his wife earlier in the day, they found John Welsh, 65, hanging in a shed on his place in Washington Township, Gloucester County, near here. Welsh is believed to have ended his life in remrose over the attack upon his wife and because of fear of arrest.

The woman, Wilhelmina, 60, was so badly mistreated, officers say, that she was removed to the Underwood Hospital, of Woodbury.

DROUGHT THREATENS NATIONAL DISASTER

No Relief in Sight With Mercury Hovering Above 100.

EMPORIA HIGH WITH 114

National Grange, told President Hoover that conditions in the Middle West were "more serious than the Nation understands." He suggested that special rates be granted carloads of hay and feed into distressed sections, and that credit facilities be extended to the limit.

Tales of widespread suffering from drought and heat were relayed from practically every State in the Union. Emporia, Kans., was sweltering in a temperature of 114, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The sun continued to burn practically all vegetation. The levels of streams and lakes have sunk, leaving millions of fish decaying on the banks. Fields are parched, and forests reflect the brown of autumn. Forest fires are threatening large areas. Public health in a number of communities was reported endangered by low water supplies, and numerous congregations gathered to pray for rain, and subsequent relief from a drought described as the worst in 50 years.

Cotton in the Southwest has been seriously damaged, and the crop is expected to be considerably below normal. It was estimated that the corn crop in some sections would be reduced as much as 40 or 50 per cent, and the hay crop was termed the smallest in years.

Thousands Pack Beaches.

Dispatches from Wheeling, W. Va., said that drinking water was being sold for five cents a glass, while all firemen on vacations had been recalled, due to the prevalence of forest fires.

In some parts of Iowa no rain has fallen since July 4, and people were hauling water for miles from artesian wells. Six deaths and scores of prostrations were reported in New York, where nearly 500,000 remained in the water at Coney Island throughout the day. Thousands were sleeping in parks, under the care of a special police detachment.

Georgia appeared to be one of the few States to escape serious damage from the drought. Rains in the past two weeks have helped matters, and while corn and watermelons have suffered, cotton was reported unhurt.

Indications of rain in western Maryland were seen last night, but no relief was promised for sections of that State and Virginia where the drought has wrought havoc with crops in general.

Thousands of Washingtonians visited nearby beaches yesterday, and refrigerated movie houses did a rushing business. Hundreds slept in the city's parks last night.

Food Prices May Rise.

Air travelers along the Washington-Cleveland line reported numerous forest fires, acres of vegetation burned to a crisp by the sun, and a number of lakes and streams completely dried up.

The general prevalance of the heat wave is shown in the following Associated Press compilation: Shreveport, La., 100; Fort Smith, Ark., 106; San Antonio, Tex., 100; Louisville, Ky., 100; Des Moines, Iowa, 106; Peoria, Ill., 102; Kansas City, Mo., 108; Wichita, Kans., 104; Huron, S. Dak., 104.

Superintendent C. H. Wallace, of the Center Market, predicted that local produce prices would rise sharply if the drought continued for a few weeks.

Grange Head Suggests Tariff Board Members

(Associated Press.)

Sherman J. Lowell, of New York, an incumbent, and Jesse Newsome, master of the Indiana State Grange, were recommended yesterday to President Hoover by Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, for appointment to the reorganized Tariff Commission.

Taber also suggested a man for the vacancy due this week on the Federal Farm Loan Board. He did not reveal the name of this nominee.

Burglars Leave Empty Handed.

Three apartments on the sixth floor of the apartment house at 2711 Connecticut avenue northwest were entered yesterday by thieves who jimmied the doors. The burglars got nothing for their troubles, however.

MERGER OF STEEL FIRMS ADVOCATED

Hostile Witness, at Action to Enjoin Combine, Says Plan Is Advisable.

CASE IS IN SIXTH WEEK

Youngstown, Ohio, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Forces opposing the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with Bethlehem Steel Corporation today began a second attack on a reputed difference of approximately $7,000,000 between the maintenance and repair accounts of the two companies, as contained in the report of the auditing firm accepted by Sheet & Tube directors in approving the terms of the merger.

Evidence that Price, Waterhouse & Co., which furnished the Youngstown company with figures on Bethlehem, had listed the local concern's maintenance report at $6,915,306 less than Sheet & Tube showed in comparison with five other steel firms, was read into the court record.

Case Enters Sixth Week.

This testimony marked the close of the day's session as the hearing of the suit brought by the Cyrus S. Eaton interests to enjoin the merger launched into the sixth week.

The witness was Hassell Tippit, of Cleveland, a member of the firm of Ernst & Ernst, which made an audit for the merger opponents with the consent of Common Pleas Judge David Jenkins.

Tippit testified that while Sheet & Tube listed maintenance and repair charges at $9,972,336 in its 1929 report, the sum which this company listed for maintenance in comparison with five other steel concerns was $16,887,642. This has been referred to during the hearing as the "six-company compilation." The names of the other companies participating never were disclosed.

Tippit Quotes Comptroller.

Tippit said that W. N. McDonald, Sheet & Tube comptroller, told him that in order to make the maintenance and repair accounts of the two merging companies comparable with this "six company compilation" it is necessary to take certain charges out of Sheet & Tube operating expenses and place them with maintenance and repair.

Tippit was the second witness examined today. The other was Thomas J. Bray, a director of Sheet & Tube and former president of the Republic Iron & Steel Co. He voted for the merger and was called as a hostile witness.

Through Bray the merger opponents continued their attack on what they claim is a wide difference in the depreciation policies of the two companies.

Bray said he believed the Youngstown company had to merge with some other firm and that Bethlehem was the best to get in with.

Lieut. Paris Set For Ocean Flight

Pilot May Steal March on Coste in France-New York Hop.

Paris, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Lieut. Paris, French navy aviator, who holds the world's record for speed and endurance with a seaplane carrying a ton of useful cargo, is likely to steal a march on Capt. Dieudonne Coste in attempting the westward flight across the Atlantic from Paris to New York.

Lieut. Paris has been quietly preparing for several weeks for the transatlantic flight. It was announced tonight that he is ready to take off as soon as weather conditions are favorable.

Capt. Coste also is reported to be ready and only waiting on good weather.

Coste, however, is planning a nonstop flight, whereas Lieut. Paris expects to refuel at the Azores Islands. After stopping there, he will try to reach either New York or Halifax, Nova Scotia, depending on the weather he meets.

His seaplane, the same in which he set the two records on June 22, is equipped with radio, and he will send hourly reports of his position and progress.

Girl, 5, Kills Her Playmate in Row

Colorado Law on Age of Discretion Will Prevent Police Action.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The "age of discretion," as fixed under Colorado statutes, will prevent the arrest or prosecution of Gloria Utter, aged 5, who shot to death her 6-year-old playmate, Rose May Etheridge, in an argument over a rag doll.

Authorities said today the infant assassin, not knowing the meaning of death, having no grasp of the abstractions of right and wrong, did not realize the enormity of her act. Colorado law fixes the age of reason at 10 years.

After threatening her playmate with death, Gloria went to the garage of her home, obtained a rifle and fired at Rose May's back as the latter was leaving the back yard of a neighbor's home, where the children had been playing.

"Rose stole my rag doll, and I shot her," was the only comment relatives and authorities could get from the baby slayer, who fled crying to her home when police appeared.

5 Killed, 16 Wounded In Hindu-Moslem Riot

Ballia, India, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Five persons were killed and 16 wounded when a crowd of Moslems armed with sticks sought to halt a procession of 15,000 Hindus. Attempting to break up the ensuing fight, the police fired into the crowds. The Hindus made a determined march past a mosque, in defiance of a magistrate's order.

Several hundred Moslems gathered near the mosque to prevent advance of the procession. When they came to grips it required heavy police detachments to break up to demonstrations.

Milwaukee Auto Club Is Damaged by Bomb

Milwaukee, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—A black-powder bomb exploded early today on the porch of the Automobile Club of Wisconsin, throwing four persons out of bed, shattering all the windows in the building, and rocking nearby apartments.

Claude Heinan, caretaker; his wife, Dora, and his son and daughter, Carl and Elizabeth, were in the building. A theory that rivalry between automobile clubs in the city was the cause advanced by the police.

ADVERTISERS CAUSE POSTOFFICE ACTION

Practice of "Blackjacking" Publishers Into Using Publicity Assailed.

PENALTY CLAUSE CITED

(Associated Press.)

A determination to end the practice of certain advertisers of "blackjacking" newspaper publishers into printing advertising matter as news was voiced yesterday by the Postoffice Department.

The department said the advertisers to whom it referred had attempted to wield a "club" over the heads of certain publishers by threatening them with the loss of display advertisements if they did not use publicity matter sent them as news or for editorial purposes.

In response to complaints by a number of newspaper publishers, the department added it had been making an investigation of methods pursued by certain advertisers. It said newspaper publishers who comply with such requests might be guilty of contributing to an act of conspiracy against the Government in conjunction with the advertiser in depriving it of revenue.

Both the advertiser and publisher might be subject to a $10,000 fine or two years' imprisonment, or both, the announcement said.

Position of Department.

Frederic A. Tilton, Third Assistant Postmaster General, issued the following statement explaining the department's position:

"It has come to the attention of the department that publicity articles are being offered by some advertising concerns to publishers for insertion as reading matter in copies of their publications mailed at the second class pound rates of postage. The requests accompanying such publicity articles give the publisher to understand that if he does not comply with the request to insert the publicity matter in his publication he may not expect display advertising. On the other hand, if he publishes the publicity matter as reading he may expect to be favored with display advertising.

"Matter inserted in a publication under the conditions above mentioned clearly comes within the purview of the act of August 24, 1912, embodied in the postal laws and regulations and must be plainly marked with the printed word 'advertisement' in each copy and is likewise chargeable with the zone rates of postage prescribed for the advertising portion of publications. Failure of a publisher so to mark matter coming within the provisions of the act mentioned is made punishable by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500.

Warning to Publishers.

"The requests also imply that the advertiser expects the publisher to insert the publicity matter as straight editorial or reading matter without marking it with the printed word 'advertisement' as required by law. If the publisher should comply with such requests under the condition referred to and should insert the matter in his publication without plainly marking it with the word 'advertisement' thus withholding from the postal service the fact that the matter is advertising within the meaning of the law, and thus help to deprive the Government of its just revenue, the action might constitute a conspiracy within the contemplation of the act of March 4, 1909, embodied in the postal laws and regulations, which read as follows:

"If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such parties do any act to effect the object of the conspiracy each of the parties to such conspiracy shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both."

Smith, Roosevelt Hold Second Talk

Both Maintain Politics Had Nothing at All to Do With Conference.

New York, Aug. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith today held the second of their series of Long Island conferences, with both maintaining stoutly—although a shade ambiguously—that politics was not the subject of their conversations.

The first conference was held Sunday night at the West Hampton Beach, Long Island, home of Basil O'Connor, the governor's law partner, and in addition to Gov. Roosevelt and Mr. Smith those present were Democratic National Chairman John J. Raskob and James A. Farley, secretary of the State Democratic committee.

Mr. Raskob returned to this city early today, and despite the assertions of all participants that the conferences were nonpolitical in character, it was believed he had decided, as a result of the conversations, to remain as party chairman despite dissension within the party because of the 1928 Southern revolt against "Raskobism."

Today, the second day of his second good-will tour, the governor was guest at a luncheon given by Mr. O'Connor at Canoe Place Inn, Hampton Bays, and among the more than 100 prominent democrats and Republicans present was Al Smith. So, after luncheon the governor and former governor had opportunity for their second "conference."

California Refuses Extradition of Writer

Sacramento, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Gov. C. C. Young today denied a New York extradition application for the return of H. H. Van Loan, Hollywood short-story writer, on a charge of failing to provide for his 13-year-old daughter, Gertrude.

Van Loan showed the governor he has been paying $50 a week for the support of the child, living with relatives in Connecticut. The charges were filed in New York in Mrs. Van Loan's name. The Van Loans are separated.

ARCTIC LAND ABOVE CANADA IS CLAIMED

Institute of Politics Informed Dominion Will Guard Air Traffic Courses.

RIGHT SEEN IN PROXIMITY

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 4 (A.P.). Canada will watch with a "jealous eye" anything resembling a design on the part of a foreign power to establish itself within the zone lying between her mainland and the North Pole, P. E. Corbett, dean of the law school of McGill University, said today before the Institute of Polotics.

Dean Corbett, who addressed the conference on "Problems of Sovereignty in the Arctic and Antarctic," stated that Canada claims all discovered land lying between her mainland and the North Pole and will probably assert a claim to any land that may subsequently be discovered there.

The basis of the claim to existing lands is, generally speaking, he said, British discovery and such occupation as the particularly difficult conditions of the area permit.

"Justified by Proximity."

"Where occupation is not yet possible, the Canadian claim is justified by principles of territorial proximity and possible strategic importance," he said. "These principles have never hardened into rules of international law, but they have been urged from time to time as moral and political, if not legal, grounds for the appropriation of unattached lands.

"At the present time, the main interest in the Arctic is in its position as the possible future highway of interhemisphere air traffic. The shortest way between Great Britain and the western part of Canada is across these northern latitudes, and the same is true for the northwestern United States and northern Europe. Landing and refueling stations along the route will be a prime necessity and if such stations in our northern hinterland are to be within control of any one power, that control ought to be Canadian."

May Be Internationalized.

Dean Corbett stated that the question of internationalizing the polar regions may arise if expected development in aerial navigation takes place, but that the United States has hitherto displayed slight enthusiasm for such a project, "and without her it would be foolish to think of any such regime in polar regions."

"In the meantime," he said, in conclusion, "Canada, which has what may be regarded as a legitimate expectation of graduating within the next half century into the ranks of the first-class powers, will be found to pay careful attention to developments in the Arctic, watching with a jealous eye anything resembling a design on the part of a foreign power to establish itself within a zone which we regard as belonging by right to us."

Portugal Will Start War Vessels at Once

Lisbon, Portugal, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The minister of marine, Commander Magelhaes Correia, tonight declared tenders for the construction of new Portuguese warships will be accepted forthwith. The keels of the new vessesl are to be laid before the end of this year.

The ships will be oil-driven and are to be equipped with the most up-to-date armaments. They will rank among the fastest craft afloat. A Portuguese aircraft carrier, with a deck for fourteen planes, is contemplated.

Colorado Republican Ranks Facing Split

Denver, Colo., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—A contest for the Republican senatorial nomination betwen William V. Hodges, former national treasurer of the party, and George Shaw, former State chairman, today had created a split in party ranks which threatened to extend into the State ticket.

The State assembly for designation of primary election candidates will be held tomorrow. Both sides to the senatorial race have selected candidates for governor, lieutenant governor and secretary of state, and a spirited battle over designations for State offices is expcted on the assembly floor.

$1,000,000 Fire Hits Fireworks Warehouse

Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Ten firemen were overcome by smoke and damage estimated by officials at more than $1,000,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed the two upper floors of the Los Angeles Warehouse Co.'s building in the industrial section today. The building, housing sugar, olive oil and fireworks, was one of the largest warehouses in the city.

Several tons of fireworks on the top floor added to the danger and forced firemen to don gas masks and heat resisting garments. The exploding of giant "crackers" sounded like machine gun fire, while bundles of skyrockets and Roman candles flared and spread the blaze to other parts of the building.

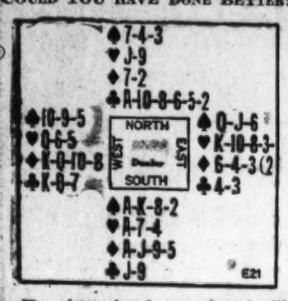
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



The above hand was played with a No Trump contract and South the Declarer. That would have been the final declaration in either Auction or Contract Bridge.

The play started by the lead of the King of Diamonds by West; North, East and South all played small. The Declarer, holding Ace-Jack, made the ducking play generally known as the "Bath Coup."

When East did not play the Jack on West's lead of the King against No Trump, West could mark the Ace-Jack in the closed hand and consequently did not continue the Diamond. He shifted to Spades and South won that trick. South then led the Jack of Clubs; West covered an honor with an honor, but falsecarded by playing the King. The Declarer, however, was too clever to play dummy's Ace. West continued his Spades. South won and led the Nine of Clubs; West played the Seven and North the Ten. This enabled the Declarer to take all told five Club tricks, after which the lead of a Spade insured a total of ten tricks for Declarer—game plus an extra trick.

Could you have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

West's sound play would have been the Seven of Clubs on South's Jack. One of the greatest absurdities is the idea many players have that an honor always should be covered with an honor. In this case the honor should not be covered by a player holding two honors. If South has three Clubs the play will be unavailing, as in that case Declarer surely will take five Club tricks, but if—as is likely—South has ony two Clubs, playing small on the Jack and hold Declarer to two Club tricks.

FARMERS WORK AT NIGHT.

DURING the recent hot wave the press carried a story that said the farmers in Nebraska and Kansas were working by moonlight and sleeping by daylight. The wonder is that this has not become the custom. There is little to be said in favor of midday farm work in midsummer. When the moonlight is bright the worker can accomplish more in the cooler night in spite of the somewhat poorer illumination. During the first quarter of the new moon, by starting to work in the late afternoon and working several hours by moonlight, he can get in the required hours. During the last quarter he can accomplish the same end by starting during the moonlight hours and keeping at it until the middle of the forenoon.

There are health advantages in such an arrangement. It is true that farmers working in the field, even in very hot weather, rarely suffer from sunstroke or heat exhaustion, but it does not follow that they are not otherwise harmed by the exposure. There is a variety of skin cancer that is especially prone to develop in the deeply tanned skin of farmers. Hot work n the field causes profuse sweating. This lowers the salt content of the body, thus inducing cramps of different kinds.

Some farmers overcome this by adding a little salt to their drinking water. The profuse sweating disturbs the water balance of the body and this disturbs the work of some important organs. Some farmers meet this by drinking very freely. A certain farmer had the habit of taking a five-gallon jug of buttermilk to the field with him daily. He grew to be very much overweight and died finally from diabetes. Drinking excessive quantities of buttermilk was responsible for his obesity, and obesity, somehow, is apt to lead to diabetes.

There is some reason for thinking that excessive exposure to sunlight in maturity tends to promote senescence. It is possible that these Kansas-Nebraska farmers are adding to their span of life by working by moonlight and staying in the shade during the hours of excessive glare.

FIND ANOTHER CAUSE.

W. A. D. writes: I had trouble with my feet perspiring and applied corn starch to prevent the trouble. In doing so, my feet stopped perspiring, but a lump about the size of an egg appeared above each instep. These lumps contain a straw-colored liquid. I believe this may be due to the application of the corn starch.

Please advise what to do to bring back the perspiration, as I believe these lumps on my instep are caused by lack of perspiration.

REPLY.

Stopping the perspiration did not cause these lumps to appear. Look for another cause.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH.

C. Writes: I want to know how I can gain and with what foods and tonics I can gain about 20 pounds.

REPLY.

In fattening up, some other factors are of more importance than diet. Learn from the farmer who pens his hogs to fatten them and the experience of Watertown geese. Sleep long hours and at regular times. Do not worry or fret. Take a nap after lunch and go to bed soon after supper. Eat plenty of cereals, breads, meats, vegetables, fruits, milks and butter.

A bowl of sugared rice or crackers and milk at bedtime is a fine fattener.

Fair Interprets the Mode

Paris, August 4.

THE French say a woman is as old as her coiffure. Meaning that when a woman affected a certain hairdress that was an indication of the style of the moment, and, finding it very becoming, permanently adopted it, regardless of the fact that times were changing and with them coiffures which were indications of the times, she had put the indelible stamp of age upon herself.

The same idea, of course, applies to hats and garments. Not that an unusually clever woman can't, but even often does select a certain type of a hat or a certain type of a gown, and wears it from then on regardless of style changes. But, this individualizing of garments must follow certain definite lines that are not materially altered by style changes to the point of incongruit.

An example of this adaptation of individuality to the point of incongruity was to be found in Isadora Duncan and her Grecian and batiked garments which made her conspicuous wherever she went. This, you understand, was quite all right for her, but could not successfully be attempted by another woman.

Desirable individuality in clothes is achieved by Greta the magnificent, who won't wear jewelry for any director on earth. Other women often show less startling clothing individuality by adopting a Spanish or Grecian or Oriental idea in their styles, and more or less clinging to this all of their lives.

* * * *

A certain turquoise blue material with a small pattern in black has had rather a vogue lately. The Comtesse Elie de Genay, one of the most beautiful of French society women, wore it at the races a few Sundays ago. It was a simple one-piece frock with short sleeves, inverted scallops at the bottom of the circular flounce, and a short cape tying on one shoulder.

* * * *

So many blacks and whites! Black lightened with white, white "snapped up" with black. Lucile Paray made the smart ensemble at the left, with a black crepe skirt and a white linen batiste jacket and blouse. And Lenief designed the delightful black crepe dress with white organdy sleeves.

* * * *

We had so much luck with our make-over leaflet that we just couldn't resist making over all our summer dresses into fall ensembles and winter dresses, what with how our tastes may change for next summer and autumn 'n' all. And then I sat down and put all of the successful ones into an interesting leaflet, so you needn't make any errors on your clothes. Don't you think you'd better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for that leaflet? And don't you think you'd better hurry?

* * * *

And you'd better make it a point to look for the weekly Dare fashion letter in each Sunday's Washington Post. You'll not regret it.

I said "Skidoo!" to the Goofus Koodoo
And also "Breeze along!"
But the Koodoo smiled, which got me riled,
Then said: "Don't get me wrong!

High on the shelf are laid;
Hip yourself to the latest guff
And slay me, kid, with 'FADE!'"

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., 6 p. m. to 7 p. m., and 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m., and 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

The splendid astrological influences in force yesterday, are carried over to this date, and you may carry on without interruption or disappointment. Considerable travel. Speculation on the increase, and there will be a large get-rich-quick brigade. Danger in dalliance.

The children born on this August 5th will not be typical of any definite type, but will have struck a happy balance in temperament. They will respond favorably to educational advantages, although they will show no special aptitude for any vocation—they will do all things with a fair degree of success.

Your very good mind is hidden from the world by your diffidence and shyness. You are never quite comfortable with strangers, and you never expect to be liked. It is not surprising, however, that the world values you higher than you appraise yourself, for you are not made of common clay. One only needs to talk to you for a short time to realize that you have sound judgment and a great fund of common sense. You are no good at so called "small talk," but you lose your self-consciousness when in conversation about any subject which appeals to you, or about which you feel yourself informed. Your tongue never lets you down. If you marry the right type of person, the one for you, you will "come out" wonderfully. You are overly sensitive, and nurse useless and imaginary hurts and slights. You must learn that the character like the body is better for an occasional punch. You must not only acclimatize yourself to the world's flattering warmth, but must harden yourself to the cold and stormy drafts of criticism which circle around us all.

You seldom begin a battle, but when attacked you are a bitter fighter, and you can well protect yourself. In your home you are happiest of all, for here you feel yourself supreme. You are not fickle, and there will be only one true love affair in your life.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

WILL you kindly tell me of an effective method of exterminating the long-legged brown garden spider. It is seriously damaging my guillardia and other spreading plants. I have used tobacco dust without any results. MRS. A. H. J.

Dusting with lead arsenate will usually get rid of spiders. If this does not have the desired effect and you care to write again, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I shall be glad to tell you of a proprietary preparation that kills spiders.

Will you kindly tell me the name of the bush of which I am inclosing a few leaves. If it is a wildling will it prove injurious to the other plants and shrubs in my garden? Are carnations annuals? I have a dracaena which loses a lower leaf every time an upper leaf opens. Please tell me how to overcome this tendency.

IDA M.

The leaves are from the balsam poplar which is not a shrub but a tree. This tree will not injure your other plants unless it should afford too much shade. Carnations are greenhouse plants grown from cuttings or seed. Of course, some persons call the hardy perennial pinks carnations, but this is a mistake. Give your dracaena some liquid manure when it is entering a period of growth. Some foliage plants have this fault.

I am in need of some definite information regarding two small evergreen trees. Two branches have turned brown and I am afraid we will lose them. MRS. A. S. LaM.

The following are some of the reasons why evergreens die. Drying out in winter due to winter winds, summer drought, deep planting, applications of fresh manure, insufficient drainage. In the cities also, injury to the lower branches by dogs. It is really best to protect evergreens with a wire screen. Most growers feel that it is wise to keep a perpetual mulch of manure around all newly planted evergreens. Better spray your tree with a miscible oil. Your dealer will be able to recommend such a spray. If you fail to find one, write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I will send you the name of several proprietary preparations.

Please tell me if you consider that a large quantity of quack grass overrunning both my peony beds and my iris border might be responsible for their ceasing to bloom this season. They have always been prolific bloomers and we never had quack grass before—I mean in such large quantities. The iris might need transplanting. Our landlord says both varieties have been neglected for three years. MRS. R. H.

Any grass will absorb nourishment from the soil, so it should not be permitted near the roots of flowering plants. Both peonies and iris are grass feeders. Better lift and divide your iris at this time. Add a generous supply of bonemeal to the soil. Plant them in slight ridges to insure perfect drainage in winter. A destructive root rot makes it desirable to see that all rot is removed with a knife when transplanting, and the roots should be washed with corrosive sublimate solution and dusted with powdered sulphur. Badly infested plants should be dug, cleaned and removed to some other location. When transplanting, watch for borers if present, dig them out and kill them. Peonies must only be transplanted once in nine years. Therefore, unless they are more than nine years old, I shouldn't suggest moving them. In their case it will be better to feed them. Water them every day thoroughly and, of course, remove the grass from about their roots. Give them sufficient bonemeal to whiten the soil once each month until October. With such treatment, they should bloom next season.

VOTING TODAY TO END HOT KANSAS BATTLE

Wheat Acreage Slash Plan Enlivens Contests Around Reed and Allen.

NO CAPPER PRIMARY FOE

Topeka, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—A tumultuous campaign into which personalities and farm relief have been projected was brought to a close tonight on the eve of the biennial Kansas primary.

Holding principal interest has been the contest, punctuated by heated exchanges of personalities, in which Gov. Clyde M. Reed, outspoken opponent of the Federal Farm Board's proposal for wheat acreage reduction so far it concerns Kansas, seeks the Republican nomination for a second term.

He is opposed by Frank ("Chief") Haucke, 36-year-old member of the Legislature and former State commander of the American Legion, who has the support of David W. Mulvane, Republican national committeeman from Kansas, and other party leaders unfriendly to the governor who have joined with a so-called younger element in the party to defeat the chief executive.

Allen Criticizes Legge.

Without taking issue with Gov. Reed on the acreage reduction proposal, the youthful former service man has criticized the chief executive for "undertaking to administer the affairs of the national Government."

The wheat acreage proposal also has been injected into the contest in which Senator Henry J. Allen seeks the Republican nomination for the remainder of Vice President Curtis' unexpired term in the Senate.

Challenged by one of his opponents, Ralph Snyder, former president of the Kansas Farm Bureau, to state whether he indorsed the proposal, the junior senator from Kansas and Reed appointee expressed regret Chairman Legge, of the Federal Farm Board, had failed to "deal directly" with the wheat price "emergency." Mr. Snyder voiced opposition to the reduction proposal.

Capper is Unopposed.

Senator Allen also is opposed by Representative W. H. Sproul, of the Third Kansas District, and James F. Getty, Kansas City attorney and former member of the State Senate. Both have taken issue with his record in Congress since his appointment by Gov. Reed after Vice President Curtis' resignation as the State's senior senator.

Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, is unopposed for nomination for a third term. Likewise, Jonathan M. Davis, former governor, has no opposition for the Democratic nomination for this position.

It was estimated approximately 300,000 voters would participate tomorrow in the primary at which party nominations also will be made for the State's eight representatives. A complete set of State officers, three justices of the State supreme court, State representatives and numerous district, county and township offices.

There are only four contests in the Democratic party and none on the Socialist ticket.

LUCAS WILL RESIGN REVENUE POSITION

as his successor will be tentative in character and subject to later consideration by the national committee.

This fact within itself will tend to increase the responsibilities that will fall upon the new executive committee head. While Senator Fess will be the nominal leader of the national group, the duties largely will devolve upon Lucas.

This will bring a native of a so-called border State into the active direction of the affairs of each major political party. Lucas is a native of Kentucky, as is Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee.

Lucas was appointed Commissioner of Internal Revenue a little more than a year ago, succeeding David H. Blair, of North Carolina. Previously, for eight years, he had been collector of internal revenue for western Kentucky and earlier he served in Louisville as police court prosecutor.

CAMPBELL ON WAY TO COURT

CAMPBELL LAWYER FIGHTS HIS REMOVAL TO DISTRICT

of the order, in which Mr. Smith asserted that the site of the crime was not in Arlington County. Mr. Gloth, in objecting to the order, asserted that since "the charge of murder was withdrawn there was no reason to go further with the proceedings."

Judge McCarthy asked Mr. Gloth why he objected to the order and he replied: "This case has only started. I don't want anything to go into the record that might make trouble later on and I insist that the order be phrased differently."

Gloth Shouts at Smith.

Turning to Mr. Smith, Mr. Gloth shouted: "I know you'll say I haven't any sense and you have all the intelligence in the world. But I don't like your order."

"We are about even," replied Mr. Smith. "Neither of us is overburdened with brains."

Judge McCarthy sided with Mr. Gloth and the text of the order for release as revised follows:

"This day came the petitioner, Herbert M. Campbell, in proper person and by counsel and the respondent, Howard B. Fields, sheriff of Arlington County, and Harry L. Woodyard, jailer, and produced the body of Herbert M. Campbell in accordance with a writ of habeas corpus heretofore entered by this court, and it appearing from the original petition filed herein and from the statement of the attorney for the Commonwealth that the warrant heretofore sworn out against Herbert M. Campbell has been dismissed by virtue of an entry of an order to nolle prosequi entered by said attorney for the Commonwealth.

"It is therefore considered by this court that the said Herbert M. Campbell be and is hereby discharged from custody and the said Howard B. Fields, sheriff, and Harry L. Woodyard, jailer, are hereby ordered to release him forthwith."

Barrere Given Freedom.

Herman H. Barrere, upon invitation of the Court, expounded his reasons why he should be released. Barrere asserted that he was being illegally detained and asked to be released. Judge McCarthy gave him his freedom. Mr. Gloth entered no objection.

District authorities will not need Barrere in their case against Campbell, they said.

Barrere thanked the Court and shook hands with all officials and then clasped Campbell's hand and wished him luck. He will go to Philadelphia, he said, to join Mrs. Marion M. Jarrell, whom he intends to marry.

Campbell Oblivious of Crowd.

As the court adjourned, Deputy Marshal Schoeni served the Federal murder warrant on Campbell. Throughout the court proceedings Campbell assumed his characteristic pose, reclining his head on his hands clasped at the back of his neck. He was entirely oblivious of the curious crowd that packed the courtroom. Campbell manifested a keen interest in the arguments of opposing counsel.

Neither Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell nor any members of the prisoner's immediate family witnessed the court proceedings. Mrs. Campbell appeared at the Alexandria Jail soon after her husband was placed in his cell. She made no comment regarding her husband's rearrest on the Federal warrant.

Before he was taken from the courtroom he turned to reporters and expressed his willingness to submit to questioning under the test of a "lie detector," as was suggested by Col. Goddard to Mr. Gloth several days ago. "In fact," he said, "I would welcome it. I would submit to anything to convince these men that I am telling the truth and am an innocent man."

Campbell Talks to Reporters.

Mr. Smith, his attorney, didn't share his client's views, saying that he had no faith at all in such "fandangles." There is little likelihood that the device will be used on Campbell, since court rulings in the District frown on evidence obtained in this manner.

Upon his arrival at the Alexandria Jail, Campbell was placed in a cell on the second floor. He chatted good-humoredly to newspapermen and photographers who gathered about the entrance.

He stood at a window near his cell and talked wtih reporters, announcing that he would soon have some startling statements to make. Asked if they were in connection with the murder, he replied: "No, they will show the political reasons which prompted my arrest."

Talks About Murder Gun.

"How do you account for identification of the gun as the murder gun?" he was asked.

"I can't. There is some mistake," he answered.

"Did you ever carry a gun in your automobile?"

"No. Not that I recall."

"Do you know of any one who could have had the gun on that day?"

"No. To my knowledge the gun was never out of the house until I brought it to my office in Oak Crest."

"Are you worried about the outcome of the investigation?"

"Not in the least. I will soon be free."

Orders His Breakfast.

Campbell asked the jailer on what days he would be permitted visitors. He was told on Tuesday and Friday. Campbell said he expected some of his friends to call to see him.

Under jail rules the prisoner will be permitted to have his meals brought to him. As soon as he was placed in jail he sent for a half-dozen rolls and a pint of milk, which he said was his breakfast.

Lieut. Kelly declares that he has many persons to be interviewed and that investigation of the case against Campbell has just started.

premiums the amount they paid to beneficiaries, Mr. Baldwin said. He gave the premiums as $22,210,435 and payments by the companies as only $5,302,918.

Insurance written in the District last year amounted to $2,720,000,000 of which $2,000,000,000 was marine, $500,000 fire and the balance life, health, accident and fraternal, Mr. Baldwin told the Commissioners, adding:

"Considering insurance from the standpoint of volume it is easily discernible that a greater valuation is placed upon property than upon human life by purchasers of insurance in the District."

BROWN WILL PRESS FIGHT ON COL. MANN

CONTEST DUE FOR AIRING

States is represented on that committee. A meeting of the full committee is to come shortly, however, to ratify Fess' selection and there are members of the Mann roup on the national committee.

At first blush, one would think that the efforts of the Mann followers to obtain political recognition would be encouraged. There is no question but that they are a much higher type of men than those who have heretofore controlled Southern Republican politics.

Col. Mann is Southerner.

Mann is of the South, and all of his lieutenants also are. Recognition of them would be a departure from Washington control of Southern delegates. But in at least one State it is believed they, sooner or later, would build up a respectable organization. That State is Florida.

Such an organization already exists in North Carolina, but that State is not subscribing to the Mann movement. There was a North Carolinian at Saturday's meeting and also one from Virginia, but both of these States are apart from the Mann movement. The delegates to the Georgia meeting are probably men outside the organization in their respective States and looking around for some place to land.

The Mann movement is composed in part of Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and all but two of the Tennessee districts. In other words, States where, with the exception of Florida, the talk of building up a militant Republican party is bunk.

Would Be Patronage Machine.

This being the case, if the Mann organization were recognized, it would be hardly anything more than a patronage distribution machine. But it would be a much higher calibered one than has existed in the past, and at least with an outward show of having good government at heart.

The question arises as to why Brown is determined not to recognize it. The Mann followers charge that it is because Brown wants the vice presidential nomination in 1932 and wants Southern delegates whom he can control.

No one save Mr. Brown knows what his ambitions are, but his desire to control the Southern delegates is based on something far more important than any personal considerations.

It is axiomatic that Southern delegates must be kept safe for the administration. They are the President's assurance of renomination. There are to be 100 more of them at the 1932 convention than the 167 that were at Kansas City in 1928. Because of the heavy Hoover vote in the South in 1928 the ten States of the Old South will compose one-fourth of the next convention.

Strong With Southern Delegates.

As long as the President holds that group, the temptation is not very strong for any one to oppose him for renomination, and, opposing him, the chances for success rest upon a slender thread.

To recognize the Mann organization would constitute Col. Mann a political power. Mr. Brown's attitude is believed to be that it would be far too much power for one man.

By withholding recognition from Mann and setting up his own organization, one might very well say that the same amount of power is given to one man in the person of Mr. Brown. That is true. But he holds it for the administration. He is, indeed, but a trustee.

It would be most unwise to let these delegates get away, to go to an outsider, Col. Mann. So, regardless of what happens down there in the South, one is likely to find Mr. Brown fighting to keep the Mann movement down.

FORMER GOVERNOR BEATEN IN KENTUCKY

While Mrs. Langley was almost certain of renomination, two other women, both Republicans, fared badly. Mrs. Marie C. Haller, a wet, in the Sixth was defeated 3,763 to 1,064 for the Republican nomination by J. Lincoln Newhall, incumbent, with the count complete. Mr. Newhall will face Brent Spence, Democrat, in November as Mr. Spence had no opponent in the primary.

Mrs. Minerva Allen, in the Seventh, apparently was out of the race. Robert Blackburn, Republican incumbent, had 3,687 votes to 901 for her on reports from 232 of the 369 precincts. Virgil Chapman, whom Mr. Blackburn beat two years ago, received 8,493 votes to 2,458 for L. C. Littrell, his Democratic opponent, in in 227 of the 369 precincts.

Patrick H. Taylor won the Eighth District Republican nomination without opposition as L. L. Walker, Republican incumbent, did not seek reelection. Mr. Taylor in November is expected to meet former Representative Ralph Gilbert, who had 7,801 votes to 3,885 for O. P. Jackson and 351 for T. P. Reed on returns from 260 of the 266 precincts.

In the other districts there was no opposition, and the following Democrats are sure of renomination: First, W. W. Gregory; Second, David H. Kincheloe; Third, John W. Moore, and fourth, C. R. Carden. Mr. Carden is the only one who will have opposition in November, being opposed then by John D. Craddock, Republican, nominated without opposition. Representative Maurice Thatcher in the Fifth was renominated without opposition and the only contest he will have in November will be from Charles W. Marrett, Socialist-Labor candidate.

There was no contest for senatorial nominations. John M. Robsion, Republican incumbent, got the long and short term nomination without a struggle, and Judge M. M. Logan received the Democratic long term and Ben Williamson the short term nomination without contest.

Prohibition Again Republican Issue

Senator Norris Challenges Campaign Opponent to Repudiate Morrow.

Lincoln, Nebr., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The wet and dry issue surged to the foreground of the Nebraska Republican senatorial campaign today with Senator George W. Norris challenging his primary opponent, W. M. Stebbins, to say what his attitude would be should Dwight Morrow, New Jersey wet senatorial candidate, become the Republican choice for President in 1932.

Norris propounded the question as he replied to a similar query from the Stebbins camp in which he was asked to say whether he would support President Hoover, Gov. Al Smith or Franklin D. Roosevelt in the forthcoming race.

"I frankly answer you, Mr. Stebbins, that I do not know," Norris replied, declaring his belief that neither of the three would be nominated, but that Dwight Morrow would be the Republican choice.

"In that event," he continued, "I ask you whom you would support, should Mr. Morrow, who is as wet as the Atlantic Ocean, be the Republican choice, or should Senator Sheppard, of Texas, foremost leader of national prohibition, be the Democratic nominee?"

The Morrow boom, Norris advised Stebbins, has the support of President Hoover.

SENATE VOTE TODAY BY WEST VIRGINIANS

Five Candidates Seek Hnor at Hand of G. O. P., Are as Pronounced Wet.

DEMOCRAT NOT OFFSET

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—West Virginia will go to the polls tomorrow to select a Republican candidate for United States senator from a field of five candidates. Former United States Senator Mansfield M. Neely, of Fairmont, has no opposition for the Democratic nomination.

The Republican candidates are James Elwood Jones, coal operator, of Switchback; Judge Harry Shaw, of Fairmont; former Gov. A. B. White, of Parkersburg; C. Lewis Wilson, Parkersburg businessman, and former Representative Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, of Wheeling.

Mr. Rosenbloom is an out-and-out wet, whose main strength is in his home city and county. Jones has conducted the most vigorous campaign. He has been fought bitterly by Judge Ira Robinson, of Grafton, a member of the Federal Radio Commission, who charges he has not been "regular" as a party man and his only claim of the right of being a candidate is that he is a millionaire.

23 Children Burned At Toy Movie Show

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Twenty-three children were burned, ten of them probably fatally, after their clothing had caught fire from a motion picture film at a child's show this afternoon.

The children had paid 3 cents each to attend the show given in the home of Carlos and Armando Archimarchi, aged 15 and 14. The boys were using a small projector. One child struck a match and ignited a pile of films in a corner.

The inflammatory material blazed up and their clothing caught fire. Both the Archimarchi brothers were burned in trying to beat out the flames.

Iowa Joins in Attack On Railroads' Merger

(Associated Press.)

Iowa yesterday was added to the list of Northwestern States attacking the proposed unification of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Burlington Railroad.

Its board of railroad commissioners yesterday notified the Interstate Commerce Commission that it coincided with Minnesota State authorities in demanding the conditional sanction, given the merger by Federal authorities, be canceled. North Dakota, Montana and Washington State have taken similar action.

An Invitation to the Public

To inspect this new and distinctive passenger train equipment

AUGUST 6

Again the Baltimore & Ohio makes traveling more pleasant on its trains by the addition of new and radically different passenger train equipment.

The public is cordially invited to a special exhibition of these four B. & O. train innovations.

At Union Station
On Track No. 10
Wednesday, August 6 from two until ten o'clock

AIR-COOLED DINER:
The Martha Washington, a handsomely appointed dining car of the Colonial type, equipped with an air-cooling and air-cleaning system for reducing temperature in hot weather. Dust, soot, cinders, and excessive humidity are removed from the car air. The only car on any railroad that has this modern, tested device.

RECLINING COACHES OVERNIGHT TO NEW YORK:
An exclusive B. & O. innovation for those who do not wish to travel in sleeping car berths. Individual reclining seats and foot-rests, a buffet serving light meals at reasonable cost, large smoking rooms for men and women, individual wall lights for easy reading, porter service, and other conveniences.

INDIVIDUAL SEAT DAY COACHES—IMPROVED TYPE:
This style of coach designed by the B. & O. and in use on our railroad for several years. Large double windows and individual ventilators, modern washrooms and white enameled washbowls and toilets, filtered drinking water, and many new features not found in the regular standard coach. Individual seat coaches are now in service on all B. & O. main lines.

CLUB-LOUNGE CAR:
In service on the Columbian special feature train between Washington and New York. Designed and built by the Baltimore & Ohio for this particular service. It is divided into two smoking lounges, both lounges for men and women. In each lounge there is a writing desk with stationery; library table with newspapers and magazines; settees and lounge, easy chairs; card tables and a completely equipped retiring room. This car is for the added convenience of Pullman passengers.

In addition to the above equipment, there will also be on exhibition—

A RUBBERIZED TRUCK:
Same as in all B. & O. coaches and dining cars. Each truck is equipped with 51 rubber pads—at all contact points, where the frame rests and at spring ends—wherever metal touches metal. This eliminates vibration and gives a smooth, joltless ride. The Baltimore & Ohio is the only railroad that is equipped with this latest innovation to insure greater riding ease.

SPREAD OF PROTECTIONISM.

What political urge inspires Senator Swanson, of Virginia, to note at this time the growing popularity of protective tariffs? Senator Swanson has often raised his voice in hostility to what the Democrats term that "monstrosity," the Smoot-Hawley tariff act of 1930. Yet he now calls attention to the fact that dozens of foreign countries are adopting the policy embodied therein.

Senator Swanson has discovered that Australia, France, Poland, Greece, Peru, Portugal, Finland, Canada, Germany and the Union of South Africa have increased various tariff duties this year. The Italians have found that their schedules need revising. Great Britain is evolving an attitude of mind favorable to "safeguarding." The period of depression which has been felt throughout the world has made nations conscious of the fact that they must protect their own industries and labor if they are to prosper. It would be surprising, indeed, if still other countries do not in the next few months decide that their tariffs should be adjusted.

The senator from Virginia gives these nations credit for copying the policy from the United States. He is indeed generous to concede that the principle enacted into law by his political antagonists over his own protest has made such a deep impression on the world. His statement emphasizes the extent to which Republican wisdom is being followed abroad. Without intending to put his party in a hole he advertises the obsolescence of its policy, and gives the enemy credit for international hegemony to which it is not entirely entitled.

A more impartial observer would have seen that the revision of the American tariff is only part of a general movement in the direction of protective duties. The Republicans do not deserve credit for leading the whole world in this movement, as may be implied from Senator Swanson's statement. The increases he notes in foreign duties have been since January 1, during the same period in which the American revision was going forward. But there was a concerted movement for more protection in Europe before the revision began. European nations held a conference for the purpose of agreeing to a tariff holiday, and in order to secure an advantage in the negotiations most of the governments boosted their tariff rates before entering the conference. Generous as Senator Swanson is inclined to be, the Republicans can not be given credit for that.

In spite of this widespread movement, Senator Swanson calls for a sweeping revision of the tariff act. Even if his theories were sound, that would be like shutting the door after the horse had been stolen. Fancy Congress admitting that the tariff act had ruined American markets abroad, and then emasculating the tariff system so that foreign interests could also ruin the domestic market!

Sound economics supports the theory of protection for all countries. Through the encouragement of industry a nation improves its own standard of living, and its people are able to buy from abroad. There are thousands of products that the United States will never make or produce regardless of the tariff. Two-thirds of American imports are in this class. Demand for such articles will continue to keep up a lively commerce between nations, and the more prosperous they become the greater this trade will be. The general result is that each country produces those commodities for which it is best adapted, and buys whatever else it needs from abroad. Each country can provide work for its own people, and maintain its own standard of living. American industry and commerce have nothing to fear from such a policy.

THE COAST GUARD.

The United States Coast Guard, which yesterday celebrated its 140th birthday, looks back on a history that is as glorious as it is thrilling. Created on August 4, 1790, when President Washington signed an act of the First Congress, it is the Nation's oldest sea service. It was originally called the Revenue Cutter Service, but became the Coast Guard when it was merged with the Life-Saving Service in 1915.

After the Continental Navy had been dissolved, the revenue cutters formed the only protection for the infant Republic's merchantmen, which then were being harried by British and French men-o'-war. In the trouble with France, the Pickering, a comparatively small American cutter, claimed ten prizes on the sea and topped this off by winning a victory over a superdreadnaught of that day, a French frigate armed with 44 guns and manned by 200 men.

An important unit of the national defense in war time, the Coast Guard has played a valorous part in American naval history from the day of the pigtail and the cutlass down to the World War. In the latter struggle, six Coast Guard cutters were ordered to foreign service early in 1917, and one of them, the Tampa, was destroyed with its crew of 115 men when a German U-boat torpedoed her while she was leading a convoy off England.

No less noble has been the peace-time work of the Coast Guard. In the past year its 12,000 officers and men saved the lives of more than 6,000 persons and rescued or aided ships worth $50,000,000.

The Coast Guard seeks out derelicts and removes them from the ship lanes; reports icebergs and, whenever possible, blows them up; stands guard over the seal herds in the North Pacific and the Bering Sea, and protects them against poachers; maintains life-saving stations along the coasts, and combats smugglers.

Under the last-named function falls the Coast Guard's duty to war on rumrunners. Unfortunately for the service, the publicity that has attended this phase of its work—publicity that frequently has been of a critical nature—has often overshadowed the record of its more important activities.

PLAYGROUNDS.

In the office of Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, superintendent of playgrounds, hangs a map of Washington, its surface dotted with little blue and black pins. Each pin represents a playground, and altogether there are 80 of them. The day is in sight when there will be "a playground within walking distance for every child."

In 1902, the city could boast of only one designated play space—a tiny plot in the backyard of the old Neighborhood House in Southwest Washington. The story of how the present playground system evolved from that beginning is the story of a long, hard fight in which Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft joned with others to break down the prejudice of cynics who ridiculed the idea of "teaching children how to play."

Twenty-five thousand children gather on the playgrounds every day now. Safe from the swirling traffic, they laugh and play, while they contribute to a healthier and more virile America.

But the playground system has not yet reached the stage where it can be held up as a model. The city is spending only about a third of what other cities spend on playgrounds. Today only three of the seventeen large playgrounds have swimming pools. In the future, every new playground, other than those attached to schools, should have at least five acres of ground; and no new school should be established unless the site be large enough to set aside at least two or three acres for play space.

WET-DRY PROSPECTS.

Whether or not this autumn's congressional elections will be significant from the standpoint of prohibition is problematical. They may be a better gauge of sentiment than was the national election of 1928. Prohibition was an issue then, but so important were the other issues, and so bitter was the passion engendered, that the result could hardly be called a showdown on the wet-dry question.

In the 21 months that have intervened there has been some evidence of a revolt against prohibition if the nation-wide polls taken by magazines and newspapers, if the adoption of wet resolutions by State political conventions and if the occasional hops to the other side of the fence by erstwhile dry officeholders may be taken to mean anything. This year there will be a number of contests in which prohibition will play a part, but the issue probably will not be clearly defined in most instances.

A survey by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment shows that wet candidates for the Senate and House have filed, or will file, in nearly three-fourths of the States, in some of which wet candidates are appearing for the first time in ten years. In Indiana, Thomas P. Riddle, Democratic wet, is opposing David Hogg, Republican dry, for a seat in the House. In the adjoining State of Kentucky, Mrs. Marie C. Haller, a wet, is a candidate for the House seat now held by Representative J. L. Newhall, a dry. A Democratic State convention in Iowa recently came out in favor of a prohibition referendum, and C. M. Jacobson, a wet Democrat, now seeks the seat of Representative F. Dickinson Letts, a dry Republican.

Illinois presents a spectacular senatorial fight between J. Hamilton Lewis, wet Democrat, and Ruth Hanna McCormick. In the same State the Rev. Edwin S. Carr, a former Congregationalist minister, is out after the seat of Representative Ed Hull, a former "distillery king," because, he says, the latter is not wet enough. Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota and Montana all are prohibition battlegrounds. In the last-named State Judge Albert J. Galen, wet Republican, is after the seat of Senator Thomas Walsh, dry Democrat. New York is afire with the prohibition controversy, and wets also are to be found running in North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming and several other States.

Dry forces, however, will have active organizations in every district. There will be little more opportunity this year to make prohibition an exclusive issue than there was heretofore. It may be that the Seventy-second Congress will be slightly more moist than the Seventy-first, but a poll of the aridity of the latter shows that the wets have a long road to travel before they reach a working majority.

"PILGRIMAGE MONTH."

William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives, would designate August of 1932 as "pilgrimage month," during which Americans engaged in observing the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington would join in pilgrimages to the patriotic shrines that abound in and near Washington.

Mr. Page, of course, would not limit these patriotic journeys to a single month. He urges that they be made throughout the year. But August he would set aside as a time for the pilgrimages to reach a climax, this being a month when vacations are in order and large numbers may make the trip.

No city has more to offer the patriotic Americans than Washington. A sojourn at the seat of the Government is a lasting experience. Until one has seen the majestic dome of the Capitol and viewed the serene beauty of the White House; until one has been aloft in the great Washington Monument and been thrilled by the magnificence of the Lincoln Memorial; until one has journeyed to Mount Vernon and to Arlington, one can have no adequate appreciation of what George Washington wrought.

An impressive program is being arranged for the bicentennial celebration. Great orations will be made, parades will move through the streets, the notes of a new, specially composed march by John Philip Sousa will fill the air, but what will make the most lasting impression on the visitor should be the city itself. Washington should set its house in scrupulous order so that no one who comes to the Capital City during "pilgrimage month" will be disappointed.

REAPPORTIONMENT

From the New York World.

The corn belt, the far South, with the exception of Florida and Texas and the New England tier of States, barring Connecticut, are likely to be hardest hit by the reapportionment of congressional representation to be made on the basis of the census of 1930.

The available figures give ample evidence that the old agricultural order, so long dominant in American congressional history, is changing. At least it will find its ranks in the House depleted by the striking population gains made in the last ten years in cities and their suburbs to the detriment of rural communities.

While the city viewpoint will not control in the revamped Congress, it will not be shouldered aside so lightly. The urban attitude and industrial considerations should prove more potent than heretofore.

The census figures plainly show that all the dire predictions of the representatives of the more settled States, made in the course of the fight against reapportionment legislation last year, have proved true in a more disastrous manner than the opponents of the bill foresaw.

Urban expansion, land booms in California and Florida, amazing industrial developments in Michigan and North Carolina and the slopping over of New York City into Connecticut and New Jersey did queer things to the population movement, normally a steady trend westward.

What changes this city movement will work on the prohibition sentiment in Congress and the political make-up of the House are largely conjectural, but the wets are bound to claim an advantage even if the gains prove too slight to overcome the dry majority common to Congress during the last decade. From the standpoint of parties, the Democrats seem to have profited, but their net gain, figured solely on the basis of the contemplated reapportionment of the State delegations, appears meager.

The outstanding feature of the 1930 enumeration is the trick that has been played at the expense of the careful mathematical calculations made when the reapportionment bill was enacted.

It was first determined to retain the present figure of 435 as the total membership of the House. Then the "method of major fractions" was voted in preference to the scheme known as "equal proportions," and the experts got busy with their estimates.

There were seventeen States expected to lose one or more representatives. The "method of major fractions" applied to the present census figures, however, has produced some unexpected results, indicating a shift of 26 votes in the House. Eleven States will gain in their representations. Losses on the other hand are probable in nineteen States.

Under the provisions of the law, the director of the census is required to submit his report on reapportionment within a week of the opening of Congress in December, allotting the State delegations on this system of "major fractions." If the Congress to which this report is submitted fails to enact a law reapportioning the representatives among the States, then each State will be entitled in the second succeeding Congress to the number of representatives shown in the statement.

An effort to block a realignment when Congress reconvenes on the ground that inclusion of aliens constitutes a violation of the Contution will be made in the House. The suggestion has been made that in any event the courts will be asked to decide the question.

PRESS COMMENT.

Still Applies.

Detroit Free Press: The epidemic of tree sitting recalls to mind that ancient wisecrack about all the sap not being on the inside of a tree.

It's Cheaper.

Los Angeles Times: Mrs. McCormick suggests a constitutional amendment to check the high cost of political campaigns. Why not turn Democrat?

Royal Road to Success.

Toledo Blade: A good way to get along fairly well is to keep the mind open and the mouth shut.

Necessary Equipment.

Springfield Sun: Eight hundred hotels were put up in this country last year, and still some people wonder that factories are still turning out bottle openers.

Census Boosters.

New York Sun: Chicago, according to the census, gained 25 per cent in population, but most of the new people were probably Red Cross workers, ambulance drivers and stretcher bearers.

On Common Level.

Detroit Free Press: Now that President Hoover thinks he will be able to get away from Washington for only a fortnight's holiday, instead of a month or six weeks originally planned, there is a new bond between him and the world that gets the "customary two weeks."

MAKING JOBS GO AROUND.

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. shows a sense of obligation for its employes' welfare in adopting a rotation plan of factory employment.

This is a neighborly and practical scheme for passing the hard luck around, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Instead of a comparatively small group suffering bitterly through lack of work, all will tighten their belts a bit.

Goodyear, like many other large industrial concerns, is giving increasing attention to the human side of factory operation. The idea that the worker is a machine to be exploited to capacity and then scrapped is happily finding much less acceptance now in American industry than it did a few years ago.

The heads of great industries are human beings and have human hearts. They also know that in the long run a "hard-boiled" labor policy does not pay.

Stability of employment is the next big problem that faces American industrial management. The efforts of Goodyear, of General Electric, of Procter & Gamble and others show that valuable pioneering is being done in this field.

GOLF.

So proud was he of shots he'd made
The day before;
Proud of the brilliant golf he'd played,
Proud of his score.
Never again with any club
He'd play the duffer and the dub.

But yesterday the drive was long,
'Tis short today.
The proud man finds there's something wrong,
Shots go astray.
He fails to sink a two-foot putt
And something happens to his strut.

He takes an eight, and then a nine,
To wreck his score,
And all his drives were on the line
The day before!
He tries once more, then throws aside
The last frayed remnant of his pride.

Golf is a humbling game. Although
It has allowed
Us all a few good scores to know;
If we grow proud
It taunts us, till we learn to play
In humbleness from day to day.

The Jobless Hero Is Just a Bum Where Patriotism Depends on a Brass Band

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE are two kinds of religion and two kinds of patriotism. One kind of religion is acute and the other chronic.

Those who have the acute kind get reconverted every time an itinerant evangelist comes to town and revel in an estasy of piety for a week or two, only to backslide and resume their pet sins when the excitement wears off.

Those who have the other kind use it as a daily guide and rest their hope upon it when the time comes to die.

Patriotism affects the same people the same way.

The acute kind of patriotism develops fever heat when stirred by newspaper headlines and delights in making small sacrifices and preparing gifts for the dear soldier boys and giving three rousing cheers for the country, but it peters out quickly when the band stops playing and reveals no further symptoms until war comes again.

The other kind of patriotism is a love of country that endures in good times and bad, resulting in consistent good citizenship, unremitting effort to do what is best for the community and state, matter-of-fact and cheerful acceptance of necessary tax burdens and decent remembrance of those who were maimed and broken while fighting their country's battles.

In short, chronic patriotism is a conviction—not a form of hysteria.

Chronic patriotism in England and France gives broken soldiers the preference when there are soft jobs to distribute.

In America are thousands of men, not of our race, serving as watchmen, caretakers and the like—holding easy jobs that maimed doughboys could handle as well and would gladly accept.

Meanwhile a certain rich man is building a $30,000 stable where a horse that served him well can end its days in idle luxury.

RED FINGERNAILS.

Of all the fashions affected by women during the present century has there been any less engaging (and I do not forget the hobble skirt or the peek-a-boo blouse) than that of varnishing the fingernails a vivid pillar box red? If there are men attracted by this new feminine extravagance, they must be few in number, says the London Graphic. To take out to supper a young lady whose ten finger-plates look as though they had been dipped in gore, like Lady Macbeth fresh from the smoking corpse of Duncan, may possibly tickle the vanity of a sprinkling of fantastics.

If supper is bad, breakfast must be worse. From the bottom of my heart I pity the married men whose lot it is to eat their sausages and bacon opposite these incarnadined pickers and scratchers, whose all-too-arresting bloom can not, I am told, be removed in less than a week.

For my own part, I should infinitely prefer a wife with a red nose. And I am convinced that if a census of masculine opinion on this matter were taken, we should feel that here is one of the fashions endured by men in silence only because they know that it will in the fullness of time, go the way of all nails.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Washington Humane Society Needs Funds to Care for Animals During the Hot Weather.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Summer is half over and most of us have either had or expect to have a vacation. Again this year I would suggest that we try to spare a little from our vacation fund for our child and animal friends who must depend upon our kindness for any relief from crowded, hot city quarters, toil and neglect.

The president of the Washington Humane Education Society would greatly appreciate funds for vacations of one or two weeks for tired horses at the society's Be Kind to Animals Rest Farm near Potomac, Md., and will be glad to hear of horses in need of such and arrange with their owners for the loan of substitute horses if the owners prove worthy and depend wholly upon their horses for their living. A couple of dollars will provide green pastures, grain, welcome shade and grateful rest for a whole week for each of such faithful, patient servants of man.

The agents of the Humane Society are especially busy during the heated term attending to cases of suffering among both horses and the four-footed victims of man's appetite in markets, large and small, and increased membership in the society encourages their efforts.

The work of the Animal Rescue League is doubled and tripled during vacation time because of calls for many pets given up by owners going away, all sorts of pitiful cases of desertion, the usual summer "kitten crop," and this year especially, because of need for rescuing many cats from buildings which are being torn down. Funds are needed for these increases in service to the public over the ordinary running expenses furnished by the Community Chest.

VIRGINIA W. SARGENT.

More Baseball Reminiscences of "Henry Ward Bleacher."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the reminiscent warmth of this ideal August afternoon I am wondering whether a seasoned baseball fan is not likely to have more satisfaction in watching the struggles of a tail-end team than those of a pennant contender.

It is true that the delight in a protracted winning streak by a pennant contender is excelled by that of no other sport. But the breaks of a close-played game are sometimes heart-breaking in a pennant fight, and the loss of no more than a game or so shrouds the cheeriest fan in the darkness of despair. Washington is just now in the throes of pennant hopes and fears, and one must admit that as regards fandom in general, this is something awful.

The tail-end fan, win or lose, is in an attitude to enjoy the fine points of the game itself to a greater extent than when the pennant fever beats his brain. If the local club loses a game he is not heart-broken, and if it wins his heart glows with a thrill none the less welcome because it is unexpected. And when some fine day the tail-ender smothers a pennant aspirant in a well-played game, the jolly occasion is certainly worth the price of admission.

There are tail-end fans still alive who will remember many such occasions in the early days of our ball yard. The grand stand in which they sat did not amount to much. It knew no ladies' day, sheltered none but rabid fans, and would have collapsed if any one had dared to call it a stadium. But what a racket would be raised in the old rattletraps! The shouts of today's fair-weather fans, 30,000 strong, do not excel the uproar raised by the tail-end fans of the past whenever the opposition was mowed down in one-two-three order, with Walter Johnson in the box.

HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

The Wanting-to-Be-Helpful Attitude Is Not Always Encouraged in Government Service.

To the Editor of The Post: Sir: Calvin Coolidge in one of his articles asserted, "Some people are much afraid of doing something for which they are not paid." That is, as we should all agree, a very poor attitude for any person to take, whether in connection with a private business concern or in the employ of the Federal Government.

Mr. Coolidge said further: "Success comes to people who are not considering the narrow question of what they are paid for but the broad question of what they can do to be helpful. It is that attitude which leads to promotion of the individual, the profit of the business and the prosperity of the Nation."

As a general rule recognition of this very appreciable trait in people employed in the business world is a the present time more than ever a recognized fact.

But in Government Service throughout the various executive departments such recognition, I am sorry to say, from experience and general observation for the past twelve years, is very seldom granted; in fact, wanting-to-be-helpful attitude is frowned upon in most of the departments.

Says Police Should Escort Bank Messengers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In my opinion the bank messenger should have a police escort whenever delivering a large sum of money.

The cost of employing Metropolitan Police officers as escorts would not total much.

I am sure that Maj. Pratt would most heartily approve of the plan of having some of his men designated especially for the escorting of bank messengers. These officers should be especially qualified in marksmanship.

I feel confident that the recent holdups here can be traced to gangsters driven from other cities.

The Bankers' Association of the District of Columbia should plan for the future protection of bank messengers.

Engagement Of Miss Ryan Is Announced

Virginia Girl to Marry Mr. Ronald Bassett, of London.

The engagement of Miss Caroline Clendenin Ryan, daughter of Mrs. Clendenin J. Ryan, of New York, and granddaughter of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, of New York and Virginia, to Mr. Ronald Lambert Bassett, of London, has been announced by Mrs. Ryan.

Miss Ryan was educated at Foxcroft School in Virginia and at Mlle. Moussem's School in Paris and was introduced to society in 1928.

Mr. Bassett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Bassett, of London. He joined the Eton Brigade upon his graduation from Eton and served in France during the World War. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Ryan and her family are at Southampton, Long Island, this summer, where they are occupying the home of Mrs. Horace Stebbins.

The United States Consul General to Havana and Mrs. Frederick Frelinghuysen Dumont will arrive in Washington tonight from their home, the Anchorage, in Lancaster, Pa., and will be guests at the Mayflower until tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. Dumont made an unexpected trip to their Pennsylvania home due to the illness and subsequent death of the latter's half brother, J. William Stahl.

Mr. Dumont was on duty in the State Department for several years prior to his present assignment in Cuba last autumn.

Maj. and Mrs. F. K. Long, of Oakland, Calif., are visiting at the Wardman Park Hotel.

U. S. Minister Has Left for Baden-Baden

Mr. Franklin M. Gunther Also Intends to Shoot in Austria.

The American Minister to Egypt, Mr. Franklin Mott Gunther, who will be succeeded in September by Mr. William M. Jardine, left Cairo on Saturday for Baden-Baden, where Mr. Gunther will remain while Mrs. Gunther, who accompanied him there, will visit relatives in Scotland. Later both will join a shooting party in Austria, returning to Cairo in the fall before leaving for Quito, Ecuador, where the Minister will take up his new post.

The Minister, whose home is in New York, has long been in the diplomatic service, having entered it in 1909 when he was appointed third secretary of embassy in Paris.

His posts have taken him all over the world, including Managua, Lisbon, Rio de Janeiro, Christiania, Spitzbergen, London, Paris, The Hague and, before his appointment to Egypt, Mr. Gunther served as charge d'affaires in Rome. He is a member of the Metropolitan Club of Washington, the Harvard Club, Union Club and Racquet and Tennis Club of New York.

Miss Ewing Wed In Sorrento, Me.

The wedding of Miss Ellen Cox Ewing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ewing, of New York, and Mr. Thomas Archibald Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Stone, of Chatham, Ontario, Canada, and Second Secretary of the Canadian Legation, took place yesterday at noon in the Church of the Redeemer, at Sorrento, Me., the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, officiating.

The church was decorated with a profusion of white lilies, gladioli and garlands of greens.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin fashioned on princess lines with a long, full skirt, long, fitted sleeves falling in points over the hands, and a bertha of rose point lace. The long, circular train was bordered with the rose point lace and clusters of orange blossoms. The lace veil, which fell softly around the face and over the satin train, were worn by the bride's mother and also by her sister, Mrs. Newbold Noyes, who was married in Washington. She carried a bouquet of small orchids with long streamer covered with the orchids.

The only attendant at the wedding was Mr. Michael Wright, Third Secretary of the British Embassy, who was best man for Mr. Stone.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, in which the rooms were banked with white sweet peas and gladioli.

On their return they will be at home at 1752 K street, in Washington.

Among the guests who went to Sorrento for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ewing, jr., of New York; Mr. and Mrs. William F. C. Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ewing, Mr. Bayard Ewing, all of New York; Miss Mary Beall Ewing and Mr. Hampson Ewing, jr., of Yonkers, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield, N. J., Mrs. Edward L. Ayres, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. William F. Cochran, Miss Gwendolyn Cochran, Miss Anne Cochran and Mr. William F. Cochran, jr., of Baltimore.

MISS MILDRED GARRETT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Garrett, whose engagement to Mr. William J. Dempsey is announced.

Capital Girl Prize Winner In Paper Race

Miss Exilona Hamilton Rides Ahead of All in Biarritz.

Washingtonians living in Europe are always cropping up here and there on the continent, and now it appears that Miss Exilona Hamilton, daughter of Mrs. Frank Hamilton, of Biarritz, France, has won a first prize in the paper race, a part of a festival week at Biarritz. Miss Hamilton made her debut two years ago in Washington and then went abroad with her mother and a brother to resume their residence in France.

But Miss Hamilton had become so attached to Washington and the Washington mode of living that last winter, when she became of age, she decided that Biarritz was not the permanent home that she desired, so back she came to Washington to pass the witner season with her aunt, Mrs. D. C. Stapleton, who has her home on Massachusetts avenue. When the spring came, she sailed again for Europe, and is passing the summer there, but will be back to Washington for the debutante season.

Her younger brother, Frank Hamilton, was also awarded a wrist watch as second prize in the race.

Miss Hamilton and her brother are both excellent riders on horses, so it is not surprising that they came home with honors in this exciting cross-country chase, which requires skill.

Miss Barry Married To New Jersey Man.

Miss Mary Margaret Barry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William David Barry, last evening was married to Mr. Lester Harold Clark, son of Mrs. T. M. Clark, of Passiac, N. J. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, 1455 Fairmont street, by the Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, of St. Paul's Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a gown of ivory satin made on empire lines, with puffed sleeves and a court train. She wore white lace mitts and her veil of tulle fell from a close fitting cap, and carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Margaret Gates, who wore a frock of pale pink chiffon and tulle, with a hat to match and carried pink rose buds and delphinuim.

Mr. Thomas D. Christiano was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Clark started on a motor trip to Canada, the latter wearing a navy blue crepe frock with a hat to match.

They will make their home in Larchmont, N. Y.

DEMOCRATS FLAYED IN FESS STATEMENT

Senator Lays Depression to Minority's Alleged Obstruction Tactics.

FOREIGN AGITATION CITED

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, yesterday issued the following statement through the Republican national committee:

"The statements being issued by the Democratic press bureau in the names of various senators, endeavoring for partisan purposes to misrepresent the effect of the tariff in its effect on foreign countries and thereby stir up among them opposition to the United States, is a deliberate injury to American industry and commerce for purposes of partisanship.

"Foreign nations were agitated over the tariff as the result of their misunderstanding of what was actually enacted, due to misrepresentation by the Democratic group during the course of debates. Upon learning the truth with regard to the tariff, these agitations abroad have ceased, and the continuation of these partisan activities can have no other result than injury to the United States by continued misrepresentation. As a matter of fact, foreign countries have no cause for complaint. The restoration of prosperity of the United States through employment to American workmen makes for a larger market for foreign countries in the United States for raw materials and luxury and other goods.

"This same unpatriotic stimulation of foreign feeling was resorted to by the Democratic party in 1922, and yet our imports increased 30 per cent under the impulse of prosperity that legislation brought to the country.

"The depression which the country is now in is to a very considerable degree due to the delays of over six months in the final enactment of the tariff bill, due solely to the opposition in the Senate, through filibustering and other devices. It could have been completed in the special session were it not that the opposition hoped to delay the enactment of the bill to a point as close to the election as possible for purely partisan purposes. The effect was to disturb business, to create uncertainty and doubt for a period of months, and the results to the country of such partisan action without any constructive purposes, have been disastrous and are a large contribution to the present unemployment."

Hoover Receives Veterans' Leader

Head of Disabled Men's Organization Confers on Pension Law.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday received the members of the executive committee of the Disabled American Veterans, headed by H. H. Weimer, of Chicago, national commander, who planned conferences later in the day at the Veterans' Bureau on ways of handling the applications under the new World War veterans pension act.

"We are told by the Veterans' Bureau," Commander Weimer said, "that about 154,000 veterans will receive this monthly disability allowance during the current year and to establish eligibility there must be reviews of tens of thousands of folders and there will be tens of thousands of new physical examinations."

"To do our part," he added, "we must extend our system of assistance, which already contains 80 liaison officers. We also desire that the Government build with the greatest speed the authorized hospitals, as the existing institutions are crowded. We must have more room for mentally disabled men."

Accompanying Commander Weimer were V. D. Corbly, Cincinnati; H. E. Pinney, Los Angeles; Earl Atkins, Philadelphia; A. B. Powell, Birmingham, Ala.; C. M. Jones, Charleston; Owen Galvin, Minneapolis; James Hennegan and Monte Lowenstein, Cincinnati, and Carter Smith, Chicago.

Woodcock Asks Aid of Citizens

Radio Carries Dry Director's Plea for Cooperation in Enforcement.

(Associated Press.)

An appeal for sympathy and support in his new prohibition enforcement program was directed to the people of America last night by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock.

Speaking over a National Broadcasting Co. network, he reviewed the policies of the reorganized enforcement bureau as outlined last week and asked the citizens throughout the country to assist by declining to patronize the illicit traffic in liquor.

"To those who have been making the unlawful traffic possible by affording a market for the contraband," he said, "may I suggest, simply and in no sense officiously, for the decision is yours, is the opportunity to obtain a drink of liquor in an unlawful way comparable in importance to you to the opportunity to contribute to the ideal of a law-abiding Nation? To the great mass of American men and women, I say, give us your sympathy and help. After all, who can object to a fair, honest, earnest and lawful enforcement of a law of the land?"

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

THE process is a slow one and to those engaged in it no doubt tedious, but there can be no gainsaying that the public is gradually becoming educated to the view that there is no "between seasons" in the motion picture theaters, and that they are quite as apt to be genuinely and thoroughly diverted in the refrigerated salons of the cinema in August as at any other season of the year.

This consciousness on the part of the cash customer had its inception in the "Greater Movie Season" campaigns that were fostered for several successive years by the Will H. Hays organization as a means of overcoming the dog-day doldrums into which the movies always tumbled at about this time of the summer. After two or three or four "greater" seasons it began to dawn upon the laity that they were not greater at all. It was too late to do anything about it then—the seed had been planted. It has since been growing into a conviction that August is no more a dud month than any other in the present-day celluloid scheme of things. The idea has been painstakingly nurtured by various interests in various ways.

Just at present, the Warner Brothers are utilizing their Silver Anniversary as an excuse to draw attention to the conspicuous merit of the wares they have to barter at the box office; RKO-Keith's is attracting notice by offering world premieres of its foremost productions and the Loew houses are out among the front-runners with screen fare of notable worth and stage "names" that mean something.

Of course, the entertainment would be precisely the same even if all these ballyhoos were not generated by high-pressure publicity departments, but old John Q. Public hasn't quite found that out yet!

Speaking of special August attractions, it was a great pleasure and something of a revelation to sit in on Saturday afternoon's performance of Waring's Pennsylvanians at the Palace. Having been the first, I believe, to give the boys the benefit of a systematized publicity campaign preliminary to their first Washington appearance, I am not entirely unfamiliar with their earlier work or indifferent to the tremendous strides they have made in the direction of artistic perfection since those exciting days of their budding fame.

Retaining largely the same personnel with which he started, Fred Waring has developed a group of consummate showmen who offer entertainment that no other similar organization finds it possible to duplicate successfully.

The greatest change is in Fred himself. From a joyous and spontaneous collegiate he has grown into a mature and at times stingingly satirical maestro whose career has passed its experimental and tentative stage.

On Saturday at the performance I attended he made the tactical error of scolding his audience—with almost disastrous results. His provocation was ample, and there has long been a very definite notion in this department that something drastic should be done to curb the rowdyism of Saturday afternoon audiences in our picture theaters, but that remedial action—and it might well be prompt and vigorous—should come from the front of the house and not the stage.

As long as we already are at the corner of Thirteenth and F, it might be as appropriate a time as any to pay further heed to the showmanship, as well as musicianship, of Dick Leibert, guest organist, whose engagement has happily been so many times extended.

Never during a great many years of snooping around the Washington theaters, both legitimate and motion picture, have I encountered any one with so strong a hold upon his public as Dick—no, not even Wesley Eddy at the zenith of his 75 weeks!

Saturday, upon his entrance from the stage to take his place at the console, he was greeted by no less than an ovation and upon the conclusion of his tricky organlogue, during which the customers sang as if they were being paid for it, I instinctively raised my hands to protect myself from injury when the applause should bring the building down about my head!

Eddie Cantor, the millionaire melodist and wisecracker, in the midst of a week of personal appearance at the Earle, is ham-and-egging as guest of the National Press Club today at 12.

Hardie Meakin, managing director of the Fox, has converted the lobby of his cathedral into what bears every resemblance to an annex of the Bureau of Mines of the United States Department of Commerce this week as a bit of sales talk for one of the bill's auxiliary film attractions depicting in vivid fashion that it is silly to inhale carbon monoxide gas.

A recent issue of the Columbia Heights News, a neighborhood periodical serving the interests of Mount Pleasant, Petworth and Park View, pays high tribute to the Stephen S. Eilbacher and Harry E. Lohmeyer, former and present manager, respectively, of the Tivoli Theater, at Fourteenth street and Park road. Mr. Eilacher has been transferred to the managership of a de luxe house in Charlotte, N. C., and Mr. Lohmeyer, in resuming a post which he formerly occupied with distinction, is merely "returning home."

It may or may not be significant of the Warner tradition that each was presented with a handsomely equipped traveling bag when the transfers were made!

A group of boys from Walter Reed were guests of the Metropolitan Theater yesterday to view "Three Faces East," the story of wartime spies in which Eric von Stroheim and Constance Bennett are featured. This is only the first of many such groups to be entertained as guests of the Warners during silver anniversary month.

And just think of the chilblains, frostbite, frozen water mains and all the rest of the suffering from the intense cold if the temperature ever gets down to 80 again!

Pilot Heads East On World Flight

Ted Lundgren, Hollywood Aviator, Plans 200-Hour Globe Tour.

Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Attempting to fly around the world in 200 hours of actual flying time, Ted Lundgren, Hollywood aviator, late today presumably was winging his way toward New York.

Accompanied by W. L. Seiler, a copilot, and V. H. Emerson, a passenger, Lundgren took off from Los Angeles at 8:31 a. m. (P. C. T.). A tentative halt for refueling at Kansas City was in prospect, but a non-stop flight to New York would not be unexpected.

No word had been received from Lundgren since the take-off. Those who watched the 425-horsepower plane lift its load of 500 gallons of fuel into the air said the ship should reach Kansas City by sundown without difficulty.

A radio operator and another copilot were to be added to the crew at New York, where Seiler and Emerson will leave the ship.

The route for the flight lies through Berlin, Omsk, Tokyo and Seattle.

HIDE IN THE DARK . . . .

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

Time: All-Hallows Eve.
Place: Lady Court, an old manor house south of Washington.

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

Lindy Marsden, lonely, lovely, a dark-eyed romanticist, and mistress of Lady Court.

Doug King, hilarious and jovial, the life of every party and the founder of the March Hares.

Neil Sheridan, sleek, dark, highly successful in his career as a lawyer and husband of Trudi, wise, witty and chic, with all the ease of manner of a grand duchess and the lack of manners of a fishwife.

Chatty Ross, small, coy, blindly adoring wife of Tom Ross, the least successful man in the room, shabby and sensitive among his wealthy friends.

Hanna Dart, a gentle lady, immaculately beautiful, whose reserve masks a deep affection for her husband,

Gavin Dart, a rather tired and immensely successful business man of 50, with shrewd, dark eyes and steel-gray hair.

Ray Hardy, the youngest member of the party, not long married and overwhelmingly in love with

Joel Hardy, her charming and irresistible husband, who has not grown five minutes older in the last ten years.

Jill Leighton, graceful and gracious, stepsister of that legendary Sunny, the beloved girl whose strange death ten years ago still lay like a shadow over the gay group.

Larry Redmond, an agreeable young banker, who cannot understand why Jill hates him.

Kit Baird, wanderer and adventurer in strange lands, who in his casual way does every romantic thing magnificently well.

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Thirteen gay revelers, calling themselves the March Hares, have gathered on Halloween at Lady Court, an old manor house. As the party gets under way, some one starts a graphophone. The record is "Underneath the Stars," Sunny's tune. Sunny herself, whom every one loved, having been drowned in Washington.

Kit entertains with a few songs. Lindy then tells him why she arranged the party. She confesses her love for him, proposes, while in another part of the house Larry proclaims his love to Jill. Outside a storm is raging, but the March Hares continue to make merry. Kit and Doug, however, quarrel when Lindy objects (for the moment) to dancing with King. The situation is saved when Lindy relates a murder story concerning early relatives who occupied Lady Court.

Chatty and Trudhi review events since the last party. Lindy corners Kit again and teases him about being jealous of Doug King. Later as she chants "Mirror, mirror, dark and bright * * *" Kit's face appears in the glass. The mirror is broken. Doug is furious.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY.

Lindy murmured with a panic-stricken glance over her shoulder, "Oh, Doug, you aren't going to start that again? Do be careful; some one will hear you and I'm so tired of scenes! Help me with this, won't you?"

He took it from her hands, repeating implacably, "I asked you what Kit Baird was to you?"

Fed Up on Promises.

She replied in the silveriest of voices, but with some bright dark fire leaping from her eyes, "Doug, that's sheer impertinence! I've asked you to be careful for my sake; I ask you now to be careful for your own. If Kit comes back and finds that you are annoying me, I don't think that you'll find it particularly amusing?"

"So I'm annoying you, am I?" He balanced a little unsteadily on his heels, his face so deeply flushed that it looked swollen. "It wasn't so long ago that you didn't look on a little talk with me as annoying, my dear."

Lindy, pale as moonlight, her eyes on the ugly flush, whispered despairingly, "Doug, please—please! I'll talk to you later—not now. Later, I promise——"

"You've been promising things for quite a while, Lindy. I'm just a dash fed up on promises—jam yesterday and jam tomorrow, but never jam today, what? And now that the prodigal's son's returned, you're off even jam tomorrow, it seems. But something tells me, Lindy, I'm going to get that jam."

"Doug, I've never promised you anything at all, except—except to think over all that pretty nonsense. I never dreamed that it was more than nonsense. I was so sure——"

He said in that thickened voice, "You were wrong. When I ask a woman to marry me, I'm not trying to divert her. And I count myself in great luck to be on hand this time to prevent a second Baltimore rendezvous in your family."

She cried frantically, her hand over her mouth to smother the words, "Oh, how dare you! How dare you say that to me!"

"I dare say a good deal more than that to you, my girl. I dare say——"

Chatty's voice cried from the window, "Here he comes! Tom, you open this window—you catch hold of it, too. Joel. Oh, Kit, are you drowned? O-O-oh, look out for those flowers on the spinet—catch them, somebody!"

Kit, shaking the rain from him in a glittering shower, his red hair turned sleek and bronze as a seal's coat, lifted a commanding hand for silence. "Hey, pipe down, pipe down there! I've got some news for you, my fine buckaroos, that'll give you something to sing about from now till Christmas. Take a long deep breath and drive your heels into the ground. Boys and girls, the bridge is down."

Marooned.

They stood staring at the bearer of tidings in a mild stupor, groping to fit the amazing words into the neat pattern of the house party. It was Trudi who first found her voice, but even she sounded slightly incoherent.

"The bridge? The bridge to Washington? The bridge on the road?"

"The very bridge, Trudi. The bridge at the foot of the hill, on the road to Washington."

Lindy came forward swiftly.

"But, Kit, are you sure? How do you know? It's almost half a mile away—you can't know You're joking, aren't you?"

"Joking when we may all be cannibals before we can fight our way out of this? No, no, my child, the bridge is down all right. I was trundling the old bus round to the end of the service quarters and I turned the lights full on to get some idea of where I was headed. There's a clean sweep just beyond the big gate where you can see down the hill to the creek, and as a conservative statement, I'd like to assure every one here that the creek is at present about two and a half times the size of the Potomac at its widest point. It's torn one of the piers on the south side clear away from its moorings and dipped the whole thing down so deep in the water that the only thing that could get over it now would be an airplane."

Lindy asked, with a sudden desperate vibration in her voice, as though a harp string had been pulled too taut, "But, Kit—but, Kit, you aren't saying that we're really marooned, are you? Marooned for a long time, I mean? Surely, there must be some other way out?"

He chided, laughing, "Is this the far-famed Southern hospitality? What other way do you suggest?"

She made a piteous clutch at lightness.

Food for Three Days.

"Oh, you know how I'd adore having you for the next five years, but we only bought food for three days and if supplies can't get in to us and we can't get out to them—Couldn't we possibly manage the North Trail and get to the Jersey turnpike that way? Joel and Larry have cars."

"The North Trail? My good child, how long has it been since you were at Lady Court? It used to be fairly difficult for a good, active pony to negotiate in fine weather and what it must be after these rains! No, I imagine that we can count the North Trail well out of it."

"Well, then isn't there any place that we could ford?"

Something in the small frozen smile that she turned to his mockery checked him abruptly; he gave her a long scrutiny that the transferred leisurely to Doug. And after a moment he remarked thoughtfully, "Well, if worst comes to worst, we can probably manage to get over that shallow bit to the west of the bridge in a day or so. Though now that I've made my grand effect and put the fear of God into all you convivial souls, I don't mind telling you that a few stout lads from Washington with some planks and mortar can shore it up so that it'll be passable by the time we're ready to use it."

The frozen smile melted to tremulous and exquisite relief. "Kit, you're outrageous! You mean that it will be passable before we even need it?"

"Well, passable but dangerous, let's say. But don't let's forget to turn in a hurry call in the morning; the quicker those birds get at it the better. This meeting is now called to order. Who's fixing the apples for these tubs?"

"I was just going to. Look, here they are." Lindy swept the contents of the wicker hamper into her fragile skirts, reckless with relief. "The first man and the first girl to get one get a prize and the last one pays a forfeit. Fair warning! I'm going to drop them in!"

The clustering faces drew back as the apples fell, little crystal fountains jetting high around each rosy ball.

"There! Every one on their knees—we'll take seven a tub. Three girls over here—Doug, you call the rules and start us off, will you?"

Doug bawled obligingly above the gathering tumult: "Now get this and get it straight, you kids. Get to the sidelines the minute you catch your apple and stay there. Lock your two hands behind you and keep 'em locked; any one using hands for any purpose whatever pays the worst forfeit we can think up. Now is that all straight as a string? I don't want any comebacks and alibis around here after we once get started."

"Hey, listen!" demanded Ray despairingly. "D'you mean that we have to kneel right down on this floor and catch those apples with our faces?"

"In a nutshell, child—you've put it in a nutshell. Every one down, now, and when I yell go, we're off, without fear or favor. Now! On your mark——"

"Everybody in position?" Doug's boom rose untroubled and elate. "One for the money, March Hares, two for the show! Three to make ready—and—four to go! Watch yourself, there, Sheridan, watch yourself. Keep away from those swinging doors, Hanna! Gangway for the Black Douglas—gangway!"

And suddenly the still beauty of the room, lonely and lovely and a little ominous in its remoteness, was shattered by pandemonium—the joyous and outrageous pandemonium of the last five minutes of recess echoing through the red school; as the children shrieked their untrammeled souls out, uncontro'led and unmolested, with only the room to protest with faint echoes of delicate outrage.

"Sherry, you pig, that's mine!"

"Ray, quit shoving, will you?"

"Ow, murder! He's drowning me!" Look out for my hair, you great galoot!"

A Forfeit From Jill.

In that riot tossing heads and heels, Hanna's rippled gold and Lindy's bronze velvet, Sherry's sleek darkness and Jill's bright waves shifted and changed and vanished in a gay kaleidoscope—and in their stead little pigtails sprouted, round curls danced, ribbon bows flashed and soft bangs were pushed recklessly aside, for these flying minutes they felt descend on them once more the lost delight of pinafore and sock, of knicker-bocker and overall.

"It's mine! It's mine!" "To the sidelines, you!" "Paws down, Trudi; down I say!" "Sherry, stop snapping! Make him stop he's driving me mad!" "Sidelines, Larry!" "Ow-w! Doug, he ducked me." "Help, help—that's not fair. Help!"

On the sidelines the victorious survivors brandished apples, howling and dancing like Indians, lifting intolerable voices in intolerable taunts.

"Yah, yah, Gavin couldn't get an apple! Trudi couldn't get an apple! Jill couldn't get uh apple!" "Over here, ole sport! This way to the conquering heroes." "Look alive there, Jill!" "One of you girls is in for a forfeit." "Ye-ay, Trudi! Atta girl, easy does it! Ye-e-ay, Trudi!" "Jill's forfeit! Oh, poor Jill!" "That girl dived 3 feet for it!" "Oh, Larry, I'm drenched to the bone. Do make it a nice, quiet little forfeit; look, I'm absolutely drowned."

They circled about her, condoling and exhorting; the air filled with their flying laughter and winged taunts.

"How about the coal hole on four paws, Jill?"

"How about a couple of sonnets on the Democratic platform?"

"How about the snow scene from East Lynne?"

"Kit, help me get these tubs out of the way. In about two minutes some one's going to fall spang into one."

"How about the textet from Lucia?"

"Sherry, are you shaking that thing again? Move over, I want to fix this up for the ring and the flour."

"Hey, wait a minute—there's an idea for you! Instead of each having to cut for it, let's make Jill burrow for the ring! How about that for a forfeit?"

"Doug, you're simply a genius!" Hanna sank back in the largest chair with a beatific sigh of relief. "I had a perfectly hideous picture of me turning all this water into dough."

"Me, too." Trudi was scrubbing vigorously with the resurrected handkerchief at a still-dripping countenance, but the vigor of her tone was quite unimpaired. "The first time I did it I choked down the whole darn thing, ring and all. Thank God for Jill, sez I."

"It begins to sound as though you were elected, darling." Lindy hovered solicitously over the neat mound on the blue platter. "I'll just carve a little more away before I drop the ring—don't even breathe on it, Sherry."

"Lindy——" Lindy, intent on her delicate task, smiled fleetingly in the direction of the low voice, too fleetingly to catch the piteous shadow in the blue eyes. "Lindy, couldn't you make it something else? Couldn't you, please? I'm so dreadfully clumsy at it! If you'd let me try the sextet or the snow scene."

"Oh, Jill, shame!" The clamor swept relentlessly about her. "Begging off a forfeit!"

"You scandalous little coward!"

She parried desperately. "No, no, it isn't that I mind the flour. Look, I'll do the coal hole one. Wait till I pin my skirts back."

A "Broken" Circle.

"But nobody wants you to do the coal hole, duckie." Trudi's tone was both soothing and relentless. All any one wants you to do is to trot right up to the pretty table and pick up the nice gold ring on the nice, clean little white heap with your nice, clean little white teeth. Lindy, lend me that chiffon handkerchief of yours; it'll be perfectly elegant to tie her cunning little paws behind her back."

Lindy surrendered it without a backward glance, flicking a last slice of the flour cake away with elfin precision.

"There, that's perfect! If she gives it one little touch with even the tip of her nose, it's going to be an absolute landslide."

STAUNTON

A MILITARY preparatory school that really prepares a boy, not only to enter college, but with training that equips him to STAY there. Consult reports of Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (copies in hands of public school superintendents). Note the college success of Staunton graduates. Examine reports for several years and observe our consistent leadership among preparatory schools that are essentially military.
286 graduates now doing successful work at 88 colleges and universities.
Do not misinterpret the term "Honor Military School." IT HAS NO ACADEMIC SIGNIFICANCE. Staunton Military Academy was the first military school from the Potomac to the Rio Grande to receive this War Department rating; for several years the only Honor Military School in the South. An Honor School today, but upon that basis alone we would not solicit or desire your patronage.

When Hot Weather Brings "Rebel" Appetites

Mueller's Elbow Macaroni is made from a selected blend of farina—the heart of the wheat.

When appetites rebel, here's a way to get children to eat nourishing, energy-making food. Serve Mueller's Elbow Macaroni. Even when no other food appeals, boys and girls relish this tasty macaroni. Its small size and elbow shape make it easy to eat. And it cooks in nine minutes. Avoid the common mistake of overcooking, though one or two minutes more may be allowed if extra tenderness is desired. Your grocer has Mueller's or can get it for you.

POT ROAST OF BEEF.
(Bureau of Animal Industry.)

Cuts of beef suitable for pot roasting are chuck ribs, cross arm clod, round and rump. Select a piece from 4 to 6 pounds in weight. Wipe with a damp cloth. Rub the meat with salt, pepper and flour. Brown the meat on all sides in a heavy kettle using about three tablespoons of beef fat. Slip a low rack under the meat, add one cup of water, cover tightly and simmer until tender. The required time for cooking can not be stated definitely, but it will probably be about three hours. Turn the roast occasionally. When the meat is done remove from the kettle, skim of the excess fat from the liquid and measure the remainder. For each cup of gravy desired, measure two tablespoons of fat and return to the kettle, add one and one-half tablespoons of flour and stir until well blended and slightly browned. Then add one cup of the meat stock or of cold water and stir until smooth. Season the gravy with salt, pepper and chopped parsley. Serve the pot roast on a hot platter with buttered carrots and stuffed onions.

Any of the desired following vegetables may be cooked in the pot with the meat: Carrots, celery, onions, potatoes, tomatoes and turnips. All the vegetables during the last hour of cooking the meat if they are to be served whole or in quarters.

NATS AND YANKS RESUME TODAY WITH TWIN BILL

Westbrook Pegler Says

THE sins of the prize fight business are many and picturesque, but nowhere in the recorded or secret history of the industry is there an incident quite comparable to the Al Lassman episode which involved only young men with the advantage of college education and football training, persons of exemplary character and who concurred in this estimate themselves.

A young athlete who accepts the status of counselor to adolescent boys at a camp off in the woods by his acceptance of the job and its responsibilities sets himself as a model whom the boys may safely emulate in all respects. The managers of Primo Carnera, for example, probably would be deemed undesirable for this sort of work if they were minded to apply for it, but I do not believe any of them ever treated any one as Izzy Zarakov treated Al Lassman.

Lassman was a poor young man and a cripple. He sacrificed his life to save three boys who had fallen into the cold water of a lake when their canoe tipped over. If Al had thought of saving his own life, one or more of the boys probably would have drowned, and if any of them had been drowned, the camp would have received a bad name with the parents of boys who commit them to such resorts confident that their counselors will not only instruct but protect them.

Lassman Protected His Employer.

This, of course, would have injured the camp as a business property and, therefore, Al Lassman not only saved the lives of the boys but protected his employer's interests as well, his employer being Izzy Zarakov. If he saved his own life at the cost of letting one or more of the boys go, other parents would have been justified in withdrawing their sons on the ground that the counselors were not equal to their extraordinary responsibilities. So Al Lassman's death, in a way, was a fine testimonial for Izzy Zarakov's camp.

But when he had given his life, Izzy, a Harvard half back of a few years ago, insisted that Al had gone out on the lake alone and had died unobserved by any one. Every one who had heard of Lassman, and he was one of the best-known football players in the country until a few years ago, knew that he had been badly hurt in a football game and that, owing to this injury, there had been times when he was incapable of mental concentration. Mr. Zarakov insists that he contributed nothing to the intimation which soon became public that Al, brooding over his injury and possibly in one of its mental lapses, deliberately went out on the lake and tipped over his canoe to die.

Zarakov Permitted the Slander.

Zarakov, who was very sensitive about the reputation of his camp and therefore may be presumed to have studied the newspaper reports, did nothing voluntarily to correct this slander against an unfortunate youth who had to die protecting the Zarakov interests.

There were other football men in the camp, Alton Marsters, late of Dartmouth College, was one of the counselors, and Jerry Nemecek, of New York University, captain-elect of the football and baseball teams at Al Lassman's alma mater, was another, but neither of these youths took it upon himself to do justice to Lassman's name. Nemecek finally left the camp at the suggestion of Al Nixon, the graduate manager of athletics at New York University, and Nixon reported that by questioning Nemecek and others he discovered that a conspiracy of silence existed. There had been a meeting, he was told, at which it was decided, for the good of the camp, and thus, of course, for the benefit of Izzy Zarakov's business, to silence the facts of the case and stand by the story as an accidental but mysterious drowning.

It will be hard to believe that Marsters is one of those unsophisticated innocents who would not have known the importance of the fact. He had done some newspaper work and enjoys a reputation as a smart young man. And remembering to what extent he was heroized last fall when he cracked a vertebra in his neck hitting the Yale line in a frantic drive for a touchdown, it seems fair to suspect that Marsters knew Lassman's act would be even more interesting to the reading public. Nobody can ever withhold any credit from him when he was playing football and, judging from his own ventures in journalism, one may take it that he knew Al Lassman's sacrifice had been far more important than his and quite spontaneous. Moreover, Lassman was their friend. They worked with him. When the expose was made and Zarakov admitted the misrepresentation he topped all his previous acts in the case with a letter to Al Lassman's mother in which he reminded her that he had been very devoted to her boy.

What a pal!

Berg Is 6 to 5 Choice Over Chocolate

25,000 to See Whirlwind Briton and Cuban Clash.

Negro Undefeated in 67 Bouts; To Give Away 10 Pounds.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Evidence in the case of Eligio Sardinias vs. Judah Bergman, to be given Thursday night into the hands of a jury of some 25,000 fight fans and a referee at the Polo Grounds, was all but complete today. All that remains is to weigh the boys before the final deductions.

Eligio Sardinias, better known as Kid Chocolate, dazzling Cuban Negro, will attempt to prove that he can give away 10 pounds and still whip Bergman, otherwise known as Jackie Kid Berg, Jewish boy from the Whitechapel district of London and one of the best and busiest of the lightweights. If the jury has any preconceived opinion, it is that Chocolate can't do it. The odds for their ten-round tilt stand at 6 to 5 on Berg.

Cuban Has Punch and Speed.

Never beaten in 67 professional and amateur bouts, Chocolate has flashed sensationally in two years of American campaigning. He is considered the uncrowned featherweight champion, a natural 126-pounder, an ebony marvel of boxing ability and speed afoot, a puncher besides. He has been held only once to a draw and holds a decision over Al Singer, the present lightweight champion. He is considered unbeatable at his own weight.

But in Berg the Cuban licorice stick is tackling a rough and rugged lightweight who has beaten back the best of the 135-pounders and was considerd a more logical contender for the lightweight title Sammy Mandell held than Al Singer, who finally cornered the crown-holder and knocked him out in a round.

Berg and Singer have never met but the Whitechapel Hebrew has whipped an imposing crop of the division's best, including Tony Canzoneri, the Italian sharpshooter.

Berg Punches Often, But Not Hard.

Berg is a picture of perpetual motion in the ring, a punching machine that never seems to run down. He climbs all over boxers and sluggers alike, infernally firing leather into their heads and bodies until the best of them have been forced to give up offense in favor of a frantic and unsuccessful defense.

Berg doesn't hit hard but he hits uncommonly often. With the advantage of an eight or ten pound pull in the weights on his side he is favored to sweep right through the brilliant defenses of the Cuban Negro.

The winner is scheduled to meet Singer for the lightweight title here September 11.

Both boys were ready today to wind up training in the out-of-town camps that have entertained most of the gladiators during the summer. Berg will wind up his preparations tomorrow at Delaware Water Gap, Pa., while Chocolate has been training at Orangeburg, N. Y.

O'Doul's Homer Futile In Braves' 3-2 Victory

Boston, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Pitcher Cunningham's double which scored two runs in the second inning was the big factor in Boston's 3 to 2 win over the Phillies this afternoon. He held the visitors to eight hits, three of them by Lefty O'Doul—a single, a triple and a home run. The single scored the first Philly run and the home run the second. The victory gave the Braves a 3 to 2 edge in the seven-game series.

MINORS OPEN DRAFT WAR TODAY

3 Big Circuits Meet to Fight Demand of Majors.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The long dispute between the major baseball leagues and the class AA circuits over the draft question promises to develop into open warfare tomorrow when club owners of the American Association, Pacific Coast and International Leagues go into a huddle here.

The conference of the Three AA class leagues originally was called to consider renewal of the minor league agreement, but that business has been subordinated by the recent demand of the majors that unless all minors submit to the draft all business relations between them would be severed on and after December 1, 1930.

Since the majors' demand, the International and Pacific Coast circuits have voted to defy the draft and accept the challenge. At tomorrow's meeting the American Association is expected to follow suit and plans formulated to carry on a "triple entente" without direct or indirect affiliation with the majors.

Western, Three Eye Also May Join.

Two other leagues, the Western and Three-Eye, which have not been subject to the draft system since 1920, also may join the three clubs in the fight.

The nondraft minors insist the majors and not they are guilty of causing the dispute. At a joint meeting of the minors and majors at Kansas City in 1920, it was agreed that no minor league should be forced to accept the draft. The Three AA Leagues, together with the Three-Eye and Western, voted against it and refused it. Ever since they have been requested, cajoled and threatened with a boycott.

In 1922, the majors followed their threat by refusing to send any of their players to the nondraft league clubs unless it was agreed that they be subjected to the draft. The five nondraft leagues finally accepted this demand after a year and the situation has been status quo ever since.

But the majors believe the time has come when a revision of the agreement is necessary. Hence the threat to sever relations December 1.

Gehringer's Homer In 12th Beats Chisox

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Charlie Gehringer drove the ball into the center field bleachers with the bases full today to break up a twelve inning pitching duel and give the Tigers a clean sweep in the series with the Chicago White Sox, 7-3.

It was Gehringer's fourth hit and second homer of the day. The first four-bagger came in the third with one man on. As a result of his two circuit blows, he is credited with driving in six of the Tigers' seven runs.

GIANTS DEAL ROBINS 4-0 DEFEAT

Fitzsimmons Allows 6 Hits; New York Nearing Lead.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Aided by three home runs and perfect fielding support, Fred Fitzsimmons blanked the Robins today to give the Giants a 4-to-0 decision over the league leaders. The defeat cut the Robins' lead to two and one-half games, and sent New York within four games of the top.

Allen, Lindstrom and Terry cracked out the homers while Fitzsimmons was scattering Brooklyn's six hits over four innings. The Giants got to Watson Clark for only nine safeties, but the three of the four-base variety proved to be h' downfall.

Stella Walsh Breaks 100-Yard Dash Record

Cornwall, Ontario, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Stella Walsh, Cleveland flier, battered all previous women's records for the 100-yard dash today when she ran the distance in 10 4-5 seconds. Miss Walsh's mark was established on Cornwall's new cinder track at the Canadian Legion field day games.

The previous record of 11 seconds flat was set by Rosa Grosse O'Neill, of Toronto, and equaled last winter by Miss Walsh at Boston.

Grove Beats Boston for 17th Win

Simmons Gets Circuit Clout, 2 Triples in 13-4 Victory.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Lefty Grove pitched and helped to bat himself to his seventeenth victory of the season today as the Athletics defeated the Boston Red Sox, 13 to 4, and stretched their lead over the second-place Washington Club to eight games.

Grove sent the world champions away to an early lead with a home run with two on base in the second, and then proceeded to scatter the Sox's twelve hits as his teammates piled up more runs.

26th Homer, 2 Triples for Simmons.

Al Simmons hit two triples on previous trips to the plate, connected with his twenty-sixth home run of the year in the seventh off Bob Smith. The Mackmen pounded Lisenbee and Smith for a total of fifteen hits, including two doubles, three triples and a pair of home runs.

Ferrell Wins Eighteenth As Indians Beat Browns

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The Indians scored three runs in the ninth inning to defeat the St. Louis Browns here today, 5 to 2, and capture the series, three games to one. It was Wesley Ferrell's eighteenth victory of the season. Ferrell was first opposed by Sammy Gray, and for six innings neither team was able to score. Then the Indians scored two runs in the seventh, with the Browns coming back with one each in the seventh and eighth to tie the count.

In Cleveland's half of the ninth, Porter and Morgan singled consecutively and scored on L. Sewell's single. Averill, who had been passed purposely, made the final run from third on a squeeze play.

RIGHT WRIST OF NAT ACE BROKEN

Marberry to Be Lost for 2 Weeks; Xray Reveals Break.

A SMALL BONE broken in his right wrist will keep Fred Marberry, ace of the Nationals' pitching staff, on the bench for at least two weeks, it was revealed by an X-ray yesterday afternoon. Dr. Edward Larkin, Washington Baseball Club physician, set the bone and put a cast on the wrist.

Marberry's enforced idleness means that the team will be without its most dependable hurler, making the second serious setback it has suffered recently. Heinie Manush, slugging outfielder, only lately returned to the line-up after being on the bench for more than two weeks with an injured leg.

While Marberry's injury has developed into a thing of serious proportions, little was thought of the hurt at the time it was received. It was in the fifth inning of the second game of the double-header with the New York Yankees last Friday that the big hurler slid head-first into third base, jamming his right hand against the bag, when the bone was snapped.

Believed to Be Only Sprain.

Although feeling pain, Marberry went on pitching for another inning but was relieved in the following frame. An examination after the game gave rise to the belief that the wrist had been only sprained, but swelling continued and when it failed to diminish by yesterday, an X-ray was decided upon. A clean fracture was revealed.

Up to the present Marberry had won thirteen games and lost only four this season, acting as both starting and relieving hurler. His performance Friday against the Yanks, in which he was ninth consecutive win.

Judge Names Hadley and Brown

New York Southpaws Likely to Face Nats in Both Games.

Manush Hitting Ball Hard; Boosts Mark to .363.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ACTING MANAGER JOE JUDGE and his charges forgot all about business yesterday as they stayed by the side of their bereaved leader as Mrs. Walter Johnson was laid to rest. In the afternoon they boarded a train for New York, where today they meet the Yankees in another double-header, the third which the Washington Club has played since Saturday.

The Nats took both ends of a twin bill staged in New York three days ago, stepping out to a three-game second place lead over "Ruth, Gehrig & Co.," and they hope to be able to turn the trick again today. If they do, they must get first-class pitching, for the New Yorkers are hitting the ball hard these days.

Lloyd Brown and Irving Hadley will be called upon to do the mound work, and both of these youngsters are, to a certain extent, unreliable, being like the little girl with the curl. When they are good, they are very good indeed, but when they are bad, they are horrid. It is expected that two southpaws will draw the pitching assignments from Manager Bob Shawkey, Herb Pennock and Ed Wells.

Won 13 Out of 15 From Yanks.

Oddly enough, the "Judges" are not taking this trip with fear and trembling, for they have downed the Yankees in thirteen out of their previous fifteen meetings this year and believe that they have the New Yorkers' "goat" this season. After today's two games, they journey to Philadelphia for single contests tomorrow and Thursday with the Athletics.

The Mackmen hold an 8-7 edge in games already played by virtue of having won the opening game between the two teams. Then the Nationals copped seven straight, only to lose the same number in succession. Eight games separate the Nats from the leaders, while the Yankees are two and one-half contests behind the Washingtonians.

Although Joe Kuhel passed his tests with flying colors in the Sabbath twin bill with the Boston Red Sox, Capt. Joe Judge will be back on first-base in the contests against the Yankees and Mackmen on the short jaunt, with Second-baseman Jack Hayes probably drawing the assignment in one of today's games, present plans calling for him to replace Buddie Myer in the game which Wells pitches.

Manush Slugging Ball Hard.

Leaving "General" Alvin Crowder out of the discussion, Goose Goslin never will be missed if Heinie Manush continues to perform as he has since donning Washington livery. The big left fielder still shows the effect of his le injury, but improvement may be noted with each successive game and he should be as chipper as ever within a few days.

Even while being able to do little more than hobble, Heine has shown that his batting eye is still sharp and many of his mates predict that he will end the season at the top of the league's batting heap. In his last four games he has cracked out three homers, a double and six singles to pull his average up to .363.

The four-base clouts were more or less accidental, however, as far as intent was concerned, for Manush, unlike Goslin, for whom he and Crowder were traded from the Browns, is not swinging his head off while at the plate, but specializes in timing the ball and meeting it squarely.

It is for this reason that he is a much more desirable player here than was the "Wild Goose of the Potomac," whose main idea at the plate seemed to be a home run or nothing. As a result, Goslin swung so hard that he too frequently missed hitting the ball safely. If the Goose would adopt Manush's policy, close students of the game believe that he would be a much better hitter.

WEST MEN'

WHITNEY ENTRY LOSES SARATOGA PURSE FOR FOUL

Jam at Start Costs Anger Stake

Al Green, 3d, Wins as One-Two Horses Are Disqualfiied.

Fans Cheer Award; Angry, Away Fast, Always Leads.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The big Monday crowd received a thrill here today when the Harry Payne Whitney entry, Angry and Prometheus, which finished first and second in the Seneca Stake, were disqualified for fouling and the race was given to Al Green with Bide a Wee second and Hand to Hand third.

There was much crowding just after the start and Yankee Doodle went down. The Whitney entry was held responsible for it, and, as a consequence, they were set back. There was great cheering when the numbers were taken down.

Angry got away fast and led throughout, leading by several lengths to the stretch, where the field closed on him. He held on gamely, to win by one and a half lengths. Prometheus beat Al Green half a length for the place. This is the first time in years that an entry has been disqualified after finishing one-two. The race was worth $3,800.

Equipoise, Harry Payne Whitney's colt, which, along with George D. Widener's Jamestown, shares highest esteem for the season's juvenile title, was given a sharp trial between the second and third races here this afternoon. The flashy youngster, with Harry Shillick in the saddle, stepped six furlongs in the keen time of 1:11 3-5. His fractional time was: 0:11 3-5, 0:22 3-5, 0:34, 0:46, 0:58 3-5, 1:11 3-5.

Equipoise appeared tired at the end of the journey after stepping at such a blazing pace. His next engagement is in the Saratoga Special, to be run here next Saturday.

Brown Wisdom Scores at Hawthorne.

Chicago, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The eighteen-day meeting of the Chicago Businessmen's Racing Association, at Hawthorne Race Track, opened today under fair skies and with the running of the Hawthorne Inaugural Handcap as the feature attraction. Five scratches narrowed the original field of fourteen overnight entries to nine starters, and Brown Wisdom, the 5-year-old brown gelding from W. C. and E. W. Reichert's stable, proved the best when he flashed under the wire an easy winner. Martie Flynn, from Stuyvesant Peabody's stable, was second and Club House, from the Graceland Stock Farm, was third. The Bahr gate was used for starting all events.

The Hawthorne Inaugural Handicap was a $5,000 added affair for 3-year-olds and upward over the 6-furlong distance, which Brown Wisdom covered in 1:11 4-5.

It was worth $4,875 to the winner, $1,000 to second, $500 to third and $250 to the fourth stables. Brown Wisdom paid off in the mutuels at $6.50 to $2.

Brown Wisdom, racing in close quarters to the far turn, was taken to the outside at the turn, into the home stretch and, forging to the front, won by two and a half lengths. Martie Flynn, always a contender, took second money in a hard drive by a neck. Club House, slow to get away from the gate, closed fast to take third money by four lengths over Silverdale.

Royal Yeoman's Rush Wins at Latonia.

Latonia, Ky., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Royal Yeoman, by Royal Canopy, from the Audley Stock Farm, came with a thrilling stretch rush to capture the Forest Hill Park purse at a mile and 70 yards, the feature attraction of the afternoon which came fifth on the card. Royal Yeoman was off to a slow beginning but Schutte, who had the mount, gradually worked his way up and in a stretch drive got through a small opening on the rail to win by a nose from Vermiculite, the odds-on favorite. Happy Lad accounted for the show end of the purse. The winner ran the distance in 1:45 flat and paid $6.86 for $2.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg U. S. Patent Office)

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The Saratoga Sales Stakes features the card here tomorrow on the date of the opening of the Fastig-Tipton sales ring at night for the yearling auction here of the yearling product of the country. The eligibles for this dash for 2-year-olds are those 2-year-olds which last year as yearlings were purchased at the sales here. Ten have been entered for this race, which is at 5½ furlongs.

NEVERFADE, which was beaten two lengths by Jamestown in the Flash Stakes here on opening day, is selected to win the stake. On that race, in which the fast Bradley colt, BLACK TYRONE, was third, NEVER FADE seems much the best. Jamestown probably is the best 2-year-old of the sesoan, and as good a one as Noelist finished four lengths behind him in the United States Hotel Stakes Saturday. STRAYING is rated the contender against NEVER FADE. She beat Ladana in the Demoiselle Stakes at Empire City and will give a good account in this race. SURF BOARD, second to his stablemate, Checkerberry, at Empire City is better than last race shows, and probably will be in the money. Several others rank along there, among them QUACKER, RED FLARE and PRINCE D'AMOUR. The last named was a winter sensation and has been racing in the West.

FIRST RACE—MILKMAN looks best in the first race for maiden 3-year-olds and upward. He has not started since Belmont Park, when he was second to Escutcheon, a fast filly which won the first race at Saratoga also. MEMORIES DEAR, second to Betty Beau at Empire City, is rated the contender. DARK MAGNE, working well, doubtless will finish in the money in the field of eighteen.

THE SECOND RACE appears to be mainly between LAHOR and IMPERIAL AIR, at a mile and a furlong. LAHOR is selected to win, but IMPERIAL AIR, scratched yesterday with this race in view, is fit and very dangerous. LAHOR'S recent racing at Empire City was off somewhat. In his race here last week he was second to STARPATIC, and that horse is beating all alike. HORNPIPE, winner here last week, is in top form. Sande may ride LAHOR, as he is too heavy for HORNPIPE.

FOURTH RACE—The Greentree Stable's GOOSE EGG will have ESCUTCHEON to beat in the fourth race called the Dutchess, for 3-year-old fillies. GOOSE EGG was beaten in the test stakes by CONCLAVE last week, but The Beasel and other good ones were behind her. She was in the thickest of the contest at all times in that race, and, heading off The Basel, was trying. ESCUTCHEON, winner the first time out here, is the contender. ELECTA should beat SCIENCE for place. There are only four starters.

FIFTH RACE—JUGGLER should win the fifth race. He just missed last out, finishing a head behind Sun Shadow. Workman will ride. SWATTER should improve over his last race, and is rated the contender. BRAMABIAU will figure in the race, specially if the track becomes muddy.

SIXTH RACE—The Glen Riddle Stable's SEAFOX, which ran second to Novelist Saturday, gave the impression of a good colt that needed the race to put him on edge, and he is selected to win the sixth event. PORTENSIA also ran impressively behind Blind Bowboy. SEAFOX appears the class, with better chance of improvement. SIR JOHN ALDEN is about ready for brackets, and should at least be in the money. This is a fine field of seventeen maiden 2-year-olds.

BUSHMAN broke well, was in close quarters in early part, got through on inside in the stretch and, finishing fast, was up to win in last stride. BRANDON DARE broke well in his stride, but was knocked back going to the far turn. He came with a powerful rush in the stretch and was going fastest of all at the finish. BLACK BELT, outrun early in the race, worked his way up and, closing gamely, was a fast-going third. MARSHMALLOW displayed good speed, but was in close quarters right at the end. ARCHUS tired chasing the pace. MUFF had plenty of speed, but weakened badly in the stretch. DARK AYRESS showed brilliant speed for half a mile.

SECOND RACE—About two miles. Purse, $1,000. Start good. Won eased up; place, easily. Went to post at 3:34. Off at 3:34½. Winner, A. Ludlow Kramer's ch. g. (6), by Tanker Rock—Yellow Flower. Trained by J. Whalen. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 4:24.

FLOWER ROCK was much the best of a very poor lot of jumpers. He rushed into a long lead and, fencing well, won eased up. VAN DIKE moved up fast and had no excuse. BANNER DAY lacked speed and jumped poorly. NIGHT RETREAT just galloped over the course.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500 added. The Seneca Claiming Stakes. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:06½. Off at 4:11½. LADY MINNIE, showing improvement over recent race, broke fast, rushed into a long lead and won nicely in hand. ALLEZ VITE was badly outrun for the first five furlongs, but closed with a rush in the middle of the stretch. DARK MAGNET broke in a tangle, but came with a rush in the final furlong. GRACE DARLING broke well, showed good early speed, but weakened badly at end. SCUTTLE was well up all the way. BATTY will win soon. ROSE PETAL stopped badly.

FOURTH RACE—Wilson mile. Purse, $1,200 added. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:39. Off at 4:40½. Winner, Frank E. Brown's ch. c. STARPATIC ran as if much the best. He broke well, was eased back and lay in a contending position to the top of the stretch, where he was taken to outside and, finishing fast, won going away. ADEQUATE trailed far back in the early part, came around field in stretch and finished fast. PINITE was kept on inside for entire trip, saved ground, but weakened badly in the last furlong. BEAU WRACK was kept with the pace for seven furlongs, then dropped back beaten. KHARA displayed keen speed for six furlongs, then stopped as if short.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000; conditions. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:02. Off at 5:06½. Winner, Rudolph Spreckels's ch. h. TUSKEGEE, away slow, moved up fast, was rated off early pace to the stretch, where he came with a rush and, under good handling, was up to win in last stride. SWEEP OUT had all of her speed, set a very fast pace, saved ground and held on gamely. ARMAGEDDON broke fast, but was outrun to stretch, where he closed with a rush. MOONSTRUCK was hard ridden all the way. PARTISAN broke in a tangle and closed some ground. LONG RUN was practically left.

SIXTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 5:34. Off at 5:41½. Winner, Marshall Field's b. f. LADY MINNIE, showing improvement over recent race, broke fast, rushed into a long lead and won nicely in hand. ALLEZ VITE was badly outrun for the first five furlongs, but closed with a rush in the middle of the stretch. DARK MAGNET broke in a tangle, but came with a rush in the final furlong. GRACE DARLING broke well, showed good early speed, but weakened badly at end. SCUTTLE was well up all the way. BATTY will win soon. ROSE PETAL stopped badly.

WEEK-DAY LEAGUES TO START PLAY-OFF ON AUG. 18

Clubs Paired For Opening Contest

Government Winners Play Departmental in First Skirmish.

Six Circuits Involved; Conover Is Named Official Scorer.

PAIRINGS for the first two rounds of the series which will determine the champion of the week day baseball leagues, the dates, and the adoption of the "double-knock-out" elimination plan in the series, were announced at a meeting of the presidents of the various leagues held last night in the Union Station Y. M. C. A.

Six leagues—the Government, Departmentalfi Industrial, Georgetown Church, Terminal Morning and Terminal Evening—were represented by their presidents.

Drawings were made for the first two rounds of the series, which will open on August 18 and continue on August 19, 20, 21, 22 and 25, with the adoption of the plan that a team be eliminated as soon as it loses two games. In case of an even split after the first two rounds, a new schedule will be drawn.

irst 3 Games on Consecutive Days.

The champions of the Government and Departmental Leagues will open the series on August 18, with the Industrial and Terminal Morning winners to play the secnd game on August 19, and the Terminal Evening and Georgetown Church League winners to end first-round play on the 20th.

The secbnd round will get under way with the Government and Industrial Teams clashing on August 21, the Departmental and Terminal Evening League Nines on the 22d, and the Terminal Morning and Georgetown Church League representatives closing scheduled play on the 25th. Teams having lost two games after these rounds will be automatically out.

All games are scheduled to begin at 4:15 o'clock, but fifteen minutes' grace will be allowed any team to make its appearance on the field. George Conover, of the Departmental League, was appointed official scorer.

Numerous Prizes Offered.

Prizes for the winners of the various leagues and the championship tournament have been offered by the following firms: The Hecht Co., A. J. Reach, Lansburgh & Bros., E. S. Bared, Saks & Co., Garrison's Novelty Shop, B. B. Straub, Bond Clothiers, the Fashion Shop and French's Sport Shop.

A meeting which has been arranged for next Monday will lbe for the purpose of reviewing the records of all players to assure that no individual has performed in more than one league. There is to be no drafting of players, a rule requiring all team members to have joined their club before July 1.

Olympic Club Loses 5 Track Mainstays

San Francisco, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Hopes of the San Francisco Olympic Club retaining national A. A. U. track and field championship this year virtually were shattered today with the withdrawal of five members of the club team and announcement of the probable loss of two other expected point winners.

Club officials, discouraged by the sudden turn of events, were considering withdrawing from the 1930 meet. It is scheduled for August 22, 23 and 25 at Pittsburgh.

Eric Krenz, world's discus throw champion, advised Athletic Director Percy Locey he could not compete because of torn ligaments in his back. Kenneth Churchill, javelin thrower, and Les Hables, sprinter, withdrew because of extra scholastic work, while Jack Merchant, weight and hammer thrower, and Ward Edmonds, pole vaulter, dropped out because of business reasons.

Kim Dyer, broad jumper, and John Kazanjian, weight man, notified Coach Charley Hunter they may not be able to make the trip.

Garden Head Discusses Sharkey-Stribling Bout

Boston, Mass., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, said he discussed the possibility of a 15-round bout between Young Stribling and Jack Sharkey for New York in September here today with Johnny Buckley, manager of the Boston heavyweight.

Carey said that Sharkey was willing to meet Stribling on a percentage basis. Buckley and Carey will renew their discussions in New York next week when Stribling is expected home from England.

Lomax Star of Meet For Georgetown Boys

"Hop" Lomax was the high point scorer in a track meet at Georgetown Playgrounds for the 85 and 100 pound classes. Two second places, and a first brought his total to 11, one ahead of Eddie Seymour and Henry Wear, who were tied for second honors. The meet was held in preparation for the city playground meet.

85-POUND CLASS.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Eddie Malowista; second, Hop Lomax; third, tie between Joe Rosen and Clifton Hirshberg.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

EDWARD CARRE MORGAN set a new mark for home runs by a Cleveland player when he rapped out his nineteenth circuit blow, July 23. As the season is comparatively young and "Tulane Eddie" is in the best of health, he should get several more before the final bell sounds.

Morgan's case is an unusual one. After a brilliant sports career at Tulane University where he was just as good at football and basket ball as at baseball, he joined the New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern Association and became a star at once, batting .354 on his first fling in professional ball.

He joined Cleveland and in 76 games last season batted .313, good but not sensational. This spring the Indians' camp was full of outfielders and the board of strategy conceded Morgan little chance to break into the line-up.

There was talk at the New Orleans camp of trading the Louisiana boy, but nothing worth while, in the opinion of Billy Evans and Roger Peckinpaugh, was offered and he remained on the pay-roll.

IN this day of frenzied home-run hitting in the major leagues, it seems a far cry to 1919, the year Babe Ruth shocked the baseball world by hitting 29 for the circuit.

The Spalding Hall of Fame devoted much of its space to Ruth's amazing performance, declaring it a "record with a vengeance."

"Something big and new was done in baesball in 1919," said the Baseball Guide.

"It was the greatest achievement of any individual ball player in a generation. It placed George H. Ruth, known to the 'boys' as 'Babe,' at the head of the baseball parade directly behind the band.

"It scored for the American League a point not to be denied, but more than that, it demonstrated that we have not yet come to the point in baseball where we can say, 'there is nothing bigger that can be done.'

"Ruth made 29 home runs in 1919. That is a record with a vengeance. It is a regular mastodon of a record. It surpasses all feats of the present generation of ball players and is superior to all the great performances of the ball players of the past."

The editor who penned these glowing words of Ruth and his 1919 performance little dreamed that ten years later Ruth would be hitting more than twice 29 home runs in a season, and tha ta number of his fellows would crack out 29 circuit smashes in a single season.

Ruth, himself, made his 1919 record seem a feeble thing in 1920, and teh Hall of Fame again was almost inarticulate..

"In 1919 the 'fans' could have been forgiven for believing that the maximum of great things in the American League, or any major league, had been achieved for a time when Babe Ruth established his record of 29 home runs. But they didn't know Babe, nor did any one, possibly not even the Babe himself, that fine humored creature of sinew, physical strength, clear ting records from their foundation by making 54 home runs. Had he been the pitchers been more confident of matching their skill against his and not given him so many bases on balls, he would have made more home runs able to play in all the scheduled games of the American League and had vision and good will t ohis fellow men.

"In 1920 he self-perpetarted an earthquake shock that tumbled all batting

"Fifty-four, however, is such an overwhelming display of mastery over the batters of all time that it is not for any one to be hypercritical of the pitchers."

Regardless of new home-run records Ruth may make, he will get no more praise than was showered on him in 1919 for his "record with a vengeance."

NOW that William Lawrence Stribling has knocked out Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott in eight minutes—less than three rounds—perhaps it will be just as well to quit calling him "Willie" and address him as "Bill."

Throwing caution to the winds, the Georgian in two bouts has made himself the outstanding heavyweight of the day. He rained lefts and rights on Falling Phil's head and body, practically finishing the Briton in the first round, and making short work of him in the second.

A terrific left stretched Von Porat flat in the first round and he was through for the night.

Stribling has been a great boxer for years, but his work in the ring has been blighted by extreme caution. He was content to proceed on a "safety first" basis, not an entertaining program for the customers, and as a result he never has attained the popularity his ability deserved.

A few months ago the fighter, who spends his odd moments in an airplane, decided that he would either establish himself at the top of the pugilistic heap or retire from the game.

He told friends that he would either knock out his opponents or be knocked out himself.

"I am going to get somewhere," said Strib at the Sharkey-Schmeling fight. He was chatting informally and not talking for publication. Now it can be told.

"Kep an eye on me in this Von Porat fight. I'll surprise the boys. I'm hitting harder than ever before, and I confidently expect to knock this big Stribling fought Von Porat and Scott with a bad left hand, but this did not slow him up, for his best punching in each bout was with the injured left.

fellow out in an early round."

He made no public forecast before the Scott bout, other than to say he expected to win, but his friends knew that he planned to tear into the British champion and dispose of him at the earliest possible moment.

With a great punch in either hand and undoubted boxing ability, it is difficult to see how Stribling can be kept out of the role of challenger for the world's heavyweight championship. Now that he has decided the way to win a title is to fight for it, he should be easily the most formidable of the few candidates left.

Although he will not be 26 years old until the day after Christmas he has been boxing professionally since 1921 and has appeared in 270 rings, more than all the rest of the challengers combined. He never has been knocked out.

If Stribling and Sschmeling should be matched now, the Macon lad would be an odds-on favorite.

MERION CRICKET CLUB, where the amateur golf championship of th Uenited States will be decided in late September, already is busy making perparations for the event.

The course, 6,565 yards in length, with a par of 70, will be groomed steadily for the championship and is sure to be in great shape when Bobby Jones marches out in his great effort to make it four major championships in one year.

The talented Georgian will tee up at Merion with warm sympathy in his ship in 1916, when he qualified handily and remained in the fight until heart for the spot. Here it was he played in his first amateur championdefeated in the last eight by Bob Gardner, who in turn was downed by Chick Evans for the title.

And it was at Merion that Robert Tye was his first amateur championship, running away from George Von Elm in the final round in 1924.

So it is fitting enough that teh champion of champions should make his drive for his fifth amateur title and fourth crown of the year at Merion.

The east course at Merion, where the championship will be played, has only two long holes, both on the first nine, and Bob likes his holes long and rugged. It has four short holes, and the champion never has liked the little ones, but probably he will do very well there.

I. C. WAGNER, president of a Chicago bank, was playing in a foursome at the South Shore Country Club the other day, and after much persuasion prevailed on one of his opponents to give him a stroke a hole. At the second hole of the round Mr. Wagner holde his tee shot, making it impossible for his opponent to get a half.

On the preceding round Mr. Wagner had made the same hole in two, making the hole twice in one par The hole in one was his third in ten years.

His luckless opponent, conceding him a stroke a hole, was in the position of Julius Tannen's friend who made a hole in less than one, missing the ball, but sinking the divot.

If there is any ustice in golf, Macdonald Smith will win the British open championship next year. The title will be decided at Carnoustie, where Macdonald and other great galfing Smiths were born

Mac will play his best at orfarshire and will have a world of support. The British amateur championship will go to Westward Ho in 1931 for the first time since 1925.

Girl Swimming Champion's Coach Thinks Water Only Fit to Drink

SEATTLE, Aug. 2 (A.P.).—Swimming has lost its charm for the man who discovered Helene Madison, Seattle, greatest of all woman aquatic stars.

Except for a couple of surf board tumbles and saving a drowning boy, Ray Daughters, Helene's coach and former Northwest swimming sprint champion, has not even had his bathing suit wet in the last two years.

"As a kid I was crazy about the water, but now I despise it," said Daughters. "Except for surf-board riding I wouldn't care whether I ever saw it again.

"Of course I have to put on a bathing suit when I instruct my classes, but I never get into the water. I strut around the edge of the pool and tell them how to do it.

"I haven't been in the water for a pleasure swim for more than two years. I had to jump into my pool once this summer to save a boy from drowning and had to do my stuff after surf-board tumbles, but that's been the extent of my swimming for a long time.

"If I ever go in the water again it won't be because I want to."

Miss Madison was discovered by Daughters about two years ago and in the last six months under his direction she has bowled over an even dozen world's records from 100 yards to the mile.

Coen Defeats Bowman In Southampton Tennis

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 4 (A.P.). The defeat of Herbert L. Bowman, New York veteran, by Wilbur F. Coen, jr., of Kansas City, 6—1, 6—2, featured play in early first-round matches in the Southampton invitation tennis tournament today.

Frank Shields, New York youngster, put out Donald Cram, of Nashville, in unexpectedly easy fashion, 6—0, 6—2, and Phil Neer, of Portland, Oreg., bowed to J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., 6—2, 7—5.

LEGION NINES BATTLE ON THURSDAY

Jasper and Spengler Open Play-Off for District Title.

THE American Legion play-off to decide the team which represents the District of Columbia in the regional finals at Hagerstown next week, will start Thursday on the West Ellipse diamond, starting at 3:30 o'clock. This was announced last night by E. B. Lyons, athletic officer of the District department, at a meeting of the rival team representatives at The Post.

The Sergt. Jasper and Spengler Post Nines are the clubs that will battle. The Jaspers, coached by Tom Suter, won the first series while the Spenglers, coached by Jim Hare, won the second series.

The schedule for the play-off calls for one game on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a double-header being played the day following any date that may be rained out. It was necessary to hustle the play-off through in order to comply with Legion rules which require the determining of a district winner by August 10.

Regional Play to Start August 14.

Washington's representatives are scheduled to start play in the regional games August 14. This series includes the entries of Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Delaware. If the District team survives there the next scene of battle is Charlotte, N. C., where the Eastern finals are scheduled starting August 21.

In preparation for the play-off, both teams have booked drills for today. The Jaspers will meet on diamond No. 3 at 10:30 o'clock, while the Spenglers will work out on diamond No. 4 at 5 o'clock.

The personnel of the teams follow:

Yankee Beats Rivals In America Cup Trials

Mattapoisett, Mass., Aug. 4 (A.P.). Yankee, Boston's contender for the honor of defending the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, led the other three cup candidates, Enterprise, Whirlwind and Weetamoe, in the 31-mile run from Newport, R. I., to this port today. The four contenders made the race as a division of the annual New York Yacht Club cruise.

The race up Buzzards Bay proved a test of heavy ability as there was a 25 mile an hour breeze blowing. Yankee crossed the line about 10 seconds ahead of Enterprise, with Whirlwind in third place and Weetamoe last. The fact that Weetamoe lost a man overboard and was delayed as a result may have affected her showing.

The cup candidates set out with the yacht club cruise from New London, Conn., Saturday, racing in one division, while other craft of the cruise were divided into other classes, according to size and ratings. Weetamoe won the opening run from New London to Newport.

Carl Mays Is Released To Toledo by Portland

Portland, Oreg., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Thomas L. Turner, president of the Portland Beavers, announced today Carl Mays, Portland pitcher, had been released outright to the Toledo, Ohio, Club of the American Association. He will leave for Toledo tomorrow.

Mays, former major leaguer, had been on the suspended list since a recent fistic encounter with John Walter, another Beaver hurler.

PLAYGROUND MEET WON BY IOWA

Half-Mile Race Decides Northwestern Conference Test.

BY scoring 8 points in the final event of the day, the half-mile run, Iowa Avenue successfully defended its Northwestern field and track championship yesterday. Brookland led the winners by one-half point up to the time that the 880-yard run started, but failed to place in this event, and as a consequence had to be satisfied with second place.

Teams scoring points follow: Iowa Avenue, 37½; Brookland, 30; Columbia Road, 26½; Brightwood, 24; Park View 20½; Burroughs, 15; Barnard, 9½; Woodridge, 8; Tenth and Evart, 7; Twin Oaks, 7, and Raymond, 1. There were many entries in every event, 350 boys taking part, but the little 70-pound class proved to be the most popular. In the 50-yard dash, 41 of these youngsters faced the starter, and in the 70-pound broad jump 48 boys strove for places.

CARL KAUFFMAN

Title winner for the past three years, Carl Kauffman, a Pittsburgh steel mill clerk, will defend his national public links crown today at Jacksonville, Fla., in a field of 119 sectional winners.

Alexandria Cardinals Book Double-Header for Sunday

Celtics Dicker for Game With Fredericksburg Elks; Watkins, Potomac Yard Star, Forced to Quits Baseball.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 4.—Manager Bernard De Vaughan, of the Cardinal Athletic Club, announced today that he has scheduled a double-bill for Sunday afternoon on Haydon's Field.

Th eCardinals will clash in two series games with Alexandria teams. In the first encounter they will oppose the Hume Spring Nine, while in the nightcap the Columbia Firemen will be their opponents. The Breenmen hold verdicts over both these clubs in early season tussles.

Earl Watkins, star catcher in the Potomac Yard League and with the Cardinals on Sundays, is lost to these clubs for the remainder of the season. Watkins' physician advised him to give up the national pastime because of ill health.

Director Charlie Corbett, of the St. Mary's Celtics, is dickering with the Fredericksburg Elks for a contest in Baggett's Field on Sunday. Corbett hopes to complete terms this week.

Paul "Chunky" Travers, star athlete at V. M. I. last year, is a lifeguard at the Municipal Swimming Pool. Travers has received orders to report to Lexington for fall football training September 1.

The first night swimming meet under the auspices of the Alexander Recreation Department will be held on Wednesday, August 6. Sidney Hancock, head lifeguard, reports a number of entries have been made in all classes. Handsome prizes will be given to the winners.

Art Ludlow, veteran third baseman, with the St. Mary's Celtics, is leading the club in extra-base hits, according to figures released today. Ludlow is having one of his best seasons with the willow.

The new top-jackets ordered for the American Legion Junior, baseball champions of the State of Virginia, arrived today. The boys will wear these at Gastonia, N. C., when they play in the regional "8" elimination series.

Frank Summers, athletic director at V. M. I., who is an Alexandria resident, is in charge of a boy's camp in West Virginia.

The Carter Motor Co. Baseball Team will play the Potterfield A. C. tomorrow afternoon on Hayden's Field. Herbie Robinson will pitch for the Fordmen. A challenge is hurled at the Old Dominion Boat Club Nine by the Fordmen to decide the week-day baseball title in Alexandria.

Leon Riley, star center-fielder with the Celtics, has quit the national pastime for the season. Riley was playing a bang-up game with the Celtics until he made this decision.

Herbert Knight, sportsman in Alexandria, has donated three cups for pries inz the municipal recreation department baseball leagues.

Fights Among Players Sanctioned by Hickey

Chicago, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Ball players can take a few punches at each other without fear of disciplinary action from Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association, but if they strike an umpire—why, that's something else.

President Hickey today said he would take no action against Ernie Smith, shortstop with Minneapolis, for attacking Pitcher Jess Doyle, of the Columbus Club, at Columbus yesterday. Elmer Yoter, Columbus third baseman, also joined the fight. All three were chased from the game.

"As long as the umpire was not involved in the fight, I will take no action," President Hickey commented.

Crabbe, Zorilla Refused Japan Trip by A. A. U.

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Dan Ferris, secretary treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, said today that Lester Crabbe, of Honolulu, and Albert Zorilla, of Argentina, both Olympic swimmers, had been refused permission to compete in Japan this summer because they had previously canceled an engagement to appear in Europe.

"After disappointing ten nations in Europe we could not very well give Crabbe and Zorilla permission to swim in Japan," Ferris said.

About two weeks before they were to have sailed for Europe, July 16, Zorilla withdrew on the plea that he had to go back to Argentina, and Crabbe on the ground of a business connection, Ferris said.

Permission to make the trip to Japan has been granted to three other athletes—Mickey Galitzen, of Los Angeles, and two Hawaiian swimming stars.

HUNT, SUTTER WIN.

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Charles Hunt, of San Francisco, Pacific Coast junior titleholder, and Edward Sutter, of New Orleans, brother of Cliff Sutter, national intercollegiate singles tennis champion, got by the first round of the Western junior championships today to retain their places as favorites.

Hunt eliminated William Cagney, Chicago, 6—1, 6—0; while Sutter defeated Bill Reese, of Atlanta, Ga., 2—6, 7—5, 6—4. Sol Finkleman, of Middletown, Ohio, also won his first rounder, defeating Jack Ludwig, of Chicago, 7—5, 2—6, 6—4.

Hoover's Presence Augurs Ill for Nats

President Hoover has attended four baseball games since he was drafted by Washington, and he hasn't seen the Nats win a game or the Athletics lose one.

The games he has watched are: April 17, 1929, Athletics 13, Washington 4; October 14, 1929, Athletics 3, Cubs 2 (world's series); April 14, 1930, Red Sox 4, Washington 3; July 30, 1930, Athletics 7, Washington 4.

Steel, of Little Rock, Resigns as Manager

Little Rock, August 4 (A.P.).—Jack Steel resigned today as manager of the Little Rock Club of the Southern Association. His resignation, announced by President R. G. Allen, is effective immediately. Ill health was the reason given for the retirement. President Allen said some player now with the club probably will be named manager, at least temporarily.

Steel has been manager of the Travelers since the middle of the 1928 season.

2 AMERICANS TOP CANADA TOURNEY

Ferguson and Ryan Lead Amateur Field With 144 Cards.

LONDON, Ontario, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Two players from the United States, Francis W Ryan, of Birmingham, Mich., and J. Raymond Ferguson, of Philadelphia, tied today for the medal in the 36-hole qualifying round of the Canadian amateur golf championship. Each turned in cards for an aggregate of 144.

Ryan, after turning in the best round of the day, 69, in the morning, toured the course of the London Hunt Club in 75 this afternoon for his aggregate of 144. Ferguson had a par-equaling round of 70 this morning, but slipped to 74 this af

RISE IN GRAIN HELPS STOCK PRICE RALLY

Forenoon Decline Overcome as Wide List of Issues Gain 2 to 6 Points.

1,201,800 SHARES SOLD

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Strength of the grain markets encouraged activity in stocks during the last hour of trading today.

Share prices, which had declined during the forenoon, bounded upward as wheat soared 4 cents a bushel, and final quotations in a wide assortment of issues were 2 to 6 points net higher.

Until the bulls staged their demonstration the market was only a repetition of the dull sessions of late last week, and even with the belated rally the turnover was the second smallest in more than two years, totaling only 1,201,800 shares. Sales in the last 50 minutes exceeded the entire volume of last Saturday.

Wall street heard some alarming reports from the grain belt still gripped by the drought. While some of these were saying that expert crop statisticians had declined to estimate the damage done since their recent estimates of losses were compiled, the head of the National Grange was informing President Hoover of the seriousness of the situation and traders of the Chicago pit were bidding up wheat and corn. The former grain closed 3¾ cents higher while corn showed advances of 2¾ to 3⅝.

Prices Climb Rapidly.

Speculators for the rise put a bullish interpretation on this news. Bringing forward some of the old pool favorites, such as Radio, they placed buying orders throughout the list of stocks. Covering shorts found the market then and prices rose rapidly.

There was some mildly constructive news: Resumption of automobile production in Detroit after the vacation shutdowns stimulated sentiment and additional support was forthcoming in the announcement that steel operations in the Youngstown district were improving. Republic Steel's July orders exceeded the June total.

Optimistic bulls had been pleased by the market's ability more than to hold its own during the recent dull trading, pointing out that its action gave notice of a strong technical position. Prominent stocks were supported in the sluggish selling of the morning and were moved forward briskly when the rally started.

American Telephone was a leader, mounting 6 points in fulfillment of expectations that an advance would follow completion of the new financing. Diamond Match was the day's individual feature, soaring to a new high of 240 and closing 12 points up. Shares like U. S. Steel, American Can, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, Johns-Manville and United Carbon rose 3 to 3½, while A. M. Byers, Bethlehem Steel, Public Service of New Jersey, Western Union, Vanadium, United Aircraft, Dupont, Radio and American Tobacco B rallied 2 or more. J. I. Case and Foster Wheeler gained 5 and New York Central, Westinghouse Electric and Coca Cola, 4.

Gulf States Steel Drops.

Warner Brothers was under pressure in the earlier hours, sinking to a new low of 33¾ and then regaining its 2-point drop. Gulf States Steel broke more than 7 points on uncertainty over the dividend. Reading lost 3.

Although there was no change in the rate on call money, the undertone of that market was firmer as the banks called about $50,000,000 in loans. These withdrawals were said to be chiefly for institutions in the interior, where funds are being needed for group movements.

The general dullness of the stock market last month was reflected in the report on New York Stock Exchange member loans on collateral. This showed that these borrowings had decreased by the rather nominal amount of $38,228,922 during July, standing at $3,689,482,297 on the last day of the month, approximately half of the total as of July 31, 1929.

Cotton joined wheat and corn in moving higher, closing up 17 to 28 points on covering prompted in part by weather conditions. Foreign exchanges were featureless, sterling and the French franc holding firm. Gold withdrawals amounted to $2,000,000, all for Canada.

PRICES VARY LITTLE AS BOND SALES SINK

Several Industrials, Rails and Utilities Prove Able to Rise.

FOREIGN SECTION FIRM

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Changes that were hardly perceptible took place in the bond market today, where the total volume of sales was less than on some brisk half-day sessions, approximating $5,774,000. The inactivity appeared to confirm expectations that the market will idle during August.

The price level as indicated by the averages again touched the high for the year as a result of a moderate demand for rails which were firm. The market continued highly selective, and most of the changes were confined to small fractions, reflecting the apathy of institutions toward anything but the highest type of bonds. Activity centered in a few issues in the domestic and foreign list. Stock privilege issues made the best gains of the day. Only $50,000 Treasury issues sold and changes were of small consequence.

The market started the first full week of August with no new offerings. Nor was there much prospect of many issues appearing this month. American investors may have the opportunity to subscribe to German National Railways Co. short-term notes, which will be issued shortly, according to word in financial circles today. The company is planning to issue 150,000,000 reichsmarks 6 per cent notes. One of the immediate pieces of new financing is a $15,000,000 offering of Paramount-Fublix Corporation 20-year 5½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds to be sold tomorrow at 94½.

Among railroad issues, an especial demand developed for Colorado & Southern 4½s, which rose fractionally to a new high. Another spectacular rise carried Chicago & Alton 3s up about 3 points. While legal issues held firm, second grade rails were dull and heavy.

Interborough Rapid Transit issues featured the utilities, the 6s and 5s rising more than 2 points. In one of the largest turnovers of the day American & Foreign Power 5s reached the year's high.

Several industrials showed strength. Armour Real Estate 4½s established a new 1930 high. McKesson & Robbins 5½s gained 1¼ to reach the best price of the year. Oil company bonds were active and firm.

Stock privilege issues profited somewhat by the late strength in shares. American Telephone 4½s rose 3⅜; Atchison 4½s 1 and International Telephone 4½s gained ¾. Warner Brothers 6s after losing nearly 3 points recovered all but a fraction.

Trading in foreign bonds was in a wide field of issues, with the tone steady to firm. French 7s duplicated the recent high price, while the 7½s were steady. Cuba Republic 4½s soared 2¾s to a new high. South Americans were dull and steady.

WARDMAN CONCERNS TO EXCHANGE STOCK

Mortgage and Discount Co. to Acquire Interest in Realty Firm.

$800,000 IS INVOLVED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Continuation of the Wardman activities was assured yesterday when stockholders of the Wardman Mortgage & Discount Co., holding approximately $800,000 worth of notes of the Wardman Corporation, approved the decision of the company's directors to exchange them for a similar amount of preferred stock of the Wardman Realty & Construction Co.

Action was taken at a meeting held at Alexandria, the company being organized under a Virginia charter, and approximately 250 stockholders were represented in person or by proxy. Harry Wardman, long prominent in washington building, real estate and hotel circles, also attended the meeting. The Wardman Mortgage & Discount Co., a mortgage financing company engaged in financing, discounting and rediscounting, organized in 1924. The other Wardman activities are the Wardman Realty & Construction Co., organized about two and one-half years ago at the time of the reorganization of the Wardman interests, the Wardman Real Estate Properties Corporation and the Wardman Corporation.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Potomac Insurance Co. of the District of Columbia, was held yesterday and resulted in the election of the following directors: Judge A. A. Hoehling, Lee Brown, C. F. R. Ogilby, Charles E. Hood, Charles E. Howe, Thomas C. Moore, J. W. Lawler, F. Norie-Miller, S. Norie-Miller, Alexander K. Phillips, Edmund D. Rheem, Frederick Richardson, George W. White and Henry Gomont.

Andrew Jackson Signed Charter.

The company is arranging to celebrate its hundredth anniversary in March. It was chartered by special act of Congress in March, 1831, and its original charter was signed by President Andrew Jackson and John C. Calhoun, after which it received several amendments which were signed by James K. Polk and President Andrew Jackson in 1837; President Millard Fillmore in 1851; James G. Blaine and President U. S. Grant in 1870; President William McKinley in 1900, and President Warren G. Harding in 1922.

The late W. W. Corcorann was for years a director and stockholder and took an active part in the management and growth of the company. At one time the Potomac insured for George Washington Parke Custis, the owner, the Arlington, Va., residence and all outbuildings on the farm, at a rate of 1 per cent for one year.

The company is enjoying a conservative prosperity and has total assets of $3,622,267.31; paid-in capital of $500,000; and surplus to policyholders of $1,830,465.16. It operates in about 42 States in the Union, and writes all fire, automobile and allied lines. The officers of the company are: President, George W. White; vice president and manager, Thomas C. Moore; second vice president, Edmund D. Rheem; secretary, Alexander K. Phillips; assistant secretaries, J. W. Lawler and William C. Dent.

The Guaranty Co. of New York is heading a syndicate offering today $20,000,000 Ontario Power Service Corporation, Ltd. 5½ per cent first mortgage sinking fund gold bonds to mature July 1, 1950, at a price of 94.22 to yield 6 per cent. Application will be made to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Collateral loans to New York Stock Exchange members declined $38,228,992 last month, totaling $3,689,482,297 on July 31. On the same date a year ago these loans aggregated $7,473,794,284.

Metropolitan Chain Stores, Inc., has omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock due at this time.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce today shipped $1,000,000 in gold to Canada.

The fact that total orders received by the Republic Steel Corporation in July were larger than in June is regarded by corporation officials as an indication of a turn in the steel market, said a statement made public here today. The increase was not large, but it was pointed out that it was achieved despite the Fourth of July holiday and extensive curtailment of automobile output. During the last few days of the month the company received orders for 110 miles of lap weld pipe, the statement said. Both the lap weld and the electric weld mills of the corporation are booked for a considerable period ahead, and large additional orders for electric weld pipe are pending. Water shortage was a retarding factor in local plants' operations last week, but this has been corrected by a large release of water from Lake Milton, storage reservoir.

Business failures during July totaled 1,930, with liabilities aggregating $72,212,746, compared with failures numbering 1,570 and liabilities aggregating $104,699,997 in the corresponding month last year, Bradstreet's reports July failures were 3 per cent more numerous than in June, but were lower than those of apy of the first five months of the year. For the seven months ended July 31 defaults numbered 14,482, with liabilities totaling $556,187,754, compared with 12,136 failures and liabilities aggregating $406,291,898 for the like period last year.

New construction contracts awarded for all types of building in the metropolitan area of New York during July was valued at $68,861,300 compared with $80,324,900 for the previous month and $177,700,800 in July last year, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports.

Willys-Overland Co. has called for redemption September 1 next $996,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent sinking fund bonds due September 1, 1933, at 101.

Directors of the Porto Rico Telephone Co. have authorized redemption October 1 of all preferred stock outstanding at $107 a share and accrued dividend.

Gold withdrawn for export today totaled $2,000,000 and consisted of two shipments of $1,000,000 each to Canada by the Irving Trust Co. and the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank showed imports of $146,000 from Brazil.

R. Hoe & Co., Inc., manufacturer of printing machinery, today reported for the first half consolidated net profit of $196, 31, equal to $2.05 a share on 96,000 no par class A shares, on which there is an accumulation of unpaid dividends, compared with $202,649, or $2.11 a share on the class A in the first half last year. A statement by the company said it was not expected that profits for the second half this year would be as good as for the same period last year, since several large orders recently secured will not be completed until 1931.

Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co. for the first half reported a net loss of $184,949, against a net profit of $617,172 in the corresponding period last year.

Air Way Electric Appliance Corporation for the June quarter had net profit of $224,829, equal to 47 cents a share on the common, compared with $469,673, or $1.09 a share in the June quarter last year.

A reduction of 2 cents a yard in a line of converted 80-square percales, printed, has led to further revisions in similar lines. Cotton goods held barely steady today in the gray goods division, with the demand moderate. New flannel prices for spring are being prepared in wool goods houses and are expected to be announced tomorrow. Silk was firmer in Japan and quiet here. Silk goods were in moderate demand for fall.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia—Somewhat overcast Tuesday, not quite so warm at night; Wednesday partly cloudy; moderate west winds.

For Maryland—Somewhat overcast, possibly preceded by local showers in extreme north portion, Tuesday; not quite so warm at night; Wednesday partly cloudy; moderate to fresh west winds.

For Virginia—Partly cloudy, not quite so warm in extreme north portion Tuesday; Wednesday partly cloudy; moderate southwest and west winds.

A disturbance is moving rapidly eastward with increasing intensity over the mouth of the St. Lawrence, Father Point, 29.48 inches. Pressure is also low over the southern Plains States. Concordia, Kans., 29.88 inches. High pressure prevails in the region of Bermuda, 30.28 inches, with an extension westward to the Middle Gulf States, and pressure is relatively high from western Ontario, Port Arthur, 30.12 inches, southwestward over the middle Rocky Mountain region. During the last 24 hours local thundershowers have occurred in the Rocky Mountain region, the middle Plains States, the Lake region, the upper Mississippi Valley, northern New England, Florida and at scattered points in Arkansas. Temperatures have fallen slightly in the southern Plains States, Arkansas and Missouri.

The outlook is for mostly fair weather Tuesday and Wednesday in the Washington forecast districts, except for showers on Tuesday in New England and portions of the Middle Atlantic Coast, for showers on Wednesday in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and Georgia, and for showers Tuesday and Wednesday in Florida. It will be slightly cooler on Tuesday in the lower Lake region, the north portion of the Middle Atlantic States and the interior of New England.

Curb Review

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Curb shares struggled feebly higher in the dullest full day experienced by this market in more than two years today. Sales totaled only 302,900 shares, exceeding the turnover for Saturday's two hour session by a scant margin.

Electric Bond & Share was a firm spot, giving the best account of itself in several days. This pivotal issue closed at 83¼, up 2 points. United Light A and American Superpower gained fractionally. American Gas, a recent firm spot, reacted 3½ points in profit taking, but rallied before the close, losing only 1 point, net. Duquesne was a firm spot in the natural gas issues.

The oils were somewhat stronger. News of the bringing of the Darst Creek pool in Texas into the production curtailment program helped sentiment in this group. Cities Service and Cosden gained fractionally. A strong group of professional traders have recently been operating in the latter, but it has resisted profit taking. Gulf advanced a point and Humble rallied 2 in a small turnover.

In the investment trust group, Chemical National Associates was active and firm, gaining ½ point in response to announcement that it was being acquired by the Chemical Bank & Trust Co. and the Chemical National Co., its original sponsors. International Superpower gained 2 points and Atlas Utilities was firm. Goldman Sachs rallied a little.

Industrials were dull and irregular. Dresser B stock jumped 3 points in a few sales, and Deere lost 2½. Gleaner Combine lost about as much. Stein & Co. dropped more than 4 points to a new low at 10.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Collins & Aikman.

L. V. B.—I have been advised to buy Collins & Aikman. Kindly give me some facts regarding this company.

Answer—Collins & Aikman should benefit by any improvement in the automobile industry. Despite quiet conditions in the car field, it has done remarkably well, earnings on the common for the three months ended May 31, being equivalent to $1.01 a share, an increase in earnings of 130 per cent over the same period last year. Net earnings for the first half of the fiscal year are estimated around $2 a share, which would be more than in the entire preceding twelve-month fiscal period. Collins & Aikman turns out a complete line of pile fabrics. Two-thirds of its business is with the auto trade and the other third with furniture companies.

June was a fairly active month and August is expected to show a decided pick-up. The common has been thoroughly deflated and is regarded as being attractively priced. Collins & Aikman is in a comfortable position, there being only 97,600 shares of preferred ahead of the 587,633 common shares. Continuation of the earnings recovery could result in resumption of dividends on the common.

Tobacco Stocks.

D. B. S.—Please give me two tobacco stocks that may not be affected by the business depression.

Answer—Two stocks of leading cigarette manufacturers are American Tobacco and Liggett & Myers. The former, with its Lucky Strike brand, is running well ahead of competitors by showing a large increase in sales for June. Both of these issues are highly regarded from the standpoint of investment. Earnings have been good and both are dividend payers.

Has $500 to Invest.

J. N. M.—I have saved $500, which is in the bank, and which I am thinking of withdrawing and putting into Norfolk Southern. Do you approve of this plan?

Answer—Approval is not given to your plan. Keep your money in the bank where it is drawing interest. You may need it for some unexpected emergency. The outlook for Norfolk Southern is poor and earnings have been on the decline. Norfolk Southern is near the lowest price since 1923 and there appear to be no prospects justifying any sharp appreciation in price. Traffic has been declining for a year and prospects of improvement the remainder of the year are poor. Unless economies are brought about in operations, there is the likelihood that earnings for 1930 will be insufficient to cover charges.

Davison Chemical.

C. K. D.—What is the book value of Davison Chemical and what is the outlook for the company in the fertilizer field?

Answer—The book value of Davison Chemical is $61.49 a share. This figure, however, does not include certain properties held apart from the business, and give a salable value of about $40 a share. Davison is selling considerably below its book value.

The outlook for the fertilizer end of the business is good. Sales of fertilizers for the fiscal year ended June 30 is estimated to be larger than in the preceding period. Greater diversification of production indicates increased earnings stability. In addition, holdings in the Silica Gel Corporation and large real estate holdings along the waterfront of Baltimore are expected to be profitable.

United Aircraft Corporation.

B. L. T.—What are the earnings of the United Aircraft Corporation? Is the company to go in with the General Motors Corporation?

Answer—Unofficial reports are that 1½ shares of General Motors will be exchanged for one share of United Aircraft. Nothing official, however, has been said. For the March quarter, earnings of United Aircraft equalled 39 cents per share, as against $1.05 the same time last year. This is a decline of more than 50 per cent. The government has delayed ordering new commercial airplanes until new air routes are mapped out, and this has affected, to some extent, the earnings, which for the three months, do not include those of the National Air Transport Co., recently acquired. The United is a complete unit in the business, and while no dividends are paid on the common, the outlook appears good.

Corn Products.

S G. T.—How is Corn Products regarded?

Answer—The stock rated as a sound investment. While first quarter income showed a decline, improvement has occurred, earnings for the three months ended June 30 equalling $1.21 per share. Income for the corresponding period last year was $1.18 a share. Prospects are that additional betterment will take place, which has led to earnings estimates this year of $5 a share, compared with $5.49 in 1929.

Profits for the first half of 1930 were $2.28 as against $2.36 last y ear. Sales of trade marked goods have held up well, but the export business has shown a falling off. The company is in good condition with cash and marketable securities of $34,208,300. Dividends, including extras, are $4.25 a share and at current levels the yield is about 3 per cent.

Hupp Motor.

V. L.—What is the status of the Hupp Motor Car Co.?

Answer—Second quarter earnings were well below those for the same period last year and the year before, although showing seasonal improvement over the first quarter this year. Income for the first half of 1930 shows a drop of 82 per cent for the same months last year, being equal to 29 cents a share, as against $1.87 a share. The outlook is none too promising.

Hupp, however, is in a strong position. The regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share has been declared, payable August 1.

NEW YORK GRAIN.

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—RYE—Firm: No. 2 Western, 69¼, for New York, and 67½, c. i. f. export.

BARLEY—Firm: domestic, 69¾ c. i. f., New York.

WHEAT—Spot, strong: No. 1 Northern spring, c. i. f. New York, 1.05⅞; No. 2 hard winter, f. o. b., New York, 96; No. 2, Manitoba, do, 1.04¼; No. 2, mixed and No. 2 amber durum, do., nominal.

CORN—Spot, strong: No. 2 yellow c. i. f., New York, 1.08¼; No. 3 yellow, do., 1.07¾.

OATS—Spot, strong: No. 2 white, 47½.

FEED—Firm: city bran, 100-lb. sacks, 28.75@29.10; Western bran, do., 27.75@28.10.

U. OF V. PRESIDENT LAUDS DEMOCRACY

Fourth Institute of Public Affairs Formally Opened at Charlottesville.

MANY GOVERNORS THERE

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, formally opened the fourth Institute of Public Affairs here tonight with an address in which he predicted a better plan for prohibition to emerge during the next national political campaign.

Comparing democratic government with that which Mussolini has erected in Italy, he did not withhold praise for what Mussolini has done.

"No one can deny," he said, "that Benito Mussolini has brought new life and vigor to the great people of the Italian peninsula.

"He bodly claims that parliamentarism is windy and futile, and it some times is. He claims that the state is absolute, that the concept of representative democracy lacks vitality and that the mighty structure built here is a house built upon the sands.

Democracy Is Defined.

"Democracy, however, has the capacity to pull together and keep together in emergencies better than dictatorships."

Dr. Alderman defined democracy as "not alone a political system under which the majority rule, but a philosophy of life, a sort of social religion in which every man has the right and the chance to make the most of himself."

A welcome to the delegates, selected from fields of government, industry and church, rural life and Latin-American relations, was also extended by Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia and Dr. Charles G. Maphis, dean of the institute.

Gov. Pollard warned against encroachments of Government on the daily life of the individual.

Early Delegate Arrivals.

Early arrivals among the delegates, who include representatives of the governors of Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina and Ohio, today heard Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, denounce equity power of courts.

In a discussion that followed his address Mr. Olander said he was in favor of having a third party, preferably a college or university authority included, adjusting differences between employers and labor.

President Hoover's ability as a political leader as well as an administrator was extolled by Edwin R. Hunt, secretary of the President's commission at the round table on "Administration of Public Business." Mr. Hunt, who was Mr. Hoover's chief assistant in Belgian relief work, said the President has been training himself for higher office since 1914.

Dr. Olander was selected by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to represent that organization at the institute.

The other side of the question of business efficiency was presented by Dr. Emory Q. Hawk of the department of economics, Birmingham-Southern College, Birmingham, Ala.

Pair Is Killed, One Injured by Trains

Accidents in Virginia Take Life of Man, 21, and Concrete Worker.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Two men were killed and one injured on railway tracks in three separate accidents in Virginia yesterday and today.

The body of William Pugh, 45, a concrete worker, was found beside the Norfolk & Western Railway tracks near Rocky Mount early this morning. The county coroner said he was killed by a train.

Later today J. E. Riffey, 48, of Woodstock, suffered serious injuries when his automobile was struck by a southbound Southern train near his home town. He was taken to a Harrisonburg hospital, where his condition was said to be critical. He suffered a fractured thigh, three fractured ribs and severe cuts on the head.

Yesterday John W. Dawson, jr., 21, of Madison Heights, was killed by a Southern train on a bridge over James River near Lynchburg.

Discrepancy Seen In Orphanage Fun

Books of Virginia Methodist Institution Adjusted by Accountant.

Richmond, Va., Aug 4 (A.P.).—The Rev. James T. Mastin, D. D., member of the board of trustees of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage, said today that a certified public accountant had found funds unaccounted for on the books of James P. Jones, until recently treasurer of the orphanage. He did not give the amount in dollars. A settlement in full has been offered and accepted by the board, Dr. Mastin said.

Mr. Jones, who is a member of the Virginia Legislature, said today:

"There is no shortage, merely a discrepancy between the accounts of the treasurer and the reports of the superintendent of the orphanage, which has been adjusted."

The trustees will meet in Richmond Wednesday to receive a final settlement. The executive committee will meet tomorrow to discuss various aspects of the situation.

Mr. Jones had been treasurer of the board for four years, being succeeded on June 7 by James C. Crass. this action being taken at an adjourned meeting of the board of trustees after a report had been received from an accountant.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

THRONG AT BURIAL OF MRS. JOHNSON; PLAYERS ATTEND

Simple Services Conducted for Young Wife of Nats' Popular Pilot.

TRIBUTES FROM FANS IN ALL WALKS OF LIFE

Clark Griffith Leads Active Pallbearers; President Sends Wreath.

Mrs. Walter Johnson was laid to her final resting place yesterday morning.

Her grave today is marked by a mass of flowers in Rockville Union Cemetery, tribute from men and women of every walk of life, from the President to the humblest fan. The bereaved husband and members of the Washington team led the funeral procession. Clark Griffith, owner of the team, headed the active pallbearers.

The other active pallbearers were Thomas S. Flaherty, George S. Hane, next door neighbor to Walter Johnson, Ford Young, Joe Engel, scout for the Washington club, and Michael F. Martin, the club's trainer. Members of the ball team were honorary pallbearers.

Simple Episcopal Service.

The simple Episcopal service that marked the final rites was read by the Rev. Joseph E. Williams, of the Bethesda Episcopal Church. The service proceeded from the Johnson home at Alta Vista to the cemetery. The house and garden were crowded with mourners. Flowers filled the rooms of the home.

As the casket was borne from the house, the ball players stood on either side of the front walk. Johnson, his face drawn and tired, escorted his mother, Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Coffeeville. His father-in-law, Edwin E. Roberts, Mayor of Reno, Nev.; his three brothers and four of the five children also attended the funeral. The youngest child, a 4-year-old girl, remained with friends.

The procession of mourners extended for more than a mile, and an escort to the cemetery was given by twelve mounted Montgomery County policemen. The road in front of the Johnson home, from Battery lane to the Rockville pike, was cut off from traffic.

List of Tribute Senders.

Among those who sent floral tributes were: President and Mrs. Hoover, Secretary Lawrence Ritchey, Mr. and Mrs. Clark C. Griffith, Edward B. Alleged Holdup Youth Identified

William Reed, 19, of Four Corners, Held in Silver Spring Cases.

William Reed, 19, of Four Corners, Md., who was arrested Saturday, was identified yesterday as the bandit alleged to have staged two holdups in the Silver Spring section within the past two weeks. He was held on two charges of holdup and with assaulting an officer after preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace J. P. Jones at Rockville, Md., yesterday.

The youth is charged with holding up and robbing Charles F. Wilmeth, Takoma Park taxi driver, near the Argyle Country Club Friday night after engaging Wilmeth's cab in Washington to take him to Silver Spring. He also is held for a robbery on July 24 when Robert Creel, proprietor of an automobile supply store, was held up as he turned into the driveway to the Indian Spring Golf Club. Wilmeth reported that $4 was stolen from him, while Creel's loss was $5. Both men identified Reed as the bandit who had robbed them.

Reed was arrested by Montgomery County Policeman Joseph Nolte after a chase along Georgia avenue Saturday. The policeman reported that when he approached Reed in a drug store on Georgia avenue to arrest him, the youth dashed the contents of a soft drink glass in his face and fled.

Richmond Undercover Agents Net 30 Arrests

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Three weeks of undercover work in Richmond and Petersburg had culminated today in the arrest of 30 men on charges of liquor law violations, while an additional ten arrests were expected by tonight, R. Q. Merrick, Federal prohibition administrator for this district, announced today.

Administrator Merrick said the drive was made chiefly against the "big fellows." During the last three weeks prohibition agents worked under cover, buying liquor in some cases as many as five times from some of the larger dealers.

MRS. WALTER JOHNSON LOWERED IN GRAVE

HURLING CIRCULARS INTO AUTOS FOUGHT

COUNTY "AD" SUIT ENDS

Bethesda officials are planning a drive against hotels and other business organizations which make a practice of employing boys to throw circulars and advertising matter into automobiles.

George Openshaw, of Jersey City, N. J., reported to the Bethesda substation yesterday that while he was driving through Bethesda shortly before noon, his automobile was badly damaged when it was rammed from the rear by a car driven by Edward W. Dittmer, of Pittsburgh.

The cause of the accident, according to police, was that a boy had thrown advertising literature for a hotel into Dittmer's automobile just as he was approaching the Bethesda traffic light, where Openshaw was stopped. The wad of advertising matter, it was said, struck Dittmer in the face, distracting his attention and obstructing his vision so that he lost control temporarily of his automobile, and crashed into the rear of Openshaw's car.

Section 199 of the State highway regulations provides a fine of $100 for first offense of throwing any missile into an automobile, whether the car be moving or stationary, occupied or unoccupied. Neither Openshaw nor Dittmer, however, remained in the vicinity to press charges against the boy who threw the literature nor against the hotel which employed him. Justice of the Peace James Christopher, however, stated that the next time a complaint is received, police action will follow immediately.

Joseph N. Starkey, of Rockville, Montgomery County surveyor, yesterday announced his candidacy for reelection on the Democratic ticket. Neither the organization nor the anti-organization faction has yet indicated whom it will support for the surveyorship, however. Charles J. Maddox, who filled the office during a previous term, also is understood to be planning to go after the post this year.

The United States acquired three new citizens when Judge Robert B. Peter sat in naturalization court in Montgomery County at Rockville yesterday.

Mrs. Berthe Girola Anderson, young wife of Thomas M. Anderson, Rockville attorney and Republican candidate for State senator, took the oath of allegiance which permits her to cast a vote for her husband in the coming election. Mrs. Anderson was born in Switzerland, and came to this country in 1927. The couple has been married about a year.

Daniel Ross Duff, of Takoma Park, who came here from Scotland in 1923, and Alexander Stephen Fenwick, who came here from Scotland in 1920, were the other two who were made United States citizens yesterday.

Tax bills were mailed yesterday to about 28,000 taxpayers in Montgomery County, going to all whose addresses were in the files of the tax office. Taxpayers who do not receive bills will understand that it is because their addresses were not available and are instructed to communicate with the tax collector at once.

The petition of Walter W. Mobley, of Derwood, Md., for an injunction restraining the Montgomery County commissioners and treasurer from letting further contracts for public advertising or printing to the Maryland Publishing Co., was denied yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in Circuit Court at Rockville, Md.

This decision was made after the defendants had filed an amended answer stating that all debts owing to the publishing company, incurred while four of the commissioners were stockholders in the company, had been canceled. In their formal answer last Wednesday the defendants stated that the commissioners had disposed of their holdings in the publishing company.

Mr. Mobley held this disposition of the stock as an admission by the defendants that their dealings with the Maryland Publishing Co. had been illegal, and on Saturday he sent to the commissioners a written demand that they return, as individuals, approximately $25,000 paid by the county to the publishing company since its organization in 1927.

The basis for the original complaint, filed by Mr. Mobley on July 7, was set forth as a provision in the code of general public laws of Maryland which makes it an indictable offense for county commissioners to contract with any concern in which [illegible] would permit the contract to react to their personal profits.

In their answer, filed Wednesday, the defendants admitted that when the action was brought Commissioners Benjamin C. Perry, Lacey Shaw, and Clagett C. Hilton were stockholders and directors in the Maryland Publishing Co. and that Commissioner Robert L. Hickerson was a stockholder.

The three former resigned on July 16, at which time all four returned their stock to the company, the answer stated.

Attorneys Vivian Simpson, John E. Oxley and Harold C. Smith, representing Mr. Mobley, argued before Judge Peter that formal assurance should be given that no future attempt would be made by the Maryland Publishing Co. to collect debts still outstanding incurred by the commissioners while they were stockholders.

When P. H. Marshall, attorney for the publishing company, stated verbally that all such debts had been canceled, defense counsel requested that this statement be embodied in the formal answer, and this was ordered by Judge Peter. The plea for an injunction was overruled by the judge yesterday on the grounds that all objectionable conditions complained of had ceased to exist since the petition was filed.

Officers Elected By Postmasters

Jarrattsville Man Named Head of League During Annapolis Event.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 4.—William C. Dempsey, Keedysville, Md., was elected president of the League of District Postmasters of Maryland at the annual meeting of that group here today. Other officers chosen are T. H. Ward, Jarrattsville, vice president, and Mrs. Mary M. Gooch, Bethesda, secretary-treasurer. D. H. Stonesifer, of Baltimore, was elected a member of the executive committee.

Thirty-five postmasters from various towns of the State attended the convention. President Dempsey presided and Joseph M. Armstrong, of Annapolis, opened the meeting with a short prayer, and later spoke at Carvel Hall on "Efficiency of the Postal Service."

Following the business session, luncheon was served at Carvel Hall, in the course of which Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt of Annapolis delivered a welcome address, and Theodore McKeldin, representing Mayor William F. Broening of Baltimore also addressed the delegates.

BROOKE LEE AGAIN DECLINES TO RUN

Montgomery Delegates, Slat Two Names Short, Look for Candidates.

PARKER MAY NOT ACCEPT

With three of the Democratic organization candidates for the Maryland House of Delegates already named in Montgomery County, the organization now is casting about for two more names to complete the slate.

Maj. E. Brooke Lee, of Silver Spring, speaker of the House, stands firm in his determination not to seek reelection and declared yesterday that there is no possibility that he may change his mind and become a candidate. Nor has he announced his reason for retiring from the State Legislature.

The organization has asked Brainard H. Parker, president of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, to become a candidate; but although he has not yet definitely refused, there is believed to be little possibility that he will run.

Who will receive the organization's support as its fourth candidate if Mr. Parker does not accept is a question to which not even the organization leaders themselves have found the answer as yet.

The fifth candidate, however, unquestionably will be a man from Maj. Lee's own bailiwick in Silver Spring or Takoma Park, although which of several prospects will be named has not yet been decided.

Bee Causes Automobile Crash.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 4 (Special). Trying to kill a bee that got into his trousers' leg, William H. Cochrane lost control of his car today, and it crashed into a fence, injuring his wife and baby. The top rail of the fence pierced the windshield and almost struck Cochrane in the face.

SMITH SUPPORTERS HOLD AUTO PARADE

Alexandrians Formally End Campaign for House Candidate.

VOTING PLACES LISTED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The local campaign for the Democratic nomination of a candidate for representative in Congress for the Eighth District of Virginia closed last night with an automobile parade of the supporters of Judge Howard W. Smith, Alexandria's candidate. The long line of cars was headed by the Citizens Band, in a large truck, which halted and played selections in each of the six voting precincts of the city. There were red flairs in profusion, and the parade was greeted by crowds lining the streets. Judge Smith rode in the leading car, with Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan, and the line was several squares long.

All is in readiness for the primary today. The polls will open at 5:12 a. m. and close at 7:15 p. m., and with fair weather predicted and each of the five candidates straining every effort to get out the voters, it is believed the heaviest vote ever cast in Alexandria will be polled. There are approximately 7,500 qualified voters in Alexandria, and the predictions of the vote that will be cast run as high as 5,000, although judging from past experience it will hardly be more than 3,500. The candidates are Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria; State Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington; Capt. Crandall Mackey, of Arlington; Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax, and E. H. DeJarnette, jr., of Orange.

The voting places of the six wards in the city will be as follows: First, Armory Hall, South Royal street; second, 110 North Royal street; third, Odd Fellows Hall, North Columbus street; fourth, Friendship Engine House, South Alfred street; fifth, Rosemont Station; sixth, Jefferson District Clinic Building, Mount Vernon avenue, Potomac. The Eighth Congressional District comprises Alexandria City and the counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Prince William, Fauquier, Loudoun, Orange, Culpeper, Louisa, Stafford and King George.

The election officials will have a long day at the polls—fourteen hours and three minutes, and it is estimated it will take at least two hours to count the ballot.

Senator Ball, in a radio address last night, urged that no votes be challenged on account of the defection of the voters in the last two elections, which, he stated, would cause dissension within the Democratic party, and he defended the secrecy of the ballot. He again explained his stand on the child labor question, which had been criticized by Judge Smith.

Judge Smith yesterday, in a published interview, reiterated his criticism of Senator Ball's child labor stand, and stated that Senator Ball was "the one member of the Virginia Senate to vote to take from Virginia the power of selfgovernment on this proposition. Every informed person knows that the amendment would have given to the Federal Government absolute power to prohibit all labor on the farms, in the kitchen, and elsewhere of every person under 18 if Congress chose to enact such a legislation."

Coroner T. Marshall Jones yesterday, in an inquest on the death of Thomas J. Bennett, jr., who died Sunday morning from injuries received in Potomac Yards, gave a verdict of accidental death.

W. O. Pollard, of Washington, a Pennsylvania Railroad freight conductor, testified that he was attracted by Bennett's calls for help, and found him lying beside a track, so weak from loss of blood that he could barely be heard, and Bennett told him he fell while endeavoring to board a freight train, but what train is not known, as no one saw the accident.

Bennett served overseas during the World War. He will be buried at 2 o'clock this afternoon from his home, 320 North Patrick street, with interment in Arlington National Cemetery. Members of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, held a meeting last night, and will attend the funeral today.

Announcement was made yesterday by the members of the board of directors of the Bank of Del Ray that a second dividend will be paid the depositors of that institution on September 2, subject to the approval of Judge J. R. H. Alexander, of Leesburg. This bank closed [illegible] January 18 last, and since that time the depositors have been paid 33 1-3 per cent.

The Del Ray Meat Market, located at Washington and Peyton avenues, was discovered by Policeman Darr, while patrolling his beat shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday morning, to have been entered, and he summoned the proprietor, R. D. Clark, who found the cash register had been taken into the rear of the store from the counter in front and robbed of $18 in cash. A meat cleaver was used to pry it open. The burglar had evidently been frightened off, as $8 was left in the register.

$10,000 TO BE GIVEN SCHOOLS IN FAIRFAX

County Board at Meeting Hears of Sum Provided by Virginia Fund.

TERM CALENDAR MADE

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County school board met yesterday in the county courthouse, with all members present. Most of the day was spent in transacting routine business. A letter was read from Harris Hart, State superintendent of schools, which stated that Fairfax County would get $10,000 from the State equalization and elementary school fund this year. This amount is based on the number of school children in the county of school age.

The resignation of Miss Frances Booth, a primary teacher at the McLean School, was submitted to the board and accepted. The board voted to appropriate $58 to be used to raise the height of the chimney at the Chesterbrook School which has never proved satisfactory since it was constructed. The superintendent of schools was authorized to purchase 200 maps relative to the World War, to be used in the teaching of history in the schools. A report on the proposed construction of a fire escape at the Floris School was read and the question was laid on the table pending a further investigation of different types and prices.

The board voted to change its policy in regard to the admission of pupils to school for the first time. Heretofore it has ruled that no child might enter school unless it was 6 years old prior to the opening day of the term. Several persons appeared yesterday and pointed out to the board that any children reach the age limit within a short time after school opens which causes them to lose a whole year needlessly. The resolution passed yesterday was as follows: "All children who reach their sixth birthday on or before December 1 in the year they plan to enter may be admitted to school, provided they enter at the beginning of the term and rovided further that the reception of the child does not overtax the facilities of the room entered."

Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, a member of the committee to investigate the feasibility of a bond issue for the erection of new schools in Mount Vernon magisterial district, made a special report to the board, stressing the present financial conditions of the farmer, especially with relation to the present drought and the reassessment of real estate now being made. It was voted by the board to postpone any further action in reference to the bond issue in that district until the February meeting in 1931.

Superintendent W. T. Woodson was instructed to notify the school children in the county that before it would be possible for them to attend schools in other divisions and the City of Alexandria and the county board to pay their tuition, they must first obtain the permission of the divisional superintendent, otherwise they would have to pay their own tuition or attend a school in the county.

A communication was received from Divisional Superintendent of Schools E. Emerick, of Loudoun County, in regard to paying tuition for school children attending school in Fairfax County and living in Loudoun County. This letter stated that the Loudoun board agreed to pay the tuition next term for the pupils of the elementary grades only provided that it was not practicable for them to attend a school in Loudoun County because of inaccessibility.

Wakefield School, which was ordered closed earlier in the summer and the pupils transported to another school, was ordered reopened at the meeting yesterday when it was found to be impossible to transport them in bad weather next winter as the road would not be improved in time this year. The superintendent was authorized to hire a teacher for the school.

The board, fearing that the taxes would not be collected by the treasurer as fast as was first contemplated this year, decided to have included in the teachers' contracts this year the proviso that if because of the lack of funds the schools were to be closed before the end of the 180-day school term, the board would only be liable for the salaries for the time that the teacher actually taught.

Miscellaneous items amounting to $805.21 for the month of July were ordered paid as soon as approved by the trustee of the district where the funds were spent and the divisional superintendent.

The school term calendar for the year 1930-31 was arranged and approved as follows: Teachers' institute at Fairfax School, Wednesday, September 10, 1930; schools open September 11; Thanksgiving holidays November 27 and 28, 1930; Christmas vacation, schools close December 23, 1930, and reopen January 5, 1931; Easter holidays, April 3 to 6 inclusive. The school term will close on May 29, 1931; for the summer vacation.

Colored schools will open with the teachers' institute at the Fairfax Colored School on September 24, 1930, and schools open the next day and the term will close on May 15, 1931, for the summer. Other holidays and vacations during the term will be the same as in the white schools.

The meeting of the Groveton Community Club, whose regular meeting would take place tonight, has been postponed until tomorrow night because of the Democratic primary day. At tomorrow's meeting the members will make arrangements to entertain the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, which meets there next Tuesday night, August 12. Both meetings will take place in the Groveton School.

James Jackson, of Falls Church, was fined $30 and costs and sentenced to eleven months in jail for being drunk and disorderly. The offense was committed Sunday night. Town Sergt. Walter Mitchell was called to quell a fight that was reported to be in progress between Jackson and another man by the name of Thomas. When he arrived where the fight was reported to be taking place he found Jackson armed with a shotgun and making threats against several persons in the neighborhood.

Mitchell attempted to place him under arrest and the man resisted so that he had to use force and in the scuffle that ensued Mitchell received an injured hand while he was taking the gun from Jackson. The trial was held last night before Mayor John F. Bethune, of Falls Church.

CLEWS AGAIN FAIL ON MOORER YOUTH

Youth Held in New Haven Is Not Missing Student, Mother Says.

SEARCH TURNS SOUTH

The youth located in New Haven, Conn., who was thought to resemble Morgan P. Moorer, jr., 17-year-old son of Mrs. M. P. Moorer, now living in Washington, who disappeared from the University of North Carolina last February, is not the boy for whom a Nation-wide search is being conducted, it was decided last night by Mrs. Moorer after she viewed pictures of the boy who has been found.

The youth in New Haven gave his name as Luther Hiney, and told authorities he could not remember where he lived. Mrs. Moorer's son is suffering from a lapse of memory or has run away to sea, his mother believes. Mrs. Moorer said last night that her son often told her that he was going around the world some day. But the mother hardly is inclined to believe her son intentionally ran away, because he left the university without clothing or money.

Mrs. Moorer is now directing her search on Wilmington, N. C. She received a letter yesterday from a Mrs. W. T. McCoy, of Charlotte, N. C., telling her that in March she took a boy resembling young Moorer part of the way to Wilmington from Greensboro. The youth is said to have told Mrs. McCoy that he lived in Wilmington. Mrs. McCoy said that her suspicions were aroused when the youth contradicted himself and displayed other mental aberrations.

Evangelist, Woman Held in Danville

Statutory or Mann Act Charge Will Face Man, Police Say.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 4.—G. L. Hodges, who claims to be a Baptist minister and evangelist, and Mrs. Jessie Gilbert, a singer who has been assisting him in his evangelistical campaigns, are being held by local authorities pending an investigation of their status as man and wife. If their contention that they were married in Lynchburg last January is borne out, bigamy charges will be preferred by the authorities who claim that they have not been sufficiently divorced from previous marriages.

Should it develop that they are not married, a white slave charge will be pressed. Meanwhile they are being held for adultery, pending the filing of a more definite charge. The pair were arrested in a tent here in which they had been living since their arrival several days ago from West Virginia.

Hodges, the police say, has a wife living in Belmont, N. C., from whom he has not been divorced. Mrs. Gilbert declined to discuss a previous marriage in Kannapolis, N. C. Hodges had intended conducting a revival here. He claims to have built a new Baptist Church at Landis, N. C., of which he was pastor for some time.

AUTUMN APPLE FETE IS PUT OFF FOR YEAR

Drought, Resulting in Wide Damage to Crops, Alters Martinsburg Plan.

MERCURY RUNNING HIGH

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 4.—Drought, resulting in damage to the quality, and probably quantity, of apples this year, has resulted in abandonment of the projected first annual apple harvest festival here, originally set for October 2 and 3, H. C. Brooks, general chairman of the project, announced today after a series of conferences.

"The unprecedented drought, from which most of the country is now suffering, has seriously affected all crops through the Shenandoah Valley. It is thought that the injury to the apple crop will be such that we could not hope to show visitors to the festival either the fine apples that we normally harvest or the beautiful natural surroundings which we are all accustomed to see at harvest time. For these reasons, and for the particular desire to hold our first apple harvest festival under more favorable conditions, it has been thought wise to postpone starting until next year, the announcement said.

The administrative organization set up this year will be held over, the announcement said, which added that the first Thursday and Friday of each October had been selected for the annual showings.

Counterpart to Blossom Fete.

The fall showing here has been conceived as a counterpart to the annual apple blossom festival held in Winchester, Va., and which has attracted wide attention. This section of the State, heavy producers of apples, has cooperated in the blossom festival and would count on reciprocal assistance from the Virginia belt at the fall undertaking. The fall festival was planned for the entire eastern section of the State, to be held here as the center of the section.

This section experienced its maximum temperature this afternoon when the Government thermometer at the State farm at Kearneysville, east of here, registered 107 degrees, two higher than the previous maximum.

Entire ban on sprinkling of lawns was eased today by city officials when they announced sprinkling each evening between 7 and 8 would be permitted. The concession came as a result of helpful response by citizens previously to an appeal to conserve water.

As a result of a dozen fires starting from burning rubbish in yards, the fire department today asked police assistance in guarding against this danger during the dry weather.

Forest Fires Still Rage.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 4 (Special). There is no improvement in the forest fire situation on Dans Mountain, according to word received from the burning area, where hundreds of men are in a line which stretched nearly 20 miles. A stiff breeze fans the flames in the tinderlike woods. For a time Saturday evening, it was thought the fire was under control, but it soon broke out afresh.

The State police have been drafting fighters at Lonaconing, Frostburg, Westernport, Corriganville and other points. Lonaconing has furnished alone over 600 fighters, who come and go in relays. There have been scores of volunteers and some without asking pay, but others have been reluctant.

Many thousands of acres have been burned over Dans Mountain and the fire has advanced close to farms near Westernport and McCoole. The nature of the surface of Dan's Mountain makes the fire exceptionally hard to fight. This rugged section has always been noted for its dens of poisonous snakes. Fighters report that hundreds of snakes have been cremated and they have observed them leaping high in the air in advance of the flames. Rabbits, squirrels, foxes and birds in cover and in nest have been ready prey of the flames.

Home Is Saved From Flames.

The Frostburg Fire Department late yesterday helped to save the home of Samuel Biddington, one-quarter of a mile from the town, where the fire was confined to an area of four acres. About 40 men, under the direction of Forest Warden James Horton, helped to subdue the fire.

The volunteer fire companies of Piedmont and Westernport extinguished three forest fires in the Tri-towns territory the past few days.

Wills Mountain was aflame last night and the fire, visible from Cumberland crept dangerously near the Wills Mountain Inn, a summer resort. It was finally checked by Fire Warden A. M. Lowery, of Mount Savage, and several score of volunteers from Corriganville.

Shenandoah Valley Swelters.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 4 (Special). The drought-stricken Shenandoah Valley sweltered in the highest temperature in four years and the fifth hottest day in 60 years today when the official thermometer at Dale Enterprise soared to 04 degrees in the shade. The highest previous mark this summer was 103.

Aside from four July days in 1926 when the mercury reached 105 degrees, today's temperature was the highest recorded since 1887—the only other occasion in the history of the weather station when 100 degrees was reached.

There are no signs of rainfall to relieve parched vegetation and dwindling water supplies.

Front Royal, Va., Aug. 4 (Special). Union services, in which all the churches of the town took part were in the Methodist Church Sunday night, at which time prayers were offered to God to break the worst drought in the history of this county.

The meeting was well attended, the Rev. H. W. Shannon, of the Presbyterian Church, led the special prayers for rain.

Wheeling Firemen Recalled.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Wheeling firemen on vacations were recalled today because of danger from forest and grass fires here. Five alarms within an hour summoned firemen to fight fires that threatened dwellings.

The severe drought in this section has caused a fire hazard made doubly dangerous by a shortage of water in some districts. Reports from several sources said drinking water was being sold at 5 cents a glass in parts of northern West Virginia.

Townspeople were called to fight a fire in a tract of woodland near Cadiz, Ohio.
